ABOU BEN ADHEM AND THE ANGEL.

BY LEIGH HUNT.

James Henry Leigh Hunt was born at Southgate in 1784. He was an essayist, an author, and a poet, chief among his poems being "The Story of Rimini." He died at Putney in 1859.

Abou Ben Adhem (may his tribe increase!)
Awoke one night from a deep dream of peace,
And saw, within the moonlight of his room,
Making it rich, and like a lily in bloom,
An angel writing in a book of gold—
Exceeding peace had made Ben Adhem bold,
And to the presence in the room he said,
"What writest thou?" The vision raised its head,
And with a look made all of sweet accord,
Answer'd, "The names of those who love the Lord."
"And is mine one?" said Abou. "Nay, not so,"
Replied the angel. Abou spoke more low,
But cheerily still, and said, "I pray thee, then,
Write me as one who loves his fellowmen."
The angel wrote and vanish'd. The next night
It came again with a great wakening light,
And show'd the names whom love of God had bless'd,

ROOSEVELT IDEA OF PRESIDENCY.

Chief Executive Writes Article on Powers and Duties of Office He Now Holds.

MUCH DEPENDS ON MAN.

Views Outlined Before He Had Any Idea of Being Nation's Head Interest Two Continents.

Boston, Mass., Oct. 29.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt's ideas of the powers, responsibilities, and duties of the president of the United States were made public in this city and in Europe today in the form of an article on the presidency written before the chief executive had any idea that one day he would be called to the highest office in the gift of the people.

London newspapers regard the article as one of the most striking and remarkable papers of the year, and they declare that, in the views Mr. Roosevelt set down, is revealed the fact that his is a clear, and strong, and fearless grasp on the duties that have fallen upon him.

Was Written in 1900.

The article was written by Mr. Roosevelt for the Youth's Companion in 1900 when he was governor of New York and before the republican national convention had nominated him for the vice presidency. The editor in a note says:

"The views in this article are those of an outside observer, and not to be regarded as those of an incumbent of the office. It will be clear to all readers that the writer of the article could not have foreseen the place he was destined to occupy before its publication."

Tells Power of President.

Mr. Roosevelt in the article says in part:

"The President of the United States occupies a position of peculiar importance. In the whole world there is no other ruler, certainly no other ruler under free institutions, whose power compares with his. Of course, a despotic king has even more, but no constitutional monarch has as much.

"In the republics of France and Switzerland the president is not a very important officer, at least, compared with the President of the United States. In England the sovereign has much less control in shaping the policy of the nation, the prime minister occupying a position more nearly analogous to that of our president. The prime minister, however, can at any time be thrown out of office by an adverse vote, while the president can only be removed before his term is out for some extraordinary crime or misdemeanor against the nation.

Much Depends on Individual.

"Of course, in the case of each there is the enormous personal factor of the incumbent himself to be considered entirely apart from the power of the office itself.

"The power wielded by Andrew Jackson was out of all proportion to that wielded by Buchanan, although in theory each was alike. So a strong president may exert infinitely more influence than a weak prime minister, or vice versa. But this is merely another way of stating that in any office the personal equation is always of vital consequence.

Must Co-operate with Congress.

"The president and congress are mutually necessary to one another in matters of legislation, and the president and the senate are mutually necessary in matters of appointment. Every now and then men who understand our constitution but imperfectly raise an outcry against the president for consulting the senators in matters of appointment and even talk about the senators 'usurping' his functions. These men labor under a misapprehension.

"The senate has no right to dictate to the president who shall be appointed, but it has an entire right to say who shall not be appointed, for under the constitution this has been made their duty.

Rights to Political Patronage.

"In practice, under our party system, it has come to be recognized that each senator has a special right to be consulted about the appointments in his own state if he is of the president's political party. Often the opponents of the senator in his state do not agree with him in the matter of appointments, and sometimes the president, in the exercise of his judgment, finds it right and desirable to disregard the senator. But the president and the senators must work together if they desire to secure the best results.

"But, although many men must share with the president the responsibility for different individual actions, and although congress must, of course, also largely condition his usefulness, yet the fact remains that in his hands is infinitely more power than in the hands of any other man in our country during the time he holds office; that there is upon him always a heavy burden of responsibility, and that in certain crises this burden may become so great as to bear down any but the strongest and bravest man.

Easy to Give Bad Service.

"It is easy enough to give a bad administration, but to give a good administration demands the most anxious thought, the most wearing endeavor, no less than unusual powers of mind. The chances for error are limitless, and in minor matters, where from the nature of the case it is absolutely inevitable that the president should rely upon the judgment of others, it is certain that under the best presidents some errors will be committed.

"The severest critics of a president's policy are apt to be not those who know most about what is to be done and the limitations under which it must be done but those who know least. In the aggregate quite as much wrong is committed by improper denunciation of public servants who do well as by failure to attack those who do ill.

Respect Due the President.

"There is every reason why the president, whoever he may be and to whatever party he may belong, should be held to a sharp accountability alike for what he does and for what he leaves undone. But we injure ourselves and the nation if we fail to treat with proper respect the man, whether he is politically opposed to us or not, who in the highest office in our land is striving to do his duty according to the strength that is in him.

"We have had presidents who have acted weakly or unwisely in particular crises; we have had presidents, the sum of whose work has not been to the advantage of the republ-

THE WILD EAST SHOW.

LOOKS LIKE AN OFF YEAR.

QUIT COUNCIL TO WRECK.

OAK PARK TRUSTEES TEAR UP OFFENDING TRACK.

Village Board Is in Session When News Comes That the Suburban Company Has Stolen a March and Then Adjournment Is Taken to Allow the Members to Wield Crowbars and Hammers—Make a Bonfire of the Timbers—Policemen Left on Guard.

The Oak Park village board, reinforced by the Oak Park police, resolved itself into a section gang last night and went out to wreck an offending track. At an early hour this morning a big bonfire, started by the trustees, was still burning, and two policemen were on guard to see that no one came to the devastated track's rescue.

While the village board was in session early in the morning a number of excited citizens rushed into the council chamber and reported that a gang of workmen had laid a double track across Oak Park avenue at Harrison street. The workmen were employés of the Suburban railway company, the citizens said. The Suburban railway is leased by the Lake Street Elevated railway company.

No sooner had the news reached the council chamber than the president of the board, Allen S. Ray, was on his feet.

"Will some one please move an adjournment?" he asked. "We'll go and see about this thing."

Trustees Act as Wreckers.

The adjournment was accomplished and in another minute the trustees were rushing from the building in the direction of the scene of invasion. Close at the heels of President Ray were Trustees E. T. Sperry, W. S. Holden, R. C. Cusperton, F. B. McComber, C. R. McHugh, and C. P. Dungan, while Commissioner of Public Works R. A. Carpenter and Village Attorney F. W. Pringle brought up the rear.

When the attacking force reached the point where the track had been laid a council of war was called.

"What right have they to do this?" President Ray demanded of Attorney Pringle.

"None whatever, without a franchise, and they haven't even asked for one," returned the village adviser.

President Ray whisked off his coat and the spirit seemed contagious, for soon all the trustees, as well as Police Lieutenant Swass and Patrolmen Potker and Downs, were attacking the obstruction.

President Ray seized a crowbar and pried out the first spike. Trustee Sperry grabbed a hammer and beat violently on one of the rails, and when this form of aggressiveness proved unavailing, hunted up a shovel and tried to dig the ties up.

Tracks Wrecked; Then a Bonfire.

The policemen, who were better versed in the art of wrecking, wielded sledges with telling effect and upon the offending tracks began to look as if a cyclone had passed that way.

Presently President Ray paused from sheer exhaustion, and while he was resting a new idea entered his mind. He seized one of a number of boards that had been used to form a temporary crossing over the loosely laid tracks, carried it to one side, took out his jackknife, and began to whittle. A pile of shaving was the product of his labor and to this material he applied a match. Then he put the board on top of his little bonfire and others brought more boards and did likewise. Soon it seemed as if the whole neighborhood was ablaze.

By the light of the bonfire the trustees continued their work of devastation till they had completed it to their satisfaction, then they went home, leaving Policemen Potker and Downs on guard. Up to a late hour this morning these sentries were still waiting developments.

Intruding Tracks Cross Others.

The offending tracks were laid diagonally across Oak Park avenue, running in a southeasterly direction and crossing the tracks of the Aurora and Wheaton line, which is the extension of the Metropolitan "L." The tracks of the latter road were cut to allow the crossing of the new tracks, which were laid to the length of 100 feet.

MOROCCO NEAR CIVIL WAR

ANTI-FOREIGN CRUSADE BORDERS ON OPEN REBELLION.

Natives Resent the Progressive Ideas of the Sultan, Who Has Introduced Telephones, Electric Lights, Bicycles, Automobiles, and Railroads—Several Europeans and Americans Hemmed In at Mequinez and Some Fears Expressed for Their Safety.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

GIBRALTAR, Oct. 29.—The anti-foreign crusade in Morocco has become so serious that the revolt threatens to develop into rebellion against the reigning sovereign, Muley Abdul Aziz in favor of his brother, Muley Mohamed.

The present sultan, Muley Abdul Aziz, has incurred the enmity of his subjects by his progressive ideas. He has introduced telephones, electric lights, bicycles, and automobiles, and lately began the construction of a narrow gauge railroad. He is also accused of leaning toward England and of being under the influence of that country.

Native Hatred of Foreigners.

A recent incident has served to increase the anti-English sentiment. A native recently murdered an English missionary at Fez and took refuge in the sanctuary. Under orders of the sultan soldiers invaded the sanctuary, seized the murderer, and shot him in front of the mosque. This incident has aroused the fanatical population to a high pitch of resentment against all foreigners.

Several tribes in the interior are already in revolt. The rebels have seized the caravan routes and travel into the interior is dangerous.

Foreigners' Lives in Danger.

Several foreigners are hemmed in at Mequinez, only thirty-five miles south of Fez. Among them are several Americans. A letter from one of the latter, George C. Reed, received here today, says:

"I may say I consider the situation grave indeed. If the sultan is able to call the loyal tribes to his aid quickly and thoroughly punish the rebellious Girwans, who were the chief movers in the recent raids and robberies, he will make his position all the more secure; but if he does not succeed in doing so the trouble is bound to thicken. If I were in Morocco merely for my health I would make for the coast as soon as possible, though at present we are as securely locked up in Mequinez as rats in a trap."

Sultan's War Against Plotters.

Muley Abdul Aziz has held the throne since 1894 only by constant warfare against the intrigues of his enemies. His father left other sons, older than Abdul Aziz, and they have never ceased plotting against him. In spite of all cabal, however, he has kept his place. He has been a progressive ruler. Early in his reign he abandoned Morocco's traditional policy of isolation and received British and French embassies at Fez. England and France took advantage of their new footing to claim important rights in the Morocco hinterland.

It is well understood here that any serious trouble in Morocco will result in European intervention. Just how the powers interested can agree upon the basis of intervention, and the part to be played by each, is a matter that may cause the diplomats serious concern.

BAD WRECK NEAR OXFORD, OHIO.

THROW BRICKS AT TROOPS

WORKMEN ON SKYSCRAPER ATTACK PITTSBURG SOLDIERS.

Fourteenth Pennsylvania Regiment, Returning from Strike Duty, Assailed in Home City—Laborers on Twenty-first Story of Building Hurl Missiles Into Ranks, Injuring Men and Starting Panic in Crowd—Rifles Raised to Shoot the Rioters.

Pittsburg, Pa., Oct. 29.—[Special.]—The Fourteenth regiment, Pennsylvania National guard, returning from strike duty in the anthracite coal fields, was attacked by workmen, who, from the twenty-first story of the Farmers' bank skyscraper, hurled bricks, heavy pieces of wood, and concrete down upon the soldiers, and for a few moments threw the entire regiment into disorder.

The suddenness of the attack threw two companies of the regiment and the band into panic, which spread through the crowds that packed the narrow thoroughfare. Soldiers were felled to the ground by the missiles. Officers sprang to the sidewalk, and, raising their revolvers, sought an opportunity to shoot the men who were bombarding their men. The privates followed their example and in an instant scores of rifles were pointed upward. The men on the top of the new skyscraper fled across the building for shelter, and after a time the regiment reformed and marched on.

Attacked in Narrow Street.

The Fourteenth regiment had been on duty in the anthracite fields for two months. It arrived home at noon and marched across town, turning into Fifth avenue, the principal street, to march to its armory. The street is narrow and greatly congested. Crowds packed the sidewalks to see the soldiers. At the corner of Wood street the Farmers' bank is erecting a twenty-four story building, and the workmen were engaged in raising the steel above the twenty-first story, 275 feet above the street.

The officers of the regiment had just reached the building when a shower of bricks, heavy pieces of scantling, iron, and concrete began to fall. The regimental band caught the great force of the attack. Half a dozen men were knocked down and many instruments were broken. Accompanying the missiles came curses and hisses.

Crowd Thrown Into Panic.

In a moment the panic stricken crowd on the sidewalks began to push in upon the soldiers, and the men, breaking ranks, scrambled around in wild disorder, seeking an opportunity to get at their assailants.

The officers screamed orders in vain. The crowd had broken through the ranks and the wildest disorder ensued.

Maj. Harry D. Fowler was hit on the shoulder by a scantling. He sprang to the sidewalk and, drawing his revolver, pointed it at the men on the top of the new building. All along the street the men raised their rifles to get a shot at the attacking workmen, who fled to places of safety. The officers then reformed the broken companies and marched them on to the armory.

Deny Knowledge of Attack.

After the troops reached the armory Maj. Fowler returned to the building to investigate. At least fifty pieces of the débris were hurled from the top of the building to the street below. Admission to the building was denied everybody, and no person seemed able to account for the act of the workmen. They not only endangered the lives of the soldiers but also of hundreds of persons on the street and pavements.

The George A. Fuller company has charge of the erection of the building. The company says it has no knowledge of the attack. Supt. Pickett says he will make a rigid investigation and discharge any of the men whom he finds guilty. On the twenty-first floor the men claimed they had been raising a staging and some of the débris had fallen into the street.

No one has been found yet who can identify the men responsible. At the great distance it was impossible to recognize faces.

It is doubtful if any satisfactory explanation can be found.

ZEALOTS MARCH AS ZION PILGRIMS

REFUSE TO TURN BACK.

Winnipeg, Man., Oct. 29.—[Special.]—The 1,600 Doukhobors who, inspired with a desire to convert the world, threw away their riches, set free their cattle, and started on a religious pilgrimage, have left Yorkton, where they camped last night, and are marching on Winnipeg, saying the Lord has told them to go onward.

Four hundred more Doukhobors have deserted their homes and, following the main pilgrimage, are moving on Yorkton and 300 others are preparing to desert their Assiniboia farms and follow.

The Canadian Northwest mounted police are working with the pilgrims under instructions from the government, trying to prevent suffering and to persuade the leaders to turn back. They persuaded the men to leave most of the women and children under the charge of the government officials at Yorkton, but the men will not turn back.

Reasons for the Pilgrimage.

The pilgrimage of the Doukhobors was inspired by a Russian who came into their colony some months ago. He taught them from Romans vii. 22, "that the whole creation groaneth and travaileth together until now, because of sin, and that even brute creation had been made to suffer because of the sins of man."

The conclusion reached was that man ought to bear his own burdens, and let the cattle go free.

Carrying this argument to its extreme conclusion, as the Doukhobors always do, the affected ones drove their stock to the hills, discarded their leather boots, their woolen stockings, leather peaks in their caps, and every other article of clothing which had its origin in animal life, and substituted therefor rubber boots, plaited binder twine shoes, and wooden soles, and clothing made from linen or other vegetable product. Then, attaching themselves to the wagons in place of horses or oxen, they started out to convert the world to their vegetarian belief.

Pilgrims Pour Into Yorkton.

The first contingent of the pilgrims marched into Yorkton shortly after 1 o'clock yesterday, numbering about 1,100, and was followed by a second detachment during the afternoon of 500. The two cavalcades carried a dozen litters constructed of poles, ropes, and blankets, on which the sick or enfeebled were carried. In one litter was an old man, blind in both eyes; another contained an old woman afflicted with chronic rheumatism. Only one girl appeared to be suffering from the exposure to which the travelers must have been subjected.

Other litters contained women with babies, some of whom were born while on the march, the youngest being 3 days old. All were warmly and seasonably clad, with the exception of the three extremists, who were bareheaded and barefooted. The order of marching was irregular, psalms in the peculiar Doukhobor tones being chanted while on the move.

Tell of Their Mission.

The first body halted in front of the immigration hall and were met by C. W. Speers and J. S. Creerar, officials of the interior department.

Mr. Speers asked the leaders why they had come to Yorkton, what was their object, and where they were going.

The reply was that they knew not where they were going, and were seeking "the new light."

Not being able to get a satisfactory answer to his questions, Mr. Speers told them they would not be allowed to travel over the country accompanied with women and children as they had been.

The immigration hall was then opened and the men invited to conduct the women and children, and filing ones into the building, where they were assured that every care and attention would be given. The Doukhobors stood sullen and made no response.

Forced to Accept Shelter.

The statement was again repeated, this time emphatically, that if the women and children were not voluntarily led into the building such a step would be taken by the officials. Corporal Junget and one constable, assisted by spectators, then began the work of housing. When this work had started the Doukhobors began to assist carrying in the babies. One or two women refused to be separated from their husbands, but their resistance was easily overcome. The housing was eventually completed. Besides the immigration hall several other buildings were utilized.

The women of the town generously came to the help of the infants and in other ways showed tokens of sympathy to the Doukhobor women. While the work of housing was progressing the men were psalm singing.

No shelter was provided for the men, who were left to look out for themselves. The whole body was not by any means destitute, as each man was carrying provisions.

Refuse to Turn Back.

After a night of meditation and prayer the Doukhobors announced that they did not desire and will not go back to their villages. All night their plaintive chants could be heard in the village and all night they wrestled in prayer, but they are still fixed in their purpose of christianizing the world.

Agent Speers had an interview with the men and told them what the government was doing was done in kindness, but they would not be allowed to wander about the country in such large bodies and they would have to adopt some other method of bringing the world to their ideas. In the immigrant hall the women were engaged in devotional exercises of singing and scripture reading. They did not seem to be worrying in the least.

Agent Tells of Doukhobors.

"I may say," said Mr. Speers, "that they are a quiet, inoffensive, but sullen people, and when they have made up their minds are determined. They speak highly of Canada and Canadian institutions. They express the most kindly sentiment for the Canadian government and for the courteous treatment they have received since coming to Canada, but they were fully determined to stick to their new theory. I endeavored to point out to them their sheep would be destroyed by wolves," went on Mr. Speers; "that their cattle would perish in our inclement winters, and that it was not an act of humanity or Christianity to turn these domestic animals adrift to hunt for themselves, but they said, 'We have given them to God and God will take care of them.'

Deserted Homes Are Pleasant.

"In passing through the district occupied by these Russian people recently," went on Mr. Speers, "I noticed that their villages are, in all cases, beautifully situated, their homes are well built, of good dimensions, and scrupulously clean. Each house is surrounded by a picket fence and avenues of shade trees have been planted along the long streets; their gardens are excellent. They are building three grist mills along the Swan river. Already they have a trench dug for the mills, the flume is constructed, and also a mill wheel of their own manufacture. They have purchased three sets of grinding stones.

"Some of the villages have as many as 500 acres of excellent crop, but the process of saving the harvest was slow, as only cradles and reaping hooks could be used, because of the Doukhobors' refusal to work oxen or horses. In many cases their season's work will be for naught owing to the work of religious agitators, who have induced these poor people to leave their homes."

Suspect a Hidden Reason.

The officials of the department at Yorkton and Swan river believe that nearly all the Doukhobors affected with this religious frenzy are absolutely sincere, but the impression is gaining strength that the movement is being utilized by the leaders in an attempt to bring pressure on the government so as to have them transferred to a new location.

The government at Ottawa has sent orders that all the wants of the Doukhobors shall be cared for and the government will see they do not suffer in any way. The official reports state that when the Doukhobors freed their horses and other live stock on the ground that God did not create them for labor or for the food of man the agents of the government, in obedience to orders from headquarters, at once began collecting the stock for the purpose of selling the animals to make provisions for any Doukhobors that might become destitute by their ill advised action. The agents first asked the Doukhobor leaders whether they had any objection to the government taking the stock for the purpose stated, and were informed they would not resist the decision of the authorities.

Government Sells the Stock.

When it became clear that the Doukhobors were resolved to proceed further and abandon their holdings the government agents at once proceeded to sell the corralled stock, with the result that a sum of nearly $30,000 in all has been accumulated, out of which the sufferers will be provided for, and should this fall short of the requirements the government will provide any further sum necessary. Beyond this no decision has been arrived at, nor can there be until the next cabinet council is held.

History of the Doukhobors.

The Doukhobor community was founded 150 years ago in the south of Russia by the gathering together of independent thinkers, mainly from among the ignorant peasants, who regarded the dictates of their own consciences or "God's spirit," as they call it, as more binding than the laws of man. Their creed is extremely strict, although within the last half century they have relaxed, and now permit, or tolerate, smoking, eating of fish, and some did eat meat, although the great majority do not, and the present pilgrimage was made to convert the world to their vegetarian beliefs.

In Russia the Doukhobors were, for over 100 years, the victims of the most brutal persecutions for their refusal to participate in the services of the Russian church. They accepted all persecution without complaint and remained ideal citizens.

For a time their conduct earned them the respect of the Russian government, and under more lenient treatment they became more liberal in their beliefs. Then persecution broke even more violently upon them, and they immediately resumed their extreme puritanical life, each who was able contributing to the support of the more severely persecuted.

Tolstoi Aids Them to Canada.

Count Leo Tolstoi, while not a Doukhobor, has been for years an earnest admirer of their mode of life and sympathizes with them in their afflictions. He has written much concerning them.

It was Tolstoi who started the movement of the Doukhobors to northwest Canada, and, from the proceeds of the sales of his books, he helped defray the expense of that great pilgrimage. In that pilgrimage from Russia 7,500 of the strange religious clan came to Canada and settled upon crown lands in Assiniboa, growing rich and prosperous by hard work and thrift.

Friend Talks of Pilgrimage.

Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 29.—[Special.]—Joseph S. Elkinton of this city, who, aided by several influential Quakers, did much to induce the Doukhobors to leave their homes in Russia and settle in Canada, was greatly interested today at the news of the pilgrimage. He spent three months among them last summer and was in person the representative of the men who brought the Doukhobors from Siberia to Canada.

"For generations," said Mr. Elkinton, "these people have had no chance to eat meat, because in Russia the Doukhobors lived on about 2 cents a day. This did not allow of the use of any great quantity of meat. Being unable to buy flesh of any description, the people have gradually become used to an extremely simple diet of cereals and vegetables. They are a living example of the advantages of this diet, too. The men are husky, broadshouldered fellows; the women, tall, plump, and fine looking.

Mr. Elkinton admitted that some had become true vegetarians. He cited instances of how some farmers turned their cattle loose in the roads rather than have about them anything smacking of flesh. These cattle, he added, were impounded by the government. Later they were sold.

Mr. Elkinton said crime was practically unknown among the Doukhobors. In all his experience he had only come upon two cases where even a warning was needed. One of these was the case of a young man whose wife declared he did not give her enough money. A word, he added, was sufficient to induce the husband to better provide for his family.

BANK PRESIDENT MISSING: SAID TO BE $50,000 SHORT.

Financial Institution at Sharpsburg, Ia., Forced to Close Its Doors—No Trace of Head Officer Since Sunday.

Sharpsburg, Ia., Oct. 29.—H. E. Christensen, president of the Farmers and Merchants' bank, a private institution, has been missing since Sunday morning. The funds of the bank are said to be depleted in a sum variously estimated at from $35,000 to $50,000.

Sunday morning Christensen called the cashier, S. L. Bundy, into his private office and stated that he was going to Omaha to make a showing before the banks of that city of the cash of the institution in order to get a better rating. Christensen failed to return and yesterday the bank closed its doors.

The depositors were notified today and held a meeting, with the result that steps were taken to locate the missing man.

Not Seen in Omaha.

Omaha, Neb., Oct. 29.—The sheriff of Taylor county, Ia., arrived in this city tonight in search of H. E. Christensen, the missing bank president of Sharpsburg, Ia. He said that the absence of Christensen was a mystery, and that his friends were unable to learn of his whereabouts. He has not been seen in this city and as far as could be learned tonight has not called at any of the local banks.

MANY TRIALS FOR WOMAN MANAGER

UNION TAILORS STRIKE.

NEW YORK BUREAU CHICAGO TRIBUNE.
New York, Oct. 29.

The management of a playhouse and a dressmaking establishment at the same time keeps Mrs. Robert Osborn busy. The latest announcement from her place of amusement is that persons not bearing introductions and not wearing evening dress may not pass the box office. She has determined also to have "Tommy Rot" rewritten, Paul West rearranging the lines and John W. Bratton the songs. When the revised piece is in readiness Kirk La Shelle will stage it. The present chorus will be pruned, and Harry Connor, Al Hackman and perhaps Bonnie McGinn added to the cast.

Playhouse and Dressmaking Keep Woman Busy.

Conditions at the dressmaking establishment at 361 Fifth avenue are even more lively. She has applied to Capt. Walsh of the West Thirtieth street station for protection for nonunion tailors whom she proposes to put to work this morning. Capt. Walsh says that the protection will be given. Twenty-five union tailors, who have been getting $18 a week and who struck for $20 when they heard that Mrs. Osborn proposed to employ nonunion labor, said they would see to it that the nonunion men did not go to work.

All is not peaceful among the players of Mrs. Osborn's theatrical company either. Another member of the company appearing in "Tommy Rot" fell by the wayside today. This was Fletcher Norton, the baritone. He had a sore throat Tuesday night, but he had received notice to quit and he will not be heard again there.

Miss Grayce Scott, one of the young women in the company, received her notice on Tuesday. "I was told I did not make good nor get any encores," Miss Scott said, "but I don't see how I could get any. I was told I could not have any encores, however great the applause was. So I am quite certain it would be impossible for me to make good under any circumstances so long as there is such a rule."

"It was the Hengler sisters who first objected to the distribution of the applause, and then resigned from the company under pressure from Miss Norma Munro, who is associated with Mrs. Osborn in the management of the playhouse.

Big Lumber Firm Voluntarily Asks Dissolution.

Waterman A. Taft, Edward J. Hathorne, and Ben L. Fairchild were appointed in the Supreme court today temporary receivers for the Export Lumber company on the application of the majority of the company's directors asking for a voluntary dissolution of the corporation. It is believed the move is preparatory to the formation of a trust. The petition says that some $50,000 of liabilities, due and about to mature, cannot be met. The total liabilities amount to $2,358,538 and nominal assets $3,508,920.

The company was incorporated in 1878 and has a capital stock of $500,000. The property to come into the hands of the receivers in this state will not exceed that amount. The principal stockholders are Charles R. Flint, Alden S. Swan, and John D. Carberry. The company has branches at Boston, Mass., Georgetown, S. C., and in Canada.

In the United States Circuit court today Freeman S. Farr and Edward J. Hathorne were appointed temporary receivers of the property of the Atlantic Coast Lumber company within the southern district of New York. The same two temporary receivers were appointed previously by the United States District court for the eastern district of Virginia.

A statement issued today by those interested in the two lumber companies says the various receivers were appointed in connection with the reorganization and contemplated consolidation of the principal lumber companies owning and handling what is known as North Carolina (short leaf) pine.

Dr. Wynkoop, who is Mrs. Douglas Robinson's family physician, said today that his patient was improving. "Mrs. Robinson is not suffering from any disease," he said, "she has a good deal of cold and is somewhat run down, but that is all."

Ex-Valet of Howard Gould Loses His Suit.

A verdict for the defendant, Howard Gould, was given today by the jury in the second trial of a damage suit brought by Frank D. Mowbray, who was at one time Mr. Gould's valet. On the first trial $5,000 was awarded the plaintiff, but on appeal this verdict was set aside and a retrial was ordered. Mowbray claimed that he lost the sight of one eye while in Mr. Gould's employ, and that Mr. Gould had agreed to give him a position for life. Mr. Gould denied that he had made such a promise, and said he had been obliged to dismiss Mowbray. The trial was short, and only the points directly involved in Mowbray's complaint were taken up.

Plans have been filed for a fifteen story office building, 22.8x137.10 feet, to be built for the New York Telephone company at 22 Cortlandt street, adjoining its present nine story exchange. It is to have a front of ornamental terra cotta and will cost $500,000.

Woman Pulled from Bed by Hair 1,800 Times.

Mrs. Mary Farrell, who wants a separation from her husband, Dennis J., told Justice Scott in the Supreme court today that her husband used to pull her out of bed by the hair regularly three times a week, in addition to Sundays and holidays. He had been doing this for twelve years, she said, but she had never summoned up courage enough to leave him or complain until about a year ago.

"How many times altogether did he pull you out of bed this way?" asked Justice Scott.

"I don't know the full number, but it was a regular thing."

"For twelve years?" queried the justice, "and three times a week? That would be about 1,800 times, eh?"

"I suppose you are right, your honor," answered Mrs. Farrell.

The subtreasury paid out today $2,220,000 for gold recently received at San Francisco, the bulk of which came from Australia.

Prices of Best Beef Raised Once More.

Big retail butchers announced today a further rise in the price of "good" beef, veal, and ham. The prices of "high class" porterhouse and sirloin steaks, rounds of beef, and ham have risen two cents, and the price of high class veal has risen one cent since last week. High class retailers, however, are not more jubilant over this than their customers. They are not making the money, they say, since, in order to keep their prices within reason, they have to pare their gain down to the narrowest margin.

The only money maker, it seems, is the seller of medium beef, since the cause of the jump in prices is not scarcity of cattle. Texas beef on the hoof, for example, sold today for the same price as last week, but "good" beef on the hoof sells at half a cent advance.

Young Woman Asleep Ten Days Puzzles Doctors.

Nellie Corcoran, a young woman who has been unconscious at St. Vincent's hospital since Oct. 18, and whose case has baffled the entire medical staff of the institution, as well as other physicians who were called in, was still in the same condition tonight. Except for an occasional sluggish movement of the eyelids, an infrequent twitching of the limbs, and the fact that she still breathes, she gives every appearance of a dead woman.

It was announced today that the budget for the city of New York for 1903 would be $97,119,031, a decrease of $1,500,569 from the expenditures for 1902.

German Women Reward Their Faithful Servants.

The German Housewives' society that is endeavoring to solve the domestic servant problem for its members had its annual distribution of prizes for servants this afternoon and in a meeting afterward several of the members spoke of the thanklessness of philanthropy of the kind in which it is engaged, particularly so far as mistresses are concerned. Each of the twenty-eight servants received a $10 gold piece in a little white box, flowers, and a gilt edged card on which was announced in German that the recipient had given two years of faithful service in one family, and received the reward offered by the society for such service.

The prizes were received with thanks, and when all had been distributed the servants were taken to an adjoining room at the Tuxedo, where coffee and cake were served to them. Six were put on a special honor list, as each had won for the second time the $10 prize.

Chancellor Rules in Suit Against Steel Trust.

Vice Chancellor Emery has filed his decision in the suit of J. Aspinwall Hodge and others to prevent the United States Steel corporation from retiring $200,000,000 of preferred stock and issuing $230,000,000 in bonds. Vice chancellor says: "I will advise that a preliminary injunction be granted restraining the issue of bonds under the resolution upon the terms that if the defendant desires to appeal, the complainant shall consent that the cause be set down for hearing at the next term of the court of errors and appeals." The decision of the vice chancellor agrees with the decision of the court of errors and appeals in the Berger case on all other points.

Johnson of 464 North Eighth street, Philadelphia, entered the Green Point police station tonight and said that he desired to surrender himself as the murderer of Albert O. Latimer, who was shot, apparently by a burglar, in his home in Hancock street, Brooklyn, on the night of July 2 last. The man said that he surrendered because he was stricken with remorse and was weary of wandering about the country. He was locked up and will be arraigned tomorrow morning.

SECOND WIFE OF JOHN G. UNDERHILL SEEKS DIVORCE.

Real Estate Man Who Handled Much Business for C. M. Schwab Makes a Sworn Statement That He Deserted Grace D. Underhill Without Any Provocation on Her Part—Has Continued to Support No. 1 in Comfort—Refuses to Tell Reason.

New York, Oct. 29.—[Special.]—John G. Underhill, who has managed several real estate transactions for President Charles M. Schwab of the steel trust, and whose real estate office is at 435 Fifth avenue, is the defendant in a suit for absolute divorce. The plaintiff, Grace D. Underhill, is his second wife.

After setting forth in her complaint that his income is more than $115,000 annually she charges cruelty and desertion.

The motion to come before the court on Friday will be for counsel fees of $1,000 and monthly alimony of $300 during the pendency of the case.

In her complaint Mrs. Underhill, after stating that she was married to the defendant in New Jersey last June, says that he is divorced from his first wife, who now has possession of their two children. The father, she continues, is so wealthy that he pays the other wife alimony at the rate of $250 a month, besides having provided a trust fund of $50,000 for the two little boys. Mr. Underhill is described as a habitué of the fashionable clubs of the city, having his home most of the time at the Waldorf-Astoria.

Finds Note from First Wife.

On Sept. 2, she says, she found in their apartment at the Hotel Manhattan, while Underhill was away, a letter written to him by his first wife. In that letter it was stated "that Mr. Underhill No. 1 would not allow him to see his children while he continued to live "with the woman" he then supported at the Manhattan. She wrote a note to her husband immediately, demanding that he should establish her good name publicly.

Then he answered, the complaint says, with the assertion that he still loved "Esther and the boys," Esther being the name of the first wife. He added that he had known this all the time, that he could not help it, and that he did not wish to treat her, his second wife, cruelly or unfairly.

Husband Writes Confession.

Then, Mrs. Underhill says, she sent two friends, D. C. Babbitt and Miss Poillon, to Underhill and secured from him the following statement:

"On Thursday, the 26th of June, 1902, at Jersey City, I, John C. Underhill, declare that I married Miss Grace D. Knight, after professing for her my most deep and lasting affection and after most earnest solicitation on my part. I lived with her until Sept. 3, 1902, when, for reasons known only to myself (which I refused to give either to my wife or her father), I deliberately and absolutely deserted her.

Second Wife a Good Woman.

"I wish in this statement to say on my word of honor as a gentleman that my wife, Grace D. Underhill, by her actions has given me no cause for desertion; that she has borne my name and borne herself as my wife with the utmost honor, dignity, and discretion, and that she has been to me a true, loyal, and loving wife.

"In this step I am taking no reflection whatever can rest on her character, her good name, or her position as my wife, either now or at any future time.

"JOHN G. UNDERHILL.

MOLINEUX GAINS A POINT.

COURT FORBIDS READING OF IMPORTANT TESTIMONY.

Prosecution in New York Poisoning Case Rests After Being Beaten in Contention—Justice Excludes the Evidence Given at the Former Trial by Witnesses Who Now Refuse to Appear, Being Outside the State's Jurisdiction.

New York, Oct. 29.—[Special.]—After being beaten in one vital point the prosecution in the trial of Roland B. Molineux rested today. The defense secured its important advantage in the decision by Justice Lambert that the reading of the testimony given at the first trial by Mamie Melando and Detective Farrell, both of whom are beyond the jurisdiction of the court, was inadmissible.

The greater part of the session was devoted to the examination of a handwriting expert, who, like all those who have preceded him, testified that one hand wrote the poison package address, the Barnet and Cornish letters, and letters admittedly written by Molineux. The presentation of the case for the defense is expected to occupy not more than two days, and interest centers in the question whether Molineux will testify in his own behalf.

Excludes Important Evidence.

When the hearing was resumed today Justice Lambert announced that he had decided to exclude the testimony of Mamie Melando and Joseph Farrell, which the prosecution wished to have read to the jury. Both of these former witnesses are in New Jersey, outside the jurisdiction of the court, and cannot be compelled to attend the trial. Miss Melando was the first witness at the first trial to connect Molineux with the blue crescent paper, and Farrell testified that he saw Molineux in Newark with a small package the day the bottle holder was bought in that city.

"Now that your honor has ruled," ex-Gov. Black said, "I want to say that neither I nor any of the other counsel for the defense has done anything, procured anything, or know of anything done to keep witnesses from the state of New Jersey or elsewhere from coming here to give testimony."

"I cannot quite see the relevancy of those remarks," said District Attorney Jerome in reply. "There have been no proclamations and no charges."

Says Molineux Wrote Address.

Assistant District Attorney Osborne called Daniel T. Ames, a handwriting expert, as his first witness today. Ames said, as all the other handwriting experts have said, that the same hand wrote all the Barnet and Cornish letters and the addresses on the poison package. He said he had compared those writings with the conceded writings of Molineux and is convinced that his hand made the disputed writings.

"Counsel for the defense," Mr. Osborne said, "has conceded that one hand wrote the Barnet and Cornish letters and the poison package wrapper."

"Counsel for the defense has conceded nothing of the sort," interrupted ex-Gov. Black.

Justice Lambert's view of the situation sustained the defense. The expert told at great length where he had found similarities in eighty or more exhibits he has examined and compared.

Andrews A. Knowles, cashier of the Mechanics' National bank, was called as an expert in handwriting. He said he had made a careful study of all the writings conceded and disputed and believed that all were made by one hand.

Mr. Osborne announced that the case for the prosecution was closed.

Ex-Gov. Black said he could complete his side of the case in two days.

MISS LOUISE HOGE, CRITICALLY ILL, REFUSES PHYSICIAN.

Her Father, Holmes Hoge of Evanston, Upholds Daughter and Calls in Christian Science Healer — Young Woman Down with Typhoid, While Wedding She Was to Have Attended Is Celebrated—Doubt Blamed for Continued Illness.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 29.—[Special.]—Miss Louise Hoge of Evanston, Ill., the Christian Scientist, who is suffering from an attack of typhoid fever, is critically ill tonight and is unconscious. She is still without medical attendance.

Her father, Holmes Hoge, assistant cashier of the First National bank of Chicago, arrived here today and said his daughter could have the attention of a physician if she requested it. The young woman is conscious for only short periods, but she has not yet called for the assistance of a physician.

Healers Only Attendants.

The parents of Miss Hoge are Christian Scientists and the only person called to administer to their daughter, who is critically ill, is a healer, Mrs. J. T. Linscott. It is said the three scientists spend most of their time in the chamber where the young lady lies praying for her recovery.

During her conscious moments Miss Hoge has refused to take medicine. Her condition is pronounced "satisfactory" by the healer.

"Miss Hoge is getting along well," said John C. Linscott, husband of the healer, when asked about the patient. "Mrs. Linscott is assisting Mrs. Hoge in treating her daughter. Mr. and Mrs. Hoge and their daughter all believe in Christian Science."

It was believed by Dr. and Mrs. Bogan, at whose residence Miss Hoge is visiting, that when the father of the sick girl arrived he would allow medical treatment for her, but he has refused to call in a physician. Mr. Hoge said today that his daughter seemed slightly better, but that she was still "flighty from the fever."

Dr. Bogan in a Dilemma.

The position of Dr. Bogan, who is a well known physician here, is a peculiar one, as it is a violation of the rules of his profession not to give attendance to the sick girl, and yet a breach of hospitality if he does. Miss Floy Smith of Evanston, who was a bridesmaid at Miss Bogan's wedding, telegraphed Mr. Hoge of his daughter's condition, saying her temperature was 103, and asking his direction in the matter. He at once telegraphed Miss Smith to call a physician if his daughter so desired, but if she did not to secure the assistance of Mrs. Linscott, a science healer.

Wedding Not Interrupted.

Miss Bogan's wedding took place today. Miss Hoge attended Mrs. Sommers' school in this city with Dr. Bogan's daughter, who was a bride today, and whose maid of honor she was to have been. While a breakfast to the bridal party was served at the home of the bride today the voices of the guests were hushed and sadness hung over the entire party. Miss Hoge cannot be moved at the present time without the greatest danger to her life, and her parents will remain with her until a change comes.

They suggest that but for the disbelief in the minds of those about them Miss Hoge's case would have been under control before this.

Gen. Ballington Booth and Commanders, in Session at Austin, Decide on a Departure—New Promotion Rules.

Gen. Ballington Booth and the territorial commanders of the Volunteers of America attending the council at Hope hall, Fourteenth street and Austin avenue, have under consideration plans for establishing training schools at San Francisco, Chicago, and New York.

The schools will be for the training of young men and women in evangelistic work. Funds have been raised, and within the next year the schools will be fairly under way.

The council is also revising certain rules regarding the appointment and promotion of officers in the organization. The volunteers differ from the Salvation Army, in that the merit system is used in promotion.

PUBLIC FEARS TO PURCHASE STOCKS

MONEY OUTLOOK IS DARK.

New Yorkers Alarmed Over Situations Developing at London and Paris.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

New York, Oct. 29.—[Special.]—Prices for securities again assumed a position of interest today. Weakness was general and declines more than ordinary. As reflected in the market, the American public is doing nothing at present in the way of purchasing securities, and the situation has come to be one that indicates how thoroughly the hundreds of thousands of persons who either constantly or occasionally dabble in stocks have been convinced that this is a time to refrain from speculation.

In the last ten years the volume of trading in securities on the exchange has indicated a great surplus of wealth, and the spread of stock speculative ventures to business and professional interests which were formerly hardly aware of the existence of such an institution as the New York stock exchange. Reference to it was coupled with the words "stock gambling." But now the rich merchants of New York, Chicago, and St. Louis must be put in the class of those whom they formerly characterized as people engaged in a game of chance.

At the present time indications point toward nothing of consequence in the way of a rise in prices or an increase in volume of business until after the beginning of the new year. Should the congressional elections next Tuesday go strongly in favor of republican candidates it is expected that some improvement in values, even if temporary, will follow. But that once over the situation will be about as it was following the prospective settlement of the coal strike. There was a short advance, followed by apathy, both enforced and voluntary.

Alarm Over European Crisis.

The money situation in Paris and London is beginning to cause some apprehension. The French people, including the peasantry, have for years been accustomed to invest their savings in rentes or French government bonds. No one hears of a French government bond being offered in a foreign country. The issues, as put out, are absorbed by the home people. Surplus French earnings are kept within the boundaries of the state. Now, however, owing to strikes and dissatisfaction with government policies, the savings depositors are beginning to withdraw funds from banks, and this has so affected the exchange situation that London has begun to figure on French bank balances there being drawn down. As may be well known, British banking interests do not feel sanguine over the monetary outlook of the United States, and in consequence British investors are not sending money this way.

In paying out over $20,000,000 for bonds the treasury department at Washington has practically exhausted its ready resources for dealing with the money situation, and little further help may be expected from that quarter. The establishment of new national banks continues to absorb government bonds. The latter are getting so scarce and high priced that their use to secure circulation is even now out of the question, so far as purchasing them in the open market is concerned.

Grain Exports Give Little Relief.

Exports of grain, especially corn, promise to be slow. The corn crop is regarded as being at least one month late, and little in the way of relief can be expected through corn exports before the beginning of the year. The fact that unchartered vessel room here and due to arrive now amounts to nearly 500,000 tons indicates how slow is expected to be the movement of grain.

The price of wheat as viewed from existing conditions promises to be high enough to render exports of that cereal a matter of conjecture as to volume. The demand from Australia, as shown by exports of the Pacific coast, is a factor making for higher prices, although, according to London advices, the home crop there is not reassuring.

Bear Attack in Market.

Today's stock market was the result of a concerted attack by operators who figure that as prices would not move up they could be moved down. There was selling pretty much all around the room, and as there was no especial buying power prices easily went off. The significance lies in the fact that the loss in values was not due to inherent conditions, but merely to the trading element which makes prices occasionally without regard to fundamental conditions.

Money was a little easier, some time loans being negotiated at 5½ per cent. But there is neither demand for funds nor considerable offerings of them.

In harmony with what was pointed out a few days ago to the effect that the coal strike had brought about an increased demand for oil, the Standard Oil company has advanced the price of the crude product to a total of 9 cents in the west and a little more in the east within the last thirty days.

Not Dependent on Schwab.

According to dispatches from abroad, it is found that President Charles M. Schwab is betraying the symptoms of a disordered nervous system. No one here is willing to speak positively about his condition, but the United States Steel corporation is not leaving any business untransacted through any presumed necessity of awaiting either the return or advice of Mr. Schwab. He is much out of the corporation, except in the matter of salary.

Stories reached here from Chicago today to the effect that the Union Traction company finances were to be reorganized. Such announcements, as well as stories of consolidation plans, may be safely accepted as being the suggestion of those uninformed. Nothing is contemplated of an important nature until after the matter of franchise extensions shall have been determined.

Purchase Stock in Chicago.

S. B. Chapin & Co. purchased today 2,000 shares of United Boxboard stock in the Chicago market. The order to be executed was for 1,000 common and 1,000 preferred. The buying resulted in the advance of only ½ a point in either issue. Apparently there is a liberal amount of the stock for sale. Today's buying was understood to be for inside sources. But the boxboard deal has been an unsatisfactory one from its inception. The promoters seem to have a fair proposition in the matter of earnings, but, in one way and another, the combination has been poorly hitched up.

There is talk of closing the New York stock exchange on next Monday as well as Tuesday.

STELLA TELLER SET FREE BY AN INDIANA COURT.

Judge at Valparaiso Decides Niece of Colorado Senator Need Not Return to Insane Asylum.

Valparaiso, Ind., Oct. 29.—[Special.]—Stella Josephine Teller, the niece of United States Senator Teller of Colorado, after three months' confinement in a private insane asylum and a sensational escape which attracted the attention of the people of three states, is tonight a free woman.

After a legal battle, which occupied the attention of the Circuit court and a number of lawyers all day, Judge Gillett decided this evening that the young woman cannot be legally taken back to the private asylum at Jacksonville, Ill., where she was placed a half year ago at the instance of her millionaire uncle, John Teller of Denver, Colo. She was accordingly set free. The Jacksonville authorities say they will appeal to the Supreme court.

Friends of Miss Teller declare their belief in her sanity, but admit that she has a peculiar delusion. She claims to be an expert in locating oil and minerals beneath the surface of the ground. She is a bright, entertaining conversationalist, and explained her theory so plausibly that she succeeded in interesting several Valparaiso parties in locating oil wells.

How She Came to Valparaiso.

Miss Teller came to Valparaiso by accident of circumstances. When she made her escape from the Jacksonville institution she went first to Chicago, where she boarded a train for Cleveland, intending to see men connected with the Standard Oil company. She had enough money to bring her only as far as Valparaiso and was put off the train.

She went to the home of Mrs. Anderson on College hill, a former acquaintance. Here she was given a home. She lived quietly under an assumed name and her identity might not have become known had she not started the damage suit against her uncle.

Colorado Relatives Are Silent.

Denver, Colo., Oct. 29.—[Special.]—All the members of the Teller family now in the city decline to discuss the case of Miss Stella Teller. They only say it is a family story that has harassed them for years.

CAPITOL DOME SEEN IN MIRAGE.

Citizens of Washington See Gigantic Sky Picture of Building in Southern Heavens.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 29.—[Special.]—Scientific circles in Washington are discussing tonight the mirage of the capitol dome which appeared in the sky this afternoon to the south of the city. Thousands of residents of Washington saw the manifestation. The mirage was as clear and distinct as if painted with a gigantic brush on a canvas sky, and showed the dome of the capitol building, surmounted by the goddess of liberty at a point in the heavens opposite the site of the building.

The sky picture was vastly enlarged, covering an immense area of the heavens, and the white dome was thrown in sharp relief against the deep blue of the upper atmosphere. The weather bureau officials had their attention called to the phenomena by telephone.

The mirage lasted only seven minutes, and then did not fade away gradually, but vanished as suddenly as it had appeared.

This is believed to be the first instance in this country of a sky picture, clear in detail and enlarged in size, and apparently within a short distance of the object of which it was a reflection.

OMAHA CIGAR MEN ORGANIZE.

Form a Branch of the Retailers' Association and Begin a Fight on Trust Made Goods.

Omaha, Neb., Oct. 29.—[Special.]—The work of organizing the retail cigar dealers throughout the country in opposition to the trust has been extended to Omaha and South Omaha. Last evening 450 dealers from both towns formed a branch of the Retail Cigar Dealers' Association of America, and will at once institute a fight against trust made goods. P. H. Philbin was elected president. In the organization are 36 cigar stores, 68 drug stores, and 300 saloons.

HORSE PAINTED FOR THE SHOW.

MOORE "GETS THE GATE."

President of the Association Sent Out for Getting Tandem Team Tangled.

[BY HENRY TEN EYCK WHITE.]

There was a little cheating going on at the horse show yesterday in animals whose hind ankles were white being treated to a coat of black paint, artistically applied a short time before entering the ring. The job was done at a stable not far from the Coliseum, and passed undetected by the argus eyed judges and the equally keen veterinarians, all of whom examined the noble steed more or less closely. I do not know what the horse show punishment for doing a Rembrandt stunt on a black gelding is, but as the artist thought he was doing his boss a good turn, and the horse got no ribbon, the waters of Lethe may be permitted to cover the incident, only the disquieting fact that horse show judges are not omniscient remaining.

President Moore "Gets the Gate."

Another interesting incident of the day was the fact that President J. H. Moore of the Horse Show association "got the gate" in the afternoon tandem class. Mr. Moore twice succeeded in tying his horses up in such a hard knot that it took grooms galore to unravel them, after which the judges were reluctantly compelled to wave the whole outfit into the oblivon of the hitching room.

This contest, by the way, was won by W. H. Moore's tandem, Disturbance and Drummer Boy, who got the blue ribbon. Mr. Moore's other entry, Comet and Actress, driven by one of his men, was given second prize, and the Valentine pair that did so well Tuesday night and were overlooked by the judges were placed third. They got a lot of applause, however, from the spectators, all of whom seemed to know that the cocky little leader and the capable wheeler had been given the worst of it on a previous occasion. Judge Moore's victory yesterday, however, was deserved, his pairs being the best.

Philip Armour Drives Winner.

Little Philip Armour, who made his first appearance in the show ring, won a creditable position in the class for harness ponies, being up behind Patsey, entered in the name of his cousin, Lolita Armour. There were nine in the ring, and the other two prizes went to C. E. Bunn, who breeds ponies and, of course, makes a specialty of exhibiting them to advantage. Miss Mildred Newgass, the only girl who made an entry, drove a handsome spotted pony that had excellent manner but was a little shy on action and spirit. Jack Kohl, son of the theater manager, also had a fair little horse, but the ribbon winners were the best of the lot.

The coach horse stallions made a fine showing and interested the crowd, although they were exhibited without the aid of attractive vehicles such as serve to accentuate the good points and beauty of the harness horses. Ruth, that was easily first in this class, is an Oldenburg, and this is his third winning year at the Chicago show. He was first in his class at the Pan American exposition, and is a fine specimen of his breed, besides being perfectly broken and the best mannered thing in the ring.

Baby Again Fails of Place.

In the class for park horses, decided during the afternoon, Judge Moore and A. C. Burrage of Boston came together with Perfection and Coronado, there being a dozen other entries, among which was The Baby. But this year Mr. J. H. Moore's favorite does not seem to be up to his 1901 form, as he was defeated Monday night in the Rector trophy competition and yesterday got no place in the park class, Perfection being first and Coronado second, while Mr. Arthur Meeker's classy looking mare Trix was placed third. Mr. Burrage, who drives his own horses, is a first class reinsman, which cannot be said of some of the other amateur whips, and his style pleases the audience.

Swift & Co. and Libby, McNell & Libby were first and second in the contest for the $100 prize offered for the best two horses shown to delivery wagon with load. The Boston Store, Kohlsaat & Co., and the Fleischman Floral company also competed, and the last named firm had a showy pair of chestnuts. They were, however, "given the gate" because of banged tails, which were thereby declared not suitable for delivery horses. The Swifts got the bide with a fine pair of Percherons, while the Libby pair, Bess and Donald, belong in the firm's six horse team that will show Saturday night against similar exhibits from the other big packing houses.

Showing of Virginia Hunters.

The Virginia hunters make a fine showing each day, and their jumping of the hurdles and barp is worth seeing, albeit so prolonged at each session as to verge on the tiresome. They are all rangy, well bred looking animals, and, while none of them is of what would be called fashionable pedigree, there is in each enough of the blood of the thoroughbred to make them brave, agile, sure footed, and speedy, which are the prime requisites of a hunter the world over.

Down in Virginia the hunter is held in great esteem. They are bred thus: Beginning with the common barnyard mare of commerce, that animal is mated with a half thoroughbred horse, and the fillies from such unions, bred to strictly thoroughbred stallions, throw hunters. At Warrenton, Va., the home of the hunter, no less than fourteen thoroughbred stallions, some of them stake winners on the turf, are kept for breeding hunters, and they are rapidly establishing a type of pleasure horse that is coming into general use where hunting can be done. Several of the animals brought to the present show have been sold since arrival, Mr. J. H. Moore taking a half dozen.

Studebaker Cup to W. H. Moore.

The event of the evening from the standpoint of value was the contest for the Studebaker cup, a piece of plate valued at $500 and offered for a pair of horses to be shown before a brougham. As horses were to count 30 per cent, harness 20 per cent, carriage 30 per cent, and servants' livery 20 per cent, the winning of the prize meant something more than the mere possession of a high stepping pair. Outside of the Moore brothers the only contestant was Arthur Caton, who finished third, W. H. Moore being placed first and his brother second. All the outfits were up to date in every way, and the judge must have won on equipments, as his brother's pair was easily the best.

Again the brothers had a tussle for first honors in the road coach class, but this time the positions were reversed as to first and second place. The judge showed four wonderfully fetching horses in a quartet of Orloffs bought by him some months ago on their importation from Russia. Each steed had a huge chrysanthemum fastened to his bridle, the driver's coaching coat was similarly decorated, and as the handsome coach swung round the ring with lamps alight and a red faced servitor tooting a long horn with intense earnestness, the effect was certainly fine, and an added touch of the spectacular was given by the presence of a cock horse, a mate in color and action for the other four, ridden by a boy. But it was J. H. Moore who was placed first, the Tichenor coach securing third place.

Large Field for Speedway Cup.

The speedway cup for trotters brought out a large field. A piece of plate was the trophy, and it will go to St. Louis, Robert Aull's bay gelding, Commander Baker, having the blue ribbon affixed to his headstall after every nag had been shown at his best.

LOLITA ARMOUR AND PRIZE WINNING PONY.

Probably the happiest owner of a prize winner at the horse show yesterday was Lolita Armour, the little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Ogden Armour. Patsy, her winner in the class for harness ponies, was driven by young Philip D. Armour. The pony is the pet of the Armour family, and beside being a fine performer in harness, is an excellent saddler. The above photograph shows little Miss Armour riding Patsy.

Viometa, a handsome chestnut mare from Denver, was pronounced next best, and Director Chief, hailing from Chicago, took the tail end honors.

SOCIETY AT THE HORSE SHOW.

Some of Those Who Watched the Display from the Boxes and Promenade.

Many of the occupants of the boxes at the horse show last night came late from the Dana-Stone wedding at St. James', but before the evening was over the crowd presented the same brilliant appearance as other nights. Miss Hazel Martyn made her first appearance at the show, accompanied by Mrs. Harold McCormick. Both wore black gowns. With them were Robert McCormick and Frederick McLaughlin.

The Lake Forest colony was well represented among the exhibiters with a correspondingly increased interest from the boxes. Mrs. Chatfield-Taylor's hunter, Lightfoot, and Mrs. Jarvis Hunt's saddle horse, Lunz, were in the arena, and the owners with their friends eagerly watched the struggle for blue ribbons. Mrs. Chatfield-Taylor wore a pale blue cloth gown, made with close fitting jacket, trimmed with black, and a big blue hat. Miss Marion Austin was in black velvet, and her mother, Mrs. F. C. Austin, wore a violet colored gown and hat.

With Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Field Jr. were Mrs. Lockwood Honoré, Emerson Tuttle, and William Pollack. Mrs. P. A. Valentine was absent for the first time, but Mrs. Vernon Booth had a party in the adjoining box. Mrs. W. J. Chalmers and Miss Joan Chalmers both wore black, Mrs. Chalmers, velvet, and Miss Chalmers, net and ribbons, with big black lace hat with a touch of pale blue.

Miss Catherine Eddy was with Mrs. Thomas Bellas and Miss Emmeline Bellas. Mrs. A. S. Trude and Miss Cecelia Trude were with a south side party. Miss Trude's gown was one of the most admired of the evening. It was a combination of white and pale blue, and the hat was a flat white beaver, trimmed with blue ribbons.

ROOSEVELT ON HIS DUTY.

CHIEF EXECUTIVE WRITES OF THE PRESIDENCY.

Article Produced Long Before He Was in Line for the Highest Honor in the Land Gives His Ideas Regarding Powers, Responsibilities, and Limitations of the Position—Much Due to the Man—Army Not a Menace to Liberty.

lic, but we have never had one concerning whose personal integrity there was so much as a shadow of a suspicion, or who has not been animated by an earnest desire to do the best possible work that he could for the people at large.

"Of course, infirm purpose or wrong headedness may mar this integrity and sincerity of intention, but the integrity and the good intentions have always existed. We have never hitherto had in the presidential chair any man who did not sincerely desire to benefit the people and whose own personal ambitions were not entirely honorable, although as much cannot be said for certain aspirants for the place, such as Aaron Burr.

Corruption Rare in High Places.

"Corruption, in the gross sense in which the word is used in ordinary conversation, has been absolutely unknown among our presidents and has been exceedingly rare in our president's cabinets. Inefficiency, whether due to lack of will power, sheer deficiency in wisdom, or improper yielding either to the pressure of politicians or to the other kinds of pressure which must often be found even in a free democracy has been far less uncommon. Of deliberate moral obliquity there has been little, indeed.

Army Not Menace to Liberty.

"The war department was utterly neglected for over thirty years after the civil war. Neither the regular officer nor the regular soldier takes any part in politics, as a rule, so that the demagogue and bread and butter politician have no fear of his vote; and to both of them, and also to the cheap, sensational newspaper, the army offers a favorite subject for attack.

"So it often happens that some amiable people really get a little afraid of the army, and have some idea that it may be used some time or other against our liberties.

"The army never has been, and, I am sure, it never will be, or can be, a menace to anybody save America's foes, or aught but a source of pride to every good and far sighted American.

"When an emergency like that caused by the Spanish war arises, the secretary of war becomes the most important officer in the cabinet.

Merit Recognized After Years.

"During the president's actual incumbency of his office the tendency is perhaps to exaggerate not only his virtues but his faults. When he goes out he is simply one of the ordinary citizens, and perhaps for a time the importance of the rôle he has played is not recognized. True perspective is rarely gained until years have gone by.

"Altogether, there are few harder tasks than that of filling well and ably the office of president of the United States. The labor is immense, the ceaseless worry and harassing anxiety are beyond description."

London Paper Praises Article.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

LONDON, Oct. 30, 3 a. m.—The Post this morning gives the leading position to Theodore Roosevelt's article on "The Presidency of the United States." The article occupies two columns and a half. The Post says it is a lucid, vigorous exposition of the functions and responsibilities of the presidency, and it regards the article as a pledge against hasty judgments of the conduct of the president. The Post editorially says it is a characteristic specimen of Roosevelt's forcible style, and will be widely read in this country, where the writer's influence is unique. No previous holder of the office of president of the United States has so completely commanded respect as this robust specimen of American manhood.

AUSTRIAN DEFENDS MULLAH.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

ROME, Oct. 29.—Karl Inger, the former Austrian officer, who is said to have acted as chief lieutenant of the Mad Mullah in Somaliland, in a letter to the Corriere Della Sera accuses the British of endeavoring to prevent the Somalis from establishing commercial relations with Europe. He expresses the hope that Italy will not aid England in any campaign against the Mullah, but will establish commercial relations with the rich region controlled by the Mad Mullah, who, he says, is a friend of Italy.

KRUGER SEVERE IN HIS CRITICISM

CALLS MILNER A TOOL.

Cecil Rhodes He Characterized as Curse of the Transvaal People.

LONDON, Oct. 30, 3 a. m.—A second installment of extracts from the "Kruger Memoirs" was published today. It is understood that the memoirs do not go deeply into political or diplomatic aspects or advise the Boers as to the best policy to be pursued after Mr. Kruger's death. A striking feature of the memoirs is a revelation of the jealousies which existed before the war between inhabitants of the Transvaal and the Orange Free State and the Cape Colony Boers, which prevented anything like a satisfactory mutual understanding.

Mr. Kruger closes his memoirs with these words: "I am convinced that God will not forsake his people, even although it often appears so, and I acquiesce in the will of the Lord, knowing he will not allow an afflicted people to perish. The Lord hath all hearts in his hand and he turneth them whithersoever he will."

Frank Opinions Expressed.

The memories are a sketchy summary of past events with Mr. Kruger's personal comments thereon.

The installment of the memoirs published by the Times this morning contains some interesting lights concerning Mr. Kruger's opinion of various men prominent in south African history. The ex-president was once invited to meet Sir Bartle Frere. He replied he would be quite willing to do so if he were told which Frere it was. He declared he knew Four Freres, and explained this remark by describing different aspects of Sir Bartle Frere's character, as presented by blue books, etc., saying some of his characteristics were friendly, while others were inimical to the Boers.

Especially Severe on Rhodes.

Mr. Kruger describes the "Jesuitical" Cecil Rhodes as the curse of south Africa. He says: "No matter how base or contemptible, be it lying, bribery, or treachery, all and every means were welcome to him."

Lord Milner he describes as "a typical judge, autocratic beyond endurance."

Mr. Kruger declared that Colonial Secretary Chamberlain was undoubtedly the late Cecil Rhodes' accomplice in the Jameson raid, and that Mr. Chamberlain appointed Lord Milner British high commissioner of south Africa with the direct of intention of driving matters to extremes.

"This tool of Mr. Chamberlain," says Mr. Kruger, "carried out his mission faithfully and turned south Africa into a wilderness."

British policy in general, the former president of the Transvaal sums up in the following sentences:

Excuse for War Was Sought.

Mr. Kruger declares that the Transvaal national union was under Cecil Rhodes' paramount influence from its inception, and describes it as having from the outset used the demand for the franchise as a cloak for designs against the republic. He describes how, after the Jameson raid, when the republic was practically defenseless, he became convinced of the necessity of preparing for war and gradually accumulated war materials.

This was especially the case after the British parliamentary inquiry into the raid, which, Mr. Kruger says, showed Mr. Chamberlain's complicity. Mr. Kruger contends that his institution of reforms in 1899 probably startled Mr. Chamberlain and impelled Great Britain to hurry on the crisis for fear of losing a pretext for war.

The author of the memoirs asserts that the signatures to the petitions of British subjects in the Transvaal against the so-called grievances were obtained by the greatest fraud, and describes how the franchise remained the question at issue until, writes Mr. Kruger, "in spite of all concessions, all patience, and the indulgence of the republic, war broke out."

All Depended on Kruger.

Mr. Kruger says that enormous demands were then made upon his industry; all persons came to him for directions, advice, or comfort. There was not a night during which he slept undisturbed, and when the burghers grew discouraged he himself went to the commandos to restore the confidence of the combatants.

The former president writes that he looked upon the war not so much as an event but as a sign of the times.

Reviews German Hostility.

Sir Horace Rumbold, formerly British ambassador at Vienna, in an article in the November National Review reviews the Anglo-German hostility displayed during the Boer war. He declares it to be his firm belief that the Germans continue to be potentially England's most unrelenting and dangerous foes, and that the pro-Boer movement was only an indication of the long existing and deeply rooted antipathy to Great Britain.

Even the Kaiser's correct attitude is regarded by shrewd observers as an international administration irritant to the recalcitrant body, which tenaciously opposed his naval schemes by bringing home to them that they have only themselves to thank for what they chose to consider unworthy truckling to hated England.

BOER LEADER HURT IN LONDON.

Delegate Wessels Knocked Down by an Omnibus—Two of His Ribs Fractured.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

LONDON, Oct. 29.—The Boer delegate, Wessels, met with an accident last Sunday during the thanksgiving services at St. Paul's for the recovery of King Edward. Wessels was standing with a Boer general in the churchyard of St. Paul's, when he was knocked down by an omnibus.

It was not thought at first that he had been hurt, but it was discovered afterward that two ribs had been fractured. He will be about again in a few days.

A dispatch from Pretoria says Commandant Chris Botha died at Kokstad this morning.

PRISON FOR IRISH EDITOR.

Appeal Court Confirms Sentence of Two Months Imposed Upon McHugh, M. P.

SLIGO, Ireland, Oct. 29.—The sentence of two months' imprisonment with hard labor imposed Oct. 16 on Mr. McHugh, M. Mr. McHugh refused to give an undertaking not to publish boycott matter in his paper.

SULTAN TOO PROGRESSIVE FOR SUBJECTS, THREATENED WITH LOSS OF HIS THRONE.

THE SULTAN AS A CYCLIST.

A number of tribes of Morocco are in armed revolt against the introduction of modern inventions, such as the telephone and railroad, and an attempt may be made to dethrone the present sultan, Muley Abdul Aziz, who introduced the offending rails and wires, and place his brother on the throne. The sultan, besides introducing the telephone and railroad, has shown his subjects the use of the automobile and bicycle. He has several automobiles and a number of bicycles in his own barn, and is often seen using one or the other in the streets of the capital.

PARIS MUSICIANS STRIKE.

THEATERS TO BE WITHOUT ORCHESTRAS AFTER NOON TODAY.

Managers Insist That No Pay Shall Be Allowed for Rehearsals and the Orchestra Players' Union Insists on Extras and Will Refuse to Return to Their Places Until Their Demands Are Complied With — Mechanical Pianos Will Be Used.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

PARIS, Oct. 29.—Twelve hundred musicians employed in the Paris theaters and concert halls will go on a strike tomorrow noon. Most of the theaters will substitute mechanical pianos for the striking orchestras, while others will try and open with nonunion musicians. The Grand Opera and the Opera Comique are not affected.

The decision to strike is the result of a protracted conflict with the managers of the theaters over wages and extras for rehearsals and matinées.

Want Extra Pay for Rehearsals.

The managers insisted that the artists rehearse free and the musicians should also do so. The strike effects most of the theaters of the city. The managers rely on nonstrikers outside the organization to win the fight.

The musicians have been forbidden to treat individually with the theaters, and they were directed to assemble tomorrow at midday at the Labor exchange with their instruments, prepared to resume playing if the theaters yield to their demands. The public is keenly interested in the proposed strike, because if it goes into effect it threatens to leave Paris without music.

Will Try Mechanical Pianos.

The directors of the theaters have been interviewed and declare they will not yield.

The Cluny theater and the Folies Dramatiques have already discharged their orchestras. The Nouveau Circus announces that the striking musicians will be replaced by nonstrikers. The Concert Parisien has put in pianos played by electric batteries. Only a few theaters show a disposition to temporize with the musicians.

The leading singers in Paris share the anxiety of the public, declaring it is impossible for them to sing without orchestral accompaniments.

POLITICAL RIOTS IN PORTO RICO

Registration Closes After Another Day of Fighting Between Federals and Republicans.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

SAN JUAN, Porto Rico, Oct. 29.—The registration of voters closed yesterday. Practically there was no registration of voters by the federals, the members of that party being intimidated by the violence of the republicans. Riots are reported from many towns and violence was used everywhere.

The rumor that the federals were shut out at San Lorenzo, where a mob attacked the police, with the result that two of the rioters were killed and fifteen men, among whom were three policemen, were wounded, is also confirmed. It is added that the mob entered the town carrying a corpse at the head of the procession.

The police attempted to disperse the participants in a fight at Patillas, a federal town, which was invaded by a large mob of republicans from Guayama, which forcibly took possession of the booths, shut out the federals, and registered the whole of the Guayama nonresidents party. In the shooting and rioting which ensued four men were badly wounded, including Corporal Cepero, of the insular police.

At Ponce many shots were fired, but there were no casualties. Minor disorders, stabbings, and other woundings have been reported from other towns.

Operators Said to Refuse Ministry's Negotiations—Miners Discouraged, Are Returning to Work.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

PARIS, Oct. 29.—The miners' federation, it is stated, has learned that the mineowners have not agreed to treat with the striking miners or respond to the government's offers of arbitration.

In the meantime reports received here from the mining districts show that the miners are becoming discouraged and returning to work. The resumption of work is so general that the strike is considered over in several leading centers.

Socialist deputies will interpellate the government on the subject in parliament tomorrow.

DELAY IN MORGAN PLANS.

Motion to Reinstate New Yorker's Projects Withdrawn on Technicality.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

LONDON, Oct. 30, 3 a. m.—"The house of commons will not allow public interests to be made counters in a game in which it is proposed to make the London underground rapid transit railroads the pawns for the chessboard of Wall street."

This declaration by Sir Lewis MacIver was the keynote of the debate in the house of commons last evening when the motion for the renewal of the parliamentary status of J. Pierpont Morgan's proposed system of underground railroads came up for discussion. The opposition to the motion was based on technical grounds, and it was finally withdrawn because it involved a grave breach of parliamentary procedure.

Morgan's Project Is Popular.

The overwhelming sentiment in favor of the Morgan project was so obvious, however, that there is little doubt that parliament will grant the required franchise after the lapse of proper time, probably a year.

It is well understood in parliamentary and city circles that the Morgan syndicate has been the victim of a breach of faith, necessitating a delay, but not the abandonment of its projects. This breach of faith was committed by the promoters of the West London part of the scheme and not by the Yerkes group. The latter simply bought up part of the enterprise for paralleling their district railway, paying therefor an enormous price, and then temporarily killing the whole enterprise.

Angry Over Sharp Practice.

The debate in the house of commons last night evoked unprecedented plain speaking. The participants, while differing on other things, agreed that the interests which promoted the West London scheme obtained parliamentary sanction and then sold it behind the back of their agreement, and had been guilty of the most discreditable sharp practice.

Thomas Ashton, who brought the business before the house, said he doubted if ever before such a dirty transaction had been done by parties who had come before parliament. Morgan & Co., he added, had been the victims of a dishonorable transaction and parliament had been tricked.

Means Delay for London.

James W. Lowther, chairman of the committee, to whom the members later appealed for an opinion, said he was extremely sorry for the promoters of the Morgan scheme because they had been badly treated, but the committee had held there should be a general through scheme from the east to west, and he did not think the house could recommit the present bill. He gave this advice with great regret because he felt it would delay a solution of the problem of London traffic once more, and also because he felt that next session the committee would have to again go through a great mass of work before it could find a way out of the difficulty.

Calls It Unsavory Scandal.

Sir Lewis MacIver, who had presided over the committee which considered the scheme, said the unsavory details of the transaction had excited a scandal which was unprecedented in the annals of the committee. The scheme had been wrecked by a stock exchange wrangle. The house would not allow public interests to be made counters in a game in which it was proposed to make the London roads the pawns for the chess board of Wall street. He was satisfied, in view of the difficulties involved, that the committee was unable within the power of the house to satisfy Mr. Ashton, who had accurately stated the case. He believed the whole matter should be relegated to the next session, when a start would be made with a clean sheet and fair play for all parties.

Public Ownership Not Popular.

The debate did not evoke much support for the desire of the London county council to enter the field as the authorized constructor of the tube system, for, speaking of the capital of the enterprise, Mr. Ashton pointed out that the English, as a nation, had sent capital to assist the enterprises of other nations, and were they, he asked, to turn round and say they would not have American capital in their institutions when they could not get English capital.

The debate was watched by representatives of all the underground railway interests in London. Among the members of parliament there were some exhibitions of impatience that the time of the house should be wasted over the disputes of rival capitalists.

Protest Against Americans.

Referring to the matter editorially, all the London papers this morning express satisfaction with the result of last night's debate and protest against American capitalists being permitted to exploit the rich field of London transit.

Discussion of the question whether the county council should undertake the work follows political lines, the conservative papers being against and the liberal papers in favor of the municipalization of transit.

It cannot be doubted, however, that recent events have strengthened enormously the claim of the county council at least to have a greater voice in the matter than hitherto.

CONCERN OVER ADEN FRONTIER

Cabinet at Constantinople Sends Memorial to Sultan Objecting to Removal of Troops.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

LONDON, Oct. 30, 3 a. m.—The Constantinople correspondent of the Times says that a cabinet council on Sunday was wholly occupied with the Aden frontier affair. A memorial was sent to the sultan, the purport of which was that the Turks object to the withdrawal of any troops until the frontier question with Great Britain is settled, while England demands the withdrawal of the troops shall precede the frontier negotiations.

Announced in Berlin That the Emperor Will Send Personal Representative to the Ceremony of Unveiling the Statue of Frederick the Great at Washington—King Leopold May See the St. Louis Exposition—Doom of German Tariff Bill.

[Copyright, 1902: By the New York Tribune.]

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

LONDON, Oct. 30, 3 a. m.—It is announced from Berlin that Prince Henry of Prussia, accompanied by Field Marshal Count von Waldersee, will visit the United States next May as the Kaiser's personal representatives at the ceremony of unveiling the statue to Frederick the Great.

The further statement is made this morning that King Leopold of Belgium will cross the Atlantic in 1904, and that after a visit to the exposition at St. Louis will make a tour of the United States.

Delay in Morgan Project.

The motion to recommit the bill granting a franchise to the Morgan syndicate for the construction of a system of underground electric railways was debated for an hour in the house of commons last evening and eventually withdrawn.

The two American syndicates by their attempts to outmaneuver each other have excited a feeling of distrust against foreign intervention and investment in metropolitan transit projects. There are now three electric "tubes" in operation in London and three more are under construction, but little progress has been made during the last two years toward a solution of the problem of electric transit.

Yerkes' Temporary Victory.

Yerkes, who now has control of six undertakings, including the district railway as the central link, has contrived to throw out the combined trunk scheme of the Morgan syndicate and United Tramways company from Hounslow and Hammersmith to the city and Palmers Green via Picadilly and Charing Cross. In this way he has released the district company from competition by a parallel line and has been left at liberty to perfect and round out his own system at discretion.

The London county council is bestirring itself and promises to promote a project for municipal work of a comprehensive scope next session. There is little reason for hope that the conservative majority in parliament with the Times behind it will sanction so costly an enterprise on the lines of municipal socialism, but it is evident that the American syndicates through the efforts to jockey each other are creating strong prejudice against themselves.

The following members of the council of the London chamber of commerce have been appointed to attend the opening of the New York chamber on Nov. 11: Albert Rollit, Sir Vincent Barrington, Gen. Doom of German Tariff Bill.

The passage by the German reichstag of the amended schedule of minimum duties on imported cattle has raised in the sharpest possible manner the issue recently defined by the German chancellor. The German government cannot accept this agrarian schedule without being fatally embarrassed in negotiating next year for a renewal of commercial treaties with various countries. The German tariff bill, in the drastic form in which it is now left, cannot be enacted. The bundesrath will reject it even if it be forced through its final stages in the reichstag. The government will probably prefer to have the bill perish from inanition rather than order its rejection, and dissolve the reichstag. The increased duties on cattle imply a rise in the cost of meat which is already one of the chief grievances of the industrial classes in Germany. I. N. F.

German Tariff on Meat.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

BERLIN, Oct. 29.—The reichstag today adopted the recommendations of the tariff commission in regard to the minimum duties to be imposed under the new tariff on cattle, sheep, and swine. By this action the house again rejected the government proposals on the subject. It is believed certain the government will not accept the bill as amended and that it will fail.

A minimum duty of about $3.50 per double hundredweight on cattle was passed by 161 to 120 votes. A minimum duty of about $3.50 per double hundredweight on sheep was also passed, as was a minimum duty of $3.50 per double hundredweight on pigs.

The minimum duties on meat, with the exception of bacon, as fixed by the tariff committee, will be $9, $12, or $24 per double hundredweight, the duty varying according to the methods of dressing. The duty on bacon will be $9 per double hundredweight.

EXPERTS BIASED, SAYS RAYMOND.

County Treasurer Asserts Haskin & Sells Have Made False Inferences.

REPLY TO THE CHARGES.

Clerk Blair Goes Over the Report, Item by Item, Explaining Matters.

County Treasurer Raymond's indignation knew no bounds yesterday when he became acquainted with the conclusions reached by the city's expert accountants, Haskins & Sells, in their investigation of the county treasurer's office.

He resented the inference of the experts that the system of bookkeeping employed in his office was responsible for the loss of many thousands of dollars in delinquent taxes each year.

The entire report, Mr. Raymond declared, was misleading, and was made up to meet the wishes of City Controller McGann.

"The accountants reported what they were told to report," said Mr. Raymond, "and they deliberately falsified in order to give satisfaction to McGann. Their report is exactly contrary to the statements they made to me when they finished their work in this office. As a report it is worthless, for it is made up of misleading inferences and misstatements."

Answers Charges in Detail.

Frank Blair, who is in charge of the personal property department of the treasurer's office, and who is responsible for the methods followed in his department, was equally indignant.

"The report does not make a single direct charge against this office," said Mr. Blair, "but, by inference, it aims to sustain its allegations. It is not only misleading, but it is unjust to this office. Mr. Gleason, who directed the investigation for the city, told me on Monday that he had not found one cent of taxes collected that was not properly accounted for. He said that our skirts were clear, and that no blame of any kind rested on this office."

Taking that portion of the report dealing with personal property taxes for 1900, Mr. Blair went over it schedule by schedule, and pointed out wherein it was erroneous and misleading.

"Schedule I states that no record could be found in the county attorney's office of fourteen items of delinquent personal property taxes aggregating $5,438.97, which had been turned over to the county attorney for collection by the county collector," said Mr. Blair. "That may be true, but there is no ground for the inference that the money has been lost to the county. The bills for the taxes may have been lost. The county board ordered last year's bills for delinquent taxes sent to the county attorney, and about 6,000 were sent. Of that number fourteen were lost, but the taxes are yet to be collected."

Says Statement Is False.

The second schedule, stating that delinquent personal property taxes for which partial payments were accepted in full settlement without authority being given on the records amounted to $22,978.33, was characterized by Mr. Blair as false.

"We are authorized by law to accept a partial payment on taxes," said Mr. Blair, "and a special form of receipt is used when such a payment is made. It is not true in a single instance that a settlement in full has been made through a partial payment."

The third schedule, Mr. Blair said, was beyond his understanding. It stated that indefinite reasons appeared on the records of the county collector for the noncollection of delinquent personal property taxes amounting to $10,923.

Schedule 5 calls attention to delinquent personal property taxes against estates, and says that noncollection of $14,213.51 was due to failure to file claims before the estates were distributed.

"The report erroneously throws the responsibility for this condition on this office," said Mr. Blair. "We have no lien on personal property taxes until the warrant is in the hands of the collector, and that is usually late in December or early in January. An assessment is made in April against an estate, and in a great many cases the estate is distributed within three months after the assessment. The inference that we neglect to file claims against estates for taxes and by such failure lose the taxes is false."

As to the "Fly by Nights."

Mr. Blair characterized as unjust the inference that $14,373.50 of taxes had been lost through failure to take legal action on capital stock assessments.

"I notice," remarked Mr. Blair, "that the report says the accountants were unable to ascertain what steps had been taken to collect these taxes, or by what authority they were allowed to pass uncollected. We gave them full explanation on that point. Those taxes represent the assessments against 'hot air' mining companies and other short lived concerns that open their offices long enough to unload a lot of worthless stock on the public. Their officers and directors cannot be found, for their names are not in the city directory or they are nonresidents. When they shut up their offices and move away we have no means of reaching them."

The charge that $9,237.35 of delinquent personal property taxes stood uncollected as a result of the county collector failing to proceed against firms which had gone into bankruptcy was disputed by Mr. Blair.

Expect the Impossible.

Another charge contained in the report is that the county collector was unable to produce any orders from the Probate court releasing delinquent taxes amounting to $8,174.74, although the records showed annotations to the effect that such an order had been issued.

"Our custom is first to collect from the administrator or executor," explained Mr. Blair, "and they will not pay except on the order of the court. That order does not come to us, and consequently we should not be expected to produce it."

On account of "double assessments" the report charges that taxes amounting to over $7,000 remain uncollected. It also states that it is the almost invariable custom of the county collector to settle in such cases upon payment of the smaller assessment.

"That is true in many instances, I believe," said Mr. Blair, "but such settlements are made in the town collector's offices and not here. It is an absolute misrepresentation of the facts to state that a taxpayer having a residence in the south town, an office on the west side, and a manufacturing plant on the north side, for example, can escape with the payment of taxes on one place alone.

Defends Treasurer's Office.

"In regard to the collections this year and the collections in previous years I think that it reflects credit upon the management of this office," said Mr. Blair in conclusion.

"The amount which the report says has been turned over to the county attorney for collection is about $2,000 too small. The taxes of one man which have been turned over to the county attorney nearly equal the amount. I state this to show the inaccuracy of the report."

McGann Asks Radical Action.

During the day Controller McGann sent a communication to Ald. Mayor, chairman of the council finance committee, transmitting the report of Haskins & Sells and advising that radical measures be taken "to prevent further loss of taxes to the city" because of the alleged defects in the system followed by Treasurer Raymond.

The accountants employed by the county board to examine the tax collections for 1900 in County Treasurer Raymond's office will not begin their work this morning, as had been planned. The investigation has been postponed indefinitely. It is said that the postponement was due to a doubt whether the county board had a legal right to make any expenditures except those provided for in the annual appropriation.

POST BILLS UNDER FIRE.

NONUNION MEN ATTACKED BY WEST SIDE CROWDS.

Copies of Judge Chytraus' Injunction Put Up and Later Torn Down by Strike Sympathizers — Several Arrests Made and Prisoners Accuse Company Officers of Injustice in Causing Them—Trainmen Feel Certain Difficulties Will Be Settled.

The American Bill Posting Service company succeeded in getting out two wagons yesterday afternoon under strong police protection. Each wagon had three or four nonunion men, who posted copies of the injunction issued by Judge Chytraus against the striking bill posters. The policemen on the west side say that boys tear down the bills as soon as they are put up.

The wagons were followed by crowds of people, who hooted and yelled at the nonunion men and occasionally threw mud and stones. Several policemen were struck and several arrests were made. George Wallace, 20 years old, was taken into custody at Van Buren and Paulina streets, and Michael Neillis, an iron worker, who was standing in the crowd in front of the bill posting company's office, and, according to bystanders, was doing nothing, was arrested.

Commotion in State Street.

In the evening an arrest at State and Van Buren streets caused great commotion. A crowd collected, blocking the cable cars, and three persons were knocked down and slightly hurt by a car fender.

John Mulhowland, a private detective, was charged by David Howard, a union bill poster, with shadowing union men. When he finally told Mulhowland to stop shadowing them, he claims Mulhowland drew a revolver. Other bill posters ran to Howard's assistance, whereupon Mulhowland fled. Policeman Johnson was standing at Wabash avenue and Van Buren streets when Mulhowland ran towards him bareheaded with the crowd in pursuit.

Johnson seized Mulhowland and the crowd gathered about him and threatened to take the prisoner away. Johnson drew his revolver and threatened to shoot the first man that interfered. When State street was reached a large crowd gathered, blocking street car traffic, and one train knocked down three persons.

The crowd was finally dispersed, and Policeman Brennan arrived and arrested Howard. Both men were taken to the Central station.

Blames Detectives for the Rioting.

Business Agent P. J. Murphy declared that the striking bill posters are not responsible for the rioting, and laid the blame on the detectives.

"These fellows are professional strike breakers," he said, "and they are stirring up trouble everywhere so they can make arrests and intimidate the union men. The cases of Frank Dehner and Burt Reeves, who were arrested at La Salle and Madison streets last night, are illustrations. These men were set upon while in a Clark street car by these detectives, who number fifteen, and although the two men were undersized, they were beaten. They were then arrested, charged with assault. Neither of them is a member of the union."

The cases against Reeves and Dehner were continued in the Harrison street police court to Oct. 31. In the afternoon they appeared before Justice Hall and swore out warrants against their alleged assailants to the number of a score.

J. M. Meyers, an advertising agent, was arrested and taken to the Desplaines street police court in the morning, charged with inciting trouble. He gave bail and threatened to bring suit against the posting company for false arrest.

Trainmen Sure of Settlement.

After reports had been heard from the numerous committees of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen which have been treating with the managers of the railroads entering Chicago, it was announced last evening that an agreement would be reached by the end of the week. It was further stated that the agreement would be satisfactory to both the unions and the railroad people. No one was prepared to say whether the scale presented by the brotherhood would be granted in its entirety. Another meeting will be held Friday night at the Sherman house.

MAKE CHARGE OF CONSPIRACY.

Stockholders of Empire Savings, Building and Loan Association Go Into Court.

A bill for the appointment of a receiver for the Empire Savings, Building and Loan association was filed in the Circuit court yesterday, the charge being made that the organization is insolvent. The complainants are stockholders. The concern was organized March 15, 1887, with an authorized capital stock of $1,000,000.

Last April, it is charged, a conspiracy was entered into between Leigh H. Jackson and Abram Jackson, directors of the association, and Eric Winters, E. S. Fry, Robert Quait, and W. H. Utt to prevent the organization of the association.

The alleged conspiracy resulted, it is said, in the appointment of Utt as receiver. The proceedings were irregular, it is said, and it also is charged that Utt is not a proper person to carry out the duties of receiver.

DISPUTE A CONVICT'S CHARGES.

Justice Scott and Constable Ronksley Deny Being in a Conspiracy as Testified by Bulfer.

Constable John W. Ronksley and Justice H. M. Scott, who are charged with conspiracy, testified in their own behalf yesterday before Judge Horton. Both denied much of the charges made by Philip Bulfer, who was brought from Joliet as a witness, and said they had not been implicated in any plans by which persons were made victims. Scott admitted giving signed blank warrants to Bulfer to be used in emergency cases. Many of the first batch of warrants signed were used by Scott himself, he said, and another batch of twenty-five he had destroyed because he feared complications. Bulfer was an attorney, and is serving sentence for conspiracy. The hearing will be continued today.

CANAL SITUATION NEARING CRISIS.

HAY MAKES OBJECTION.

State Department Has Information That Senor Concha Had Orders to Co-operate.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 29.—[Special.]—Señor Don José Vicente Concha, the Colombian minister, may be recalled by his government owing to his diplomatic usefulness being impaired because of his obstructive tactics in declining to carry out the instructions of his government to negotiate the Panama canal treaty with the United States.

Vigorous and formal complaint against the Colombian minister's conduct has been made by Secretary Hay through the American minister at Bogota. The crisis in regard to the construction of the canal is likely to develop at any moment. This crisis is certain to come unless there is a change in the attitude of Señor Concha, or the Colombian government recalls him. If a satisfactory agreement cannot be reached between Colombia and the United States, President Roosevelt, to whom congress gave discretion in the selection of a route for the canal, may determine upon the Nicaraguan route.

May Proceed Without Consent.

It is believed, however, that the obstacles encountered have made the administration more determined to adhere to the Panama plan. The idea has been advanced in official circles that the purchase of the new French Panama Canal company's concession will give to the United States the right to construct the canal without entering into any treaty arrangement with Colombia to that end.

It is known that some of the high officers of the administration believe that if the worst comes to the worst through obstructive tactics on the part of Colombia, the French concession can properly and legally be used as authority to go ahead with the construction of the canal without waiting for permission from the Colombian government.

Concha Ignores Instructions.

According to what was learned today, Secretary Hay ascertained some time ago that Señor Concha had received instructions from Bogota to begin the negotiation of the canal treaty. Señor Concha, however, did not call at the state department and failed to communicate with it in any way. Last week Secretary Hay had a conference with President Roosevelt on the subject of Señor Concha's attitude, and the result of this was that Mr. Hay sent a note to the minister telling him that the state department knew that he had received his instructions to begin the treaty negotiations and would be pleased to have him comply with them immediately.

Reply of Concha Evasive.

On Monday last Señor Herran, the secretary of the Colombian legation, delivered at the state department a response from Señor Concha, in which he said that the canal treaty situation had changed materially since his instructions had been received, through the radical interpretation placed by Rear Admiral Casey on the provisions of the New Grenada treaty of 1846, by which the United States assumed the obligation to prevent interruption of transisthmian traffic at all times.

As those provisions are to be renewed in the canal treaty, Señor Concha declined to consider them on the basis of his instructions, his ground being that Rear Admiral Casey's action amounted practically to an assertion of American sovereignty over the isthmus, and the minister believed that his government would never consent to have the provisions incorporated in the new treaty subject to that interpretation. Until he received additional instructions from Bogota as to what would be the natural outcome of the changed conditions and interpretation developed by Admiral Casey's conduct, he would refrain from carrying out the directions to begin treaty negotiations at once.

Secretary Hay then sent a sharp response to this note of the Colombian minister, and in addition telegraphed instructions to Charles B. Hart, United States minister at Bogota, to complain to the Colombian government concerning its envoy's attitude.

New Grenada Treaty Clear.

The treaty with New Grenada, negotiated in 1846, provided that the United States government should assume the obligation of assisting the government of New Grenada in maintaining free transit across the isthmus of Panama whenever such course was necessary. The subsequently organized government of the United States of Colombia accepted this provision. The action of Rear Admiral Casey in maintaining traffic over the isthmus and his action in demanding the papers of the gunboat Bogota, and to know what right the vessel had to fly the Colombian flag irritated the Colombian government. The Bogota is the American steamer purchased in Seattle, Wash., and commanded by Capt. Marmaduke, who was in the confederate navy.

Considers Action of Navy.

When he learned of Rear Admiral Casey's course in regard to the transportation of the Colombian troops Señor Concha telegraphed his government for information as to whether this would change the character of his instructions concerning the incorporation in the new canal treaty of the free transit obligation clauses set forth in the treaty of 1846. No response was received from Bogota and yesterday Señor Concha telegraphed again urging an immediate response to the first message.

Señor Concha took the ground that Rear Admiral Casey had practically asserted American sovereignty over the isthmus.

Legation Seeks to Explain.

At the Colombian legation it was declared tonight the state department is mistaken in believing that Minister Concha has had in his possession for several weeks the instructions of his government to go ahead with the canal treaty negotiations. On the contrary, it was asserted, the minister did not receive the instructions until last Saturday, and that within the earliest possible time, that is, on Monday, he communicated to the state department the fact that they had been received.

DEFEAT OF VENEZUELA REBELS

Insurgents Retreat After Two Days' Battle with Federal Army at Carupano.

WILLEMSTAD, Island of Curaçao, Oct. 29.—News has been received here that the town of Carupano, state of Bermudez, Venezuela, was attacked by revolutionary forces on Sunday and Monday of this week. After a hard fight with the government soldiers, in which the rebels lost one cannon and had a number of men killed and wounded, they retreated.

The government accuses the revolutionists of having burned forty-three houses in Carupano. These charges are denied by the revolutionists, who say that the houses in question were burned as a result of the fighting.

Castro Still at La Victoria.

The position of President Castro of Venezuela today is the same as it was after the recent indecisive battle between his forces and those of the revolutionists. He still occupies La Victoria with 5,000 men and the revolutionists have returned to the vicinity of La Victoria in large numbers. They say they are awaiting the arrival of all their forces to attack Castro.

Details of Uribe's Surrender.

COLON, Colombia, Oct. 29.—Further news has reached here of the engagement Oct. 24 at Rio Frio, near La Cienaga, which resulted in the surrender of the revolutionary generals Uribe-Uribe and Castillo, together with ten cannon, 2,500 rifles, and considerable ammunition. Four hundred revolutionists are reported to have been killed. The dead were left unburied.

According to the terms of capitulation, Gen. Uribe-Uribe undertakes to bring about the surrender of all revolutionary bands now in the departments of Magdalena and Bolivar. He goes to Bogota to confer with the Colombian government to this end.

CHARGES OF CRUELTY DENIED.

Trustees of Soldiers' Orphans' Home at Normal, Ill., Report to Gov. Yates.

The trustees of the Soldiers' Orphans' home at Normal, Ill., are preparing to submit to Gov. Yates a report disproving the charges that teachers and attendants were ever guilty of cruelty. An investigation of the complaints of ill treatment preferred by the Geer family of Danville and others was made at the home on Tuesday, and the findings of the investigators were entirely favorable to the superintendent and his assistants. The substance of this report was given out yesterday by Capt. N. B. Thistlewood of Cairo, who was returning from a trip to Normal. The inquiry was conducted by W. G. Coughlin of Sullivan and Benson Wood of Effingham.

"We found," said Trustee Thistlewood, "that there was absolutely no basis for the charges against the management of the home, made public by the Geer family and others. We found satisfactory proof that the sanitary conditions were of the best, that the food was good, the medical attendance excellent, and that the children, instead of being abused, were well cared for.

"The board of trustees will report to the governor that the management could not be improved, and that no changes are needed."

GIRL KIDNAPED BY STRANGER.

Lizzie Lapar Induced to Leave Town of Salem on Plea Her Mother at Lake Villa Wanted Her.

Kenosha, Wis., Oct. 29.—[Special.]—Lizzie Lapar, the 13 year old daughter of Mrs. James Lapar of Lake Villa, Ill., is thought to have been kidnaped from Salem, near here. Her mother lives at Lake Villa, and the girl had been making her home with her relatives, Mr. and Mrs. Crowley. A week ago a stranger appeared at the house and asked to see the girl. He told her that her mother wanted her to come to Lake Villa for a visit.

Mr. and Mrs. Crowley suspected nothing wrong, packed a trunk for the girl, and, in a few hours, she drove off with the stranger, supposedly to go to the home of her mother. She has not arrived at Lake Villa, and it is reported that the man drove with the girl to the nearest railway station and took a train supposedly for Chicago.

Yesterday Mrs. Lapar came to Salem to visit her daughter, and when it was discovered that the child was missing she was almost prostrated by the report. The whereabouts of the man and the girl are now unknown.

NO DOUBT AS TO NATURE OF GOV. YATES' ILLNESS.

Physician Says It Is Unmistakably Typhoid Fever, but Thinks There Is No Cause for Alarm.

Springfield, Ill., Oct. 29.—[Special.]—Gov. Yates is suffering with typhoid fever. This statement was made without reservation today by Dr. L. C. Taylor, his attending physician.

The governor is restless, but his physicians say his pulse is good, and, while the fever ranges high, it is not considered that he is in any immediate danger. Early this morning the fever was as low as 101 degrees, but as on previous days it increased as the day advanced until the middle of the afternoon, when it again passed the 103 mark.

Dr. Taylor stated this evening that he does not consider the governor's condition serious at this time, and no untoward results are expected. The patient's puise is good, he says, the only unfavorable symptom being an uncontrollable restlessness.

CLEW TO A POSSIBLE MURDER.

Hammond Police Believe That Body Found on Railroad Tracks Was That of Robbers' Victim.

The Hammond police are working on a clew that Fred McKay, whose body was found on the Erie tracks near Hammond, was robbed and murdered. Some distance from the body, which was discovered yesterday, was found McKay's empty pocketbook.

McKay, who lived in Burnham, went to Hammond to make some purchases. He started home Tuesday evening, walking along the railway tracks.

His way lead through a lonely district, and the police think he may have been robbed and killed and his body left on the tracks to hide all evidence of the crime.

DOCK STRIKE TIES UP PORT.

Montreal Laborers Quit Work When Demands for Better Pay Are Refused.

Montreal, Oct. 29.—Over 2,000 dock laborers went on strike today, tying up the business of the port. The men have been working on a scale of 20 cents an hour, night or day work, and they demand 30 cents an hour for day work and 35 cents an hour for night work. The demand was refused. With twenty steamers waiting cargo and 24 many more due, the situation is serious. The shipping agents late tonight decided to offer the men 25 cents an hour for day labor and 30 cents for night work. The Elder-Dempster company is paying 35 cents.

Two Suits Filed Against Greenberg.

Two suits for $5,000 damages each were filed in the Circuit court yesterday against Constable Louis Greenberg by Mr. and Mrs. Ferdinand Hoffmeyer, Twenty-fifth street and Indiana avenue. Six weeks ago, it is said, Greenberg visited the Hoffmeyer home with an execution on a judgment against Mr. Hoffmeyer and took possession of property belonging to Mrs. Hoffmeyer.

ENDS LIFE WITH SAME GUN WITH WHICH HE SHOT FRIEND.

Farmer Broods for Fifteen Years Over an Accident and Then Atones by Committing Suicide.

After brooding for fifteen years over the accidental shooting of a friend, Henry Sweet, a farmer living in Bloom township, near East Glenwood, killed himself yesterday with the same shotgun that had ended the friend's life. The suicide was committed in an oats field on his brother's farm. The charge of shot entered Sweet's left side, causing instant death. The accident for which the farmer apparently desired to atone occurred while Sweet and his ill fated friend were on a hunting trip. No blame ever was attached to Sweet. The suicide leaves a widow and five children.

ONE MORE FIRE VICTIM FOUND.

Charred Remains of a Man Taken from Glucose Refining Plant Ruins.

The charred remains of a man were found in the ruins of the Glucose Refinery company's plant, Beach and Taylor streets, yesterday afternoon by a workingman and removed to the county morgue. It will be impossible, it is thought, to identify the victim. The recovery of this body makes the known death list six. Five other victims were killed by jumping from the windows at the time of the fire. At least four other persons are believed to have perished.

BARKENTINE WITH COAL GOES TO PIECES NEAR ST. JOHN, N. B.

Rigging Becomes Fouled During Storm and Crew Escapes on Pieces of Wreckage.

St. John, N. B., Oct. 29.—The British barkentine Frederica, Capt. Churchill, was wrecked during today's storm on the rocks two miles east of Cape Spencer light. The vessel was bound from Parrsboro, N. S., to Portland, Me., with coal.

The wind was blowing with terrific force when the braces fouled, and the vessel drifted in towards land and struck on the rocks, going to pieces in a short time.

The officers and crew kept afloat on a piece of the vessel, three of them finally reaching the rocks by swimming. Two of the men later reached the cliffs and ran to the lighthouse and telegraphed here, and the government steamer Lansdowne was sent to the rescue.

BUSINESS RULES IN COUNTY OFFICE

Republican Nominees Make Pledges Before 5,000 People in Auditorium.

HARLAN AROUSES CHEERS

Declares That Local Campaign Is One of Men, in Which Politics Has No Place.

Before 5,000 people last night in the Auditorium republican candidates pledged themselves to specific plans of action in the event of their election, and republican speakers urged the necessity of party success that these plans might be carried out.

John M. Harlan brought forth prolonged cheering with a declaration in favor of independence in local elections, and Henry G. Foreman, candidate for president of the county board, won applause with a pledge to conduct the business of the county as if it were an industrial corporation.

In many respects the big gathering in the Auditorium was an unusual political meeting. It was the largest of the present campaign. The boxes were filled with women, and a handshaking reception was held by the candidates in the corridors before the speakers were introduced.

Business Men in Attendance.

It was a sort of neighborhood affair, and yet an effort had been made to give a color of society to it. The First Ward Republican club had charge, and a play had been made to the transient population of the ward, as represented by the residents of the large downtown hotels. The same effort had been made to secure representations from the clubs of the business district.

Nearly every republican politician of importance in city or ward affairs was present. After the handshaking in the corridors was over the crowd took possession of the auditorium and filled all parts of it except the seats far up in the gallery.

Aside from the county candidates the speakers included Frank O. Lowden, who spoke of national issues; Martin B. Madden, and Mr. Harlan. When the last was introduced he came forward with the flat statement that he would not talk of parties but of candidates.

Harlan Arouses Cheers.

At this declaration the big audience cheered as they had applauded no other utterance. Mr. Harlan's statement of independence went further, and he said that he would not bind himself to vote as he had talked if any knowledge received by him before the election should cause him to change his mind on any of the candidates.

"The committee which invited me to speak here," he said, "knew my position in the matter, and they knew that I could not take another position for the purpose of this meeting. Parties have no place in the administration of local affairs."

"Would you vote for Madden?" interrupted a man from the audience in the middle of his talk.

"Mr. Madden and I are both guests of the club," replied Mr. Harlan, "and I cannot discuss that question."

Foreman Promises Reform.

With Mr. Harlan's declaration for independence the feature of the big meeting was the definite plan for the administration of county affairs which was offered by Mr. Foreman.

In this he declared himself in favor of the establishment of advisory boards to act in connection with the county committee having jurisdiction over different county institutions. Another such advisory committee, he asserted, should be associated with the different departments of the county building itself. He pledged his efforts to carry out this plan if he should be elected president of the board.

Hanberg to Do His Duty.

John Hanberg, candidate for treasurer, simply said he would do his duty and give a faithful administration of his office, and D. D. Healy, whose presence was prevented by the death of his brother, sent a letter, in which he called attention to his record of sixteen years' service for the county as his best argument in the campaign.

Col. Lowden's discussion was on the subject of national issues, and his most interesting statement was one of his belief that the trust problem would be settled by the "captains of industry," in which ranks he placed Mitchell, Gompers, and Hanna.

Resolutions Are Adopted.

Judge Richard Tuthill read the resolutions which had been prepared by a committee consisting of himself, Francis A. Riddle, and J. J. Healy. These were adopted by the gathering, declared for clean and wholesome methods in the conduct of public office, and indorsed President Roosevelt in "his clean, healthy, and beneficent administration of nation affairs."

Continuing, the resolutions declared:

Political affiliation is the necessary incident of our form of government, and the imperative duty of every citizen is to support loyally that partisan organization which has accomplished most and which by reason of its principles and objects can do most for the glory, happiness, and welfare of all. Therefore, we urge on every one of our fellow-citizens the duty of standing by the republican party and its candidates in the election to be held on Nov. 4, 1902.

We indorse the candidates of that party for state officers, and because of his loyalty and courage as a sailor in the navy of the United States from 1862 to 1865, his fidelity to every public trust committed to him by his fellow-citizens, his unquestioned fitness and capability, and for his upright, manly, and blameless life, we commend to the voters and pledge our unhesitating support to Daniel D. Healy for sheriff of Cook county; and to John J. Hanberg, also faithful and of good repute, we pledge our best efforts to secure his election to the office of county treasurer; and to all other candidates alike nominated for public offices in Cook county to be chosen at the next election we pledge our active cooperation and undivided loyalty.

We regard it as of the first importance that the next house of representatives in our national legislature should be composed of loyal men who will aid cheerfully and intelligently in upholding the measures of the national administration.

Calls Harlan "Next Mayor."

For some minutes cries of "Harlan" had sounded from all parts of the hall and Chairman McLaughlin obeyed the call.

"I have the pleasure of introducing the next mayor of the city of Chicago," he said.

Mr. Harlan stepped to the front and raised his hand, at which silence fell on the audience.

"We are not meeting here to consider the election of mayor of the city," he said. "Furthermore, I, for one, am not ready to commit myself on the proposition.

"I am not expected," he continued, turning abruptly to the subject of the evening, "to echo entirely the sentiment of those who have preceded me on this platform tonight. I do not take the stand advocated by Col. Lowden. He advised you to support the candidates because they are on a republican ticket. That, with him, has been an adequate guarantee of their fitness.

Vote for the Best Man.

"The rank and file of both parties stand by the proposition that in local affairs it is the man that counts and not the party that claims his allegiance. It is not a question of whether this candidate be a republican or a democrat, but whether he be honest and capable of administering the affairs of the office he seeks.

"As for myself, up to the minute I enter the voting booth, yes, to the instant I deposit my ballot in the box, I hold myself free and at liberty, notwithstanding all I have said, to turn about square and vote contrary to what I have said if I receive information at that late moment that shows me I was wrong. I urge you to vote for the best man. If you cannot find him on the republican ticket, but do find him on the democratic, vote for him just the same.

"I wish I could discuss measures rather than men. It is much pleasanter. But we cannot get away from the fact the county officers have nothing to do with the conduct of government in the Philippines. What has the sheriff or treasurer to do with the money question, with the trusts? These considerations do not enter. It is only the men.

Qualifications of Dan Healy.

"Now I will turn to Healy, candidate for sheriff. There is not a man in this city better fitted for the place than Dan Healy.

"Wherever Dan Healy has touched an office or an institution he has left it better than he found it, no matter who was his predecessor. I have directed this statement to the mayor repeatedly and asked to be set right if I was in error. He has never questioned my allegations, and has not charged that I exaggerate.

"In an open letter Tom Barrett charges I have vilified him and done him injustice. That is beside the question. The issue is between Tom Barrett and you, not between him and me. Now, mark, I do not say, and have not said, Tom Barrett is a gambler. I do not know that he is. Also mark, I do not oppose him because he owns racehorses. I admit, as I have done before, that I would own some myself if I could afford to."

Mr. Harlan proceeded to explain that the indorsements from board of trade men for Barrett's candidacy were due to the purely personal element of the favor one associate will do another, and was of no political significance.

Foreman Tells of His Plans.

Henry G. Foreman, republican nominee for president of the county board, contended that the principles on which private business is conducted should be used in the management of county and city affairs.

"The affairs of Cook county," he said, "should be carried on just as any private or corporate business in Chicago. To inaugurate a system and to awaken popular interest in our institutions, I purpose, if elected, to ask the county commissioners to give me authority to create boards of from ten to twelve members each, who shall make it their business to act in an advisory relation to the various county board committees.

"I would ask that one such board be appointed to supervise the affairs of each of our institutions, and also a similar board for the various departments of the county building itself. The members of such boards should be selected from public spirited citizens who have achieved success in business and can be persuaded to give up the time necessary for the county service.

"By public spirited I do not mean simply men living on the boulevards, but representative citizens; men of hard practical sense, whose service in running the affairs on a business basis would be of the greatest value. Such men should have leisure to devote to public service, and they would find pleasure in it. They should serve gladly and without compensation.

"Public officials should invite criticism and suggestions, but these should come from competent men whose desire is to help make conditions better.

Will Enforce Civil Service.

"Having secured the services of these business men on advisory boards, it will be my next endeavor to secure competent men in the paid service of the county. I shall aim to retain good men, and gradually put all of the county service on a high plane. In order to do this I shall endeavor to carry out the provisions of the civil service law as it stands on the statute books, and shall urge the county board to ask the legislature to pass a bill extending the civil service to those departments which are not now under its jurisdiction.

"I think there ought to be no larger force employed in and about the county building, offices, or institutions than there is work for. No one should be paid any smaller or greater compensation than is paid for like work by any well regulated business establishment. I do not believe in making one man do two men's work, nor in letting any man loaf or absent himself for hours during the regular period when he is supposed to be at his desk and then let him be paid for overtime.

"I believe that workmen in the county service everywhere should be paid sufficient wages for the support of their families and the education of their children, and that whenever disputes arise between employer and employé the peaceful method of arbitration should be used to effect an adjustment.

"The county should be run as economically as any large business house. All purchases should be made with as much care as to quality and price as is used by the most responsible merchant, whose good standing, large business, and ready payments give him many favors, including cash discounts.

"A well regulated business of any kind, in making expenditures, first has duly authorized requisitions prepared, bids advertised for, then contracts awarded, all bidders being treated alike, and the contracts let to the lowest bidder, care being taken to avoid collusive bidding. After county contracts are let, if I am president, they will be carried out to the letter, and if it is found that inferior grades or underweight or short measure are being given, attention will be called to the matter, deductions made, and if the wrong is not righted the contracts will be canceled.

"Much has been said of late about the dieting of prisoners in our county jail. I am in favor of furnishing the inmates of all the county institutions with good, wholesome food, such as should be served to people in institutions of this character. I shall veto, if elected, any bill or appropriation which is intended to furnish a profit beyond the actual cost of supplies and materials for feeding the inmates of the jail or other county institution.

Cut Out All Perquisites.

"It shall be my purpose, if elected, to see that the officers of the county shall not be paid more than their legal compensation. It shall be my endeavor to see that they keep strictly within their appropriations and actual needs, and that all fees and perquisites in any office shall be covered into the county treasury.

"One thing I have in mind is a full audit of the accounts in all county offices and institutions, and the adoption of the most modern methods of doing business in all such departments.

"Modern systems of bookkeeping should be applied in the county service, from the requisition to the final payments, and there should be a careful, periodical audit made by outside experts to see that the affairs of the county are conducted on a strict business basis and within the appropriations.

Compensation from Abstractors.

"A new source of revenue might be established by making the large abstract companies pay a percentage of their gross receipts to the county for the space they use in our building and for the information furnished them daily, which is the basis of their entire business. That really is the foundation upon which they build their abstracts, their guarantee policies, and pile up their large incomes. Or, it might be more desirable to compel the companies to furnish abstracts at more reasonable prices.

"I favor the unification of all county and city governments within the present city limits into one 'Greater Chicago.' To do this means favoring a new charter for Chicago and constitution for Illinois that will meet the wants and requirements of a population of 2,500,000, as against one of about 300,000 when the last constitution was adopted."

Lowden Would Revise Tariff.

Frank O. Lowden announced that he believed in the doctrine of protection as Hamilton taught it—as a means and not as an end—and argued for the reduction of some duties and the abolishing of others.

"Has not the time come for either the abolition or the reduction of some of the duties, dependent, of course, upon the fiscal needs of the national treasury?" he inquired. "Substantial reductions can be effected through reciprocity treaties at once. This method should be employed, if possible, wherever a reduction of duties is needed.

"I realize that it is always a delicate and often a dangerous thing to meddle with the tariff, but I believe that the ways and means committee of the house of representatives should seriously and soberly take up the question, with the determination to lower the duties in some instances and abolish them in others as rapidly as this can be done without a general injury to business.

"I make these suggestions without reference to the so-called trust question. I believe that the two must be treated absolutely independently of each other. The question is not, who is engaged in any particular industry, but what the needs of that particular industry are.

Give Congress Full Control.

"While the remedies already proposed will largely meet the dangers which confront us, all question of the power of congress over these corporations should be removed. The country has developed so in the last century that it is a fiction of law to say that one of these great corporations is a New Jersey corporation, or an Illinois corporation. They are, in fact, national corporations, and congress alone can deal adequately with such corporations. This country is no longer, in fact, a sisterhood of states. It is a mighty nation, one and indivisible.

"For this reason I favor an amendment to the constitution which shall give the congress of the United States plenary power over all corporations which transact business outside of the state of their origin. I am well aware that it will take years to secure such an amendment, but I believe that only such an amendment would fully and adequately meet all the questions which will from time to time develop with reference to this subject.

"Let us not attempt the futile task of destroying the combination either of capital or of labor. These combinations have come by a law stronger than our will, more powerful than any law which falls from our pens upon the statute books—they have both come by the law of industrial evolution.

"Fortunate for America, indeed, is it that Theodore Roosevelt, president of the United States, knows that neither capital nor labor working alone will solve the great industrial problem which confronts us.

"Theodore Roosevelt does not seek to destroy great economic forces, but contents himself with directing those forces towards the common weal of all the people."

Madden Closes the Meeting.

In a short speech Mr. Madden, who was the last speaker, suggested that in following elections candidates for civic offices be pledged to some action on the tunnels. To reestablish Chicago commerce, he said, it was necessary to take some such action.

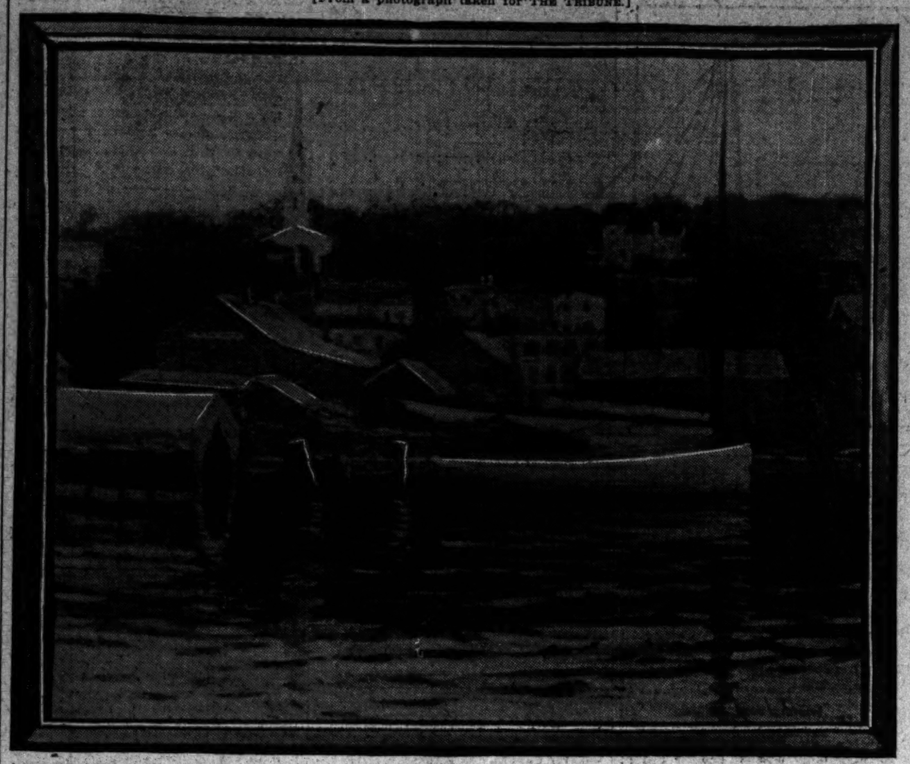
BEST OIL PAINTING BY A CHICAGO ARTIST IN EXHIBITION OF CANVASES BY AMERICANS.

[From a photograph taken for THE TRIBUNE.]



The fifteenth annual exhibition of oil paintings and sculptures by American artists at the Art institute attracted large crowds yesterday. The prizes were awarded in the morning by the jury. The N. W. Harris prize of $500, for the best picture in the exhibition painted within the last two years, was awarded to Walter McEwen for his picture, "A Woman of the Empire." The Martin B. Cahn prize of $100, for the best oil painting by a Chicago artist, was awarded to Mrs. Anna L. Stacey of the Studio building for her picture, "The Village at Twilight."

Mrs. Stacey was born in Glasgow, Mo., and received her education at the Chicago Art institute. At the exhibition of paintings by Chicago artists which was held here in February she was awarded the Young fortnightly prize for a little head, entitled "Florence." Her "The Village at Twilight," which is the most ambitious of the four canvases by which she is represented in the present exhibition, is a view of some quaint New England village on the Mystic river in Connecticut. The cool tones of the twilight and the restful atmosphere of the scene are highly effective.

The general average of excellence in the exhibition is uncommonly high, and the honor of the prize winners correspondingly greater. The artists of Chicago are well represented. Charles A. Corwin exhibits four fine landscapes. Frederick Warren Freer has two samples of his work on exhibition, while his sister, Miss Cora Fredericka Freer, is represented by a charming genre, entitled "The Birthday." Charles Edward Hallberg shows five interesting marines of considerable merit. Frank C. Peyrand a clever study entitled "Evening Song." Mrs. Marie Gelon Cameron is well represented by a three-quarter length portrait.

LEN SMALL IS ACCUSED.

CANDIDATE DAWSON SAYS HE WAS OFFERED BRIBE.

At Mason Meeting in Kankakee He Declares O. E. Love, Acting for Asylum Officials, Tried to Buy His Withdrawal in Favor of Curtis—Price Bid Up to $5,000—Senator Mason Delivers Characteristic Attack on Administration.

Kankakee, Ill., Oct. 29.—[Special.]—James B. Dawson, independent candidate for representative in Twentieth senatorial district, Kankakee, Grundy, and Iroquois counties, tonight at a meeting at the armory told of an attempt to bribe him to withdraw from the race. Senator Mason afterwards delivered a characteristic speech.

Mr. Dawson said: "Three weeks ago O. E. Love asked me what I thought of my chances for election. I told him I had not taken much active interest in it. Love said he believed my chances were good, but if I was tired he was authorized to offer me from $2,000 to $3,000 and the legislative nomination two years hence if I would get out of Curtis' way.

"He said that he was empowered to make the offer by his uncle, T. H. Dyer, business manager of the Kankakee insane hospital.

"Three days later Mr. Love asked me to go to Kankakee to close the deal and offered me $5,000 if I would consent to his proposition.

"I asked Ald. Black and Superintendent of Streets Miller of Morris to take stations behind a partition, in which I had bored holes. They heard every word of the conversation with Love, in which he said Hopkins, Curtis, Small, and Yates had discussed the deal at a meeting at the Great Northern hotel. If successful, Love was to send a telegram to Len Small to meet him at Hopkins' headquarters."

Mr. Dawson told how he and Love had met in Kankakee on the night of Oct. 24, and gone to the insane hospital late one night, where they had met Len Small in his office, and how, the next day, he told Small he had not money enough to buy him.

Senator William Mason referred to his service in the republican party during the last twenty-four years and the refusal of Hopkins, Small, and Dan Hogan to let him speak, because he would not keep quiet about the slush fund and other dishonest campaign methods.

"It is not the first time a burglar has kept the true owner out of his house. I am a republican, but I am also an American. Between $50,000 and $70,000 has been stolen from state institutions every year and used to debauch primaries in almost every county."

HONORE NEEDS NEW DIRECTORY.

VOTERS MAKE INQUIRIES.

Friends of Democratic Nominee Busy Meeting the Charge of "Carpet Bagger."

"Who is Lockwood Honoré?" is a question many north side voters are asking these days. And "I thought he lived on the south side," is another comment.

Mr. Honoré's friends are busy explaining that he is a resident of the north side and has the interests of the district at heart, though he has lived there only a few months.

The city directory, issued in June, has this entry:

Honore Lockwood, Green, Honore & Peters, 1101, 205 La Salle; house, 2103 Michigan avenue.

It is this which makes many voters wonder when they look up the democracy's eleventh hour candidate for congress in the Ninth district. Many voters do not read the society columns of the newspapers and consequently are unaware that after his return from his honeymoon six weeks ago Mr. Honoré took up his residence on Lincoln Park boulevard.

Questions of Law and Sentiment.

Legally the fact that Mr. Honoré has lived in the district but a few months does not debar him from representing it in congress. Under the law a congressman does not have to reside in the district he represents. But there is a sentimental feeling among voters of every district that naturally leads them to prefer as their representative in congress a man who is known among them, who has lived among them at least for a few years.

Hence the feeling has spread in some quarters that the democratic nominee is a "carpet baggar." When James G. Darden was snuffed out by the publication of his record the vacant place on the ticket was offered to former Congressman J. Hamilton Lewis, who came to Chicago recently from the state of Washington. Mr. Lewis, however, feared the natural feeling against a stranger candidate, so the story goes, and declined to make the race. Then it was that Mr. Honoré was selected and accepted the offer.

Extending Honore's Acquaintance.

To aid in making Mr. Honoré known to the voters of the district, his campaign managers have enlisted the services of a large committee, who are busy introducing and talking about "their man" to all voters they can reach.

They explain that the democratic nominee is a resident of the north side, and like to give the impression that he has resided there for some time. Confronting them always, however, is the unfortunate city directory entry.

When the blue book for 1903 is issued Mr. Honoré can use that to show where he now resides.

SAY DAWSON TRIED TO SELL.

Len Small and E. C. Curtis Declare Untrue Senator Mason's Charge That They Wanted to Buy.

Len Small and E. C. Curtis say that instead of their trying to buy off James G. Dawson as an independent candidate for the legislature he offered to sell out to them. That the proposition was considered they do not deny. But strong denial was made yesterday of the charges made by Senator Mason in his speech at the Auditorium on Tuesday night. These were in substance that through E. O. Love Dawson had been offered $6,500 to withdraw from the race and that of this amount Love was to receive $1,500 for negotiating the deal. The senator included Congressman Hopkins and Gov. Yates in the transaction.

In reply to the charge Mr. Hopkins said:

"I see by the morning paper that Senator Mason in his speech last night claimed that I offered Mr. Dawson through Mr. Love $500 to get off the ticket in the Grundy county senatorial district.

"I wish to state in reply that the first information that I had on that subject was when I read it this morning in the paper. I have no acquaintance with Mr. Love and have never seen him to my knowledge. I have not met Mr. Dawson for more than two years, although he lives in my congressional district.

"I have never passed a word with either Mr. Love or Mr. Dawson on the candidacy of Mr. Dawson for the legislature, and I never knew that Mr. Love was negotiating for Mr. Dawson's retirement from the legislative ticket until I read it in the paper this morning. The statement that I offered $500 or any other sum is unqualifiedly and maliciously false."

During the day Mr. Hopkins was told that overtures came from Dawson. The story as related by Len Small to Maj. Dan Hogan, Secretary L. T. Hoy, and others at republican state headquarters was that E. O. Love approached him on the train going to Kankakee one evening three weeks ago and suggested that for $1,000 he could get Dawson to withdraw.

"My answer at first," said Mr. Small, "was that we did not want him to quit; that his candidacy was not hurting Curtis' chances. Then Love said that Mason had promised Dawson $400, but he had failed to get a cent, and had grown weary trying. He was willing, therefore, if we would reimburse Dawson to the extent of $500 and give him $500 besides to withdraw, Dawson would tell all he knew about Mason's schemes. I asked him to bring Dawson to Kankakee to see me. Three or four nights later they came, but Dawson then wanted $1,500, $1,000 for himself and $500 for Love. I declined to negotiate any further."

With reference to the denial Senator Mason said:

"As to the conflict of evidence, Love has no interest in the case, but Mr. Hopkins has."

The charge made by Senator Mason that state funds had been used to defeat his candidacy in Lake county last spring has attracted much attention there. The Waukegan Daily Gazette, the Yates organ, demands that Mason prove the charge.

JUDGE NEELY ILL WITH FEVER.

Unable to Leave Home in Evanston, and Murder Trial Is Delayed.

Judge Charles G. Neely is ill at his home in Evanston, suffering from a fever that may confine him to the house for a week or more. On Tuesday his condition was such that it was with difficulty he remained in his courtroom, where W. J. Nelson was on trial on a charge of murder. Yesterday Mrs. Neely notified Assistant State's Attorney Newcomer that the judge was unable to leave his bed. As a result the Nelson case was delayed yesterday and the jury sent to a hotel.

REFUSE TO HELP BARRETT

REPUBLICANS IGNORE SUGGESTION FOR JOINT DISCUSSION.

Desire of Democratic Nominee for Sheriff to Meet John M. Harlan and D. D. Healy Taken as an Effort to Attract More Attention to His Candidacy — Challenger's Campaign Methods Cause Grumbling on Part of His Associates on County Ticket.

Hoping to attract greater attention to his candidacy for sheriff on the democratic ticket, Thomas E. Barrett wants a joint discussion, with Frank L. Childs and himself on one side and John M. Harlan and D. D. Healy, his republican opponent, on the other. But Mr. Barrett will not be gratified. Mr. Harlan and Mr. Healy both decline to help him make his campaign.

"I shall pay no attention to the so-called challenge," said Mr. Harlan last night. "Why should I? The issue is not between Mr. Barrett and myself. This is not a debating school. The questions at issue are between the candidates and the public."

In a long printed reply to Mr. Harlan's attacks Mr. Barrett accuses the republican orator of uttering falsehoods in his speeches about the democratic nominee. He denies the charge that his campaign fund comes from the gambling fraternity, but admits that he is an owner of race horses.

Says Friends Have Aided Him.

"In my candidacy," he says, "I have not had a dollar of any racing association money, nor a dollar from any man identified with racetracks, horses, or books. Business and personal friends have contributed toward my expenses."

Mr. Barrett proposes to rent North Side Turner hall for a joint meeting, and let Mr. Harlan designate the night. He would name Graeme Stewart, republican national committeeman, as chairman of the meeting, and select Frank L. Childs to represent him in the discussion as against Mr. Harlan. He is willing to let Mr. Healy assist on the republican side and make a speech if he wants to.

Complain of Barrett's Policy.

Mr. Barrett's troubles are not all from the republican camp. He is having a few in the camp of his own party. Some of his running mates on the democratic ticket are disgruntled over the fact that he is permitted to maintain personal headquarters and run his campaign practically independent of the managing committee and of the other candidates.

They have been complaining ever since the committee established itself in the old quarters at 145 Randolph street, but within the last day or two some of them have shown an inclination to come out in open revolt. They say Barrett is getting funds and using them for himself alone which should go for the benefit of all. But the committee refuses to interfere with Mr. Barrett's policy.

NOHE ASKING "FAVOR" VOTES.

Sends Out Letters Requesting Recipients to Aid in the "Plumping Process."

Friends of William W. Weare, one of the republican candidates for representative from the Nineteenth senatorial district, complained yesterday that Augustus W. Nohe, the other republican candidate for the district, was asking voters to "plump" three votes for him. In proof of this Mr. Weare's friends produced a typewritten letter, on the stationery of Nohe as a member of the Forty-second general assembly, and signed "Augustus W. Nohe," which reads as follows:

Chicago, October, 1902.—Dear Sir: Enclosed please find two cards. By handing them to two friends and asking them to mark a cross in the square before my name, after they vote the party ticket, I shall consider it a favor and reciprocate when the opportunity presents itself.

The enclosed cards read:

BADGERS READY FOR BATTLEFIELD

KING FINDS MANY FAULTS

Wolverine Defense Fails to Satisfy Yost—Graduate Coaches Rush to Ann Arbor.

Madison, Wis., Oct. 29.—[Special.]—The training of the Wisconsin team for the greatest contest of the season ended tonight and the varsity will win or lose as it now is. All that remains for the coaches to do is to put on a few finishing touches in minor matters and see that the men keep in the splendid physical condition in which they now are. Tomorrow they will go through signal drill with no scrimmage whatever, and on Friday morning will leave for Chicago.

A larger crowd was out to see the last practice this afternoon than has attended any of the home games this year. The students marched from the gymnasium to the field, headed by the university band, and watched the play of the team with great interest, cheering the men at every good play made.

The defensive work was even better than yesterday, and not once could the second team gain. In the second half, when the scrubs were allowed to keep the ball for twenty downs, the varsity shoved them back toward their own goal thirty yards. Every man in the varsity team played the game expected of him by the rooters, although Coach King seemed to find many faults, and was continually coaching them.

Varsity Shows Fine Spirit.

The players got into every play, no matter at what point it was directed, and as a result shoved the scrubs back on nearly every essay at the line. Abbott was not out for practice on account of an examination, and Findlay was put at left end in his place. He played a good game and made several good tackles, shoving the man back each time. Bush, the freshman end, kept up the good work he has been doing this week and did not allow a single gain over him, picking the man out of the Michigan formations with ease.

The men in the line went through the scrub defense like water through a sieve, and rarely allowed the play to get as far as the line of scrimmage. Lerum and Skow were always in evidence in this particular. In the offensive work there was more snap and dash than there was last night, and the men in the scrub team put up a fiercer defensive game than they did last night. They were unable to stop the rushes of the varsity backs and did not hold for a single down.

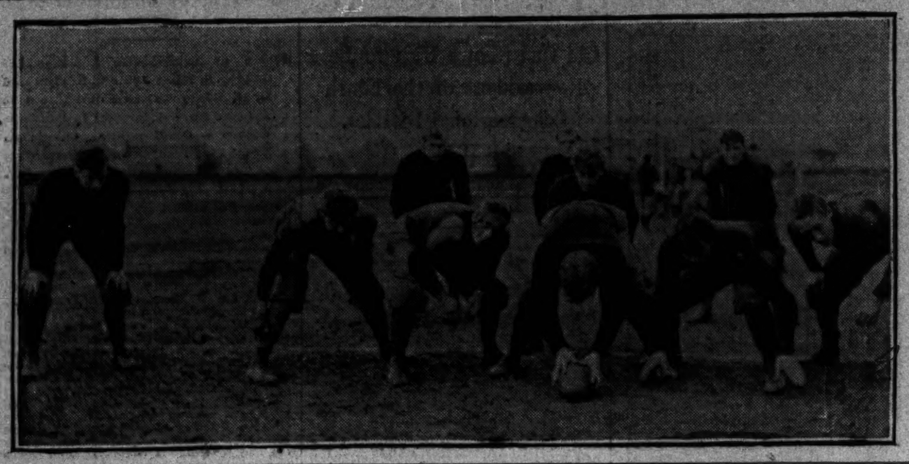
Straight Football in Evidence.

In fact, not a varsity man took the ball and failed to gain. Straight plays were used almost entirely, with a variation from the regular order of things once in awhile, the linemen taking the ball on swings at the opposite side of the line or in straight plunges after being drawn back.

In the few minutes the varsity had the ball it was able to make two touchdowns and allowed Juneau one try at goal from the field, which he missed by a narrow margin. In goal kicking the Badger captain has not been up to his form of last year, but if the Wisconsin team gets within striking distance of the Michigan goal he is liable to put the ball over for a score. None of the trick plays which it is reported will be used against the Michigan team was tried on the scrubs in the open practice. Millman, at guard on the second team, broke into the varsity plays several times.

Driver was out in his suit tonight, but was not in the lineup, although he followed the plays closely and spent considerable time in punting and place kicking.

UNIVERSITY OF WISCONSIN TEAM AT PRACTICE AT MADISON.



NOT SATISFIED WITH DEFENSE.

Yost Issues "Bear" Statements, but His Men Are in Fine Condition for Saturday's Battle.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Oct. 29.—[Special.]—Yost, still unsatisfied with Michigan's defense; Fitzpatrick, pleased with the physical condition of the men; Bair, tickled nearly to death with the attendance prospects; players wondering what is going to happen; rooters confident the Wolverines will whip the Badgers—that about sizes up the Ann Arbor situation regarding the Michigan-Wisconsin game.

Yesterday Yost said the men played worse than they did on Monday. Today he says they did not show as much vim as last week, and tomorrow it is expected he will make comparisons with the Whitmore lake period. Fitzpatrick says Maddock's hand is coming along all right and by Saturday the big tackle will feel no bad effects from the boil. Capt. Weeks' leg is being dressed with antiseptics and is nearly as strong as ever. Outside of these two there is not a single hard luck tale to relate as to the condition, and, barring accidents, Michigan will start in against Wisconsin in prime condition.

"Pa" Henninger, the old tackle, who did much to make Michigan a champion team, came back to Ann Arbor today and took charge of Forest and Baker at the tackle positions. Jack McLean, the Knox coach, could not stay away and will break into Ann Arbor tomorrow to give a few pointers to the back field. Farnham, Henninger, and McLean will assist Yost tomorrow in putting on the final touches.

In today's practice, which consisted of forty-five minutes of scrimmage, the scrubs had the ball most of the time, and the sum total of their gains was forty-five yards. The varsity took the ball and practiced on end runs with revolving interference and they resulted in big gains.

Tonight a big massmeeting was held in University hall. It was simply to practice singing and rooting and was attended by 2,000 students, who showed the greatest amount of effervescence possible in a confident collegian. Prof. Stanley led the singing and Prof. Trueblood the rooting.

STAGG MIXES UP HIS ELEVENS.

Varsity Backs Play Behind Scrub Line and Each Team Scores One Touchdown by Hard Work.

Another spirited scrimmage was the program yesterday for the maroons at Marshall field. Two teams were made up, with the varsity backs behind the second team's line, altered, however, by the presence of Ellsworth at center. Fleming played the snap back position on the other eleven, and Linton, Enoch, and Beach made up the back field. Each team scored one touchdown. Ellsworth, for his squad, kicked goal.

The fact that both sides scored does not indicate any weakening of the varsity's defense, for each side had hard work to reach the goal line. The gains were nearly all made by short, consistent line bucks. Burrows, on the team with the scrub line, made one run of twenty-five yards.

At half Linton showed improved form. He did much better on defense, making several good tackles. His work at smashing half was creditable. "Big" Maxwell is showing up well in carrying the ball. Ivison was out for a little run to warm up.

While fifteen or twenty of the squad practiced catching punts Stagg took the varsity behind the east gridiron and taught it a couple of new formations. Then the men were put through rigorous signal drill, and afterward lined up for the scrimmage.

On Marshall field "Jimmy," the man with the hoe, and his corps of assistants were busy putting things in readiness for the big game Saturday. The extra seats which are to be put up had not arrived yesterday. They belong to a circus which has been exhibiting at Bartboo, Wis. They will be set up at the north end of the field and on the east side north of the present gridiron, making the inclosure complete on three sides.

The game with Beloit on Saturday will be called at 10 a. m. Two twenty-five minute halves will be played.

Stiff Practice for Beloit Eleven.

Beloit, Wis., Oct. 29.—[Special.]—Coach Hollister put the varsity eleven through a stiff practice tonight and the scrubs were unable to make any headway or hold the line against the regulars. With the exception of Cronk, who will be out of Saturday's game, the boys are all in good condition, and the coach considers their chances for scoring against the maroons good if the field is dry. Though lighter in weight, the Beloit team is fast, and Hollister relies on speedy playing for good results. He thinks the maroons have improved, but says Beloit should hold them to a low score.

SHIFTS PURPLE LINEUP AGAIN.

Hollister Relegates New Players to Side Lines and Calls Veterans Into Game Against Purdue.

Another shift in the lineup of the Northwestern eleven has been made for the game with Purdue tomorrow. The new players who were put in at the beginning of the Knox game have nearly all been relegated to the side lines, and the veterans who composed the team in the game with Chicago, with possibly one exception, will face the Boilermakers. Capt. Ward and Baird will play guards, Bell center, and Allen and Kafer ends.

With this combination the practice yesterday was encouraging. At the start of the scrimmage the scrubs got the ball on the varsity's thirty-five yard line and made a touchdown, but after that were unable to gain, although there were fourteen, including Al Johnson, on the scrub team. The varsity made four touchdowns and was able to gain on almost every play. A couple of fumbles spoiled the practice to some extent. Rogers and Blair were again played at half and did some fast work. Fleager was out in a suit, but did not participate in the scrimmage. He will be in tomorrow's game, however.

Previous to the scrimmage Hollister drilled the team in fast signal work and in interference. The speed here developed showed in the scrimmage, and the practice today will be along the same lines. The coach and players are of the opinion that hard work will be necessary to defeat Purdue, and there will be no overconfidence.

LAKE FOREST DEFEATS LEWIS.

Suburbanites Win Close Game from Institute Eleven by a Score of 6 to 5.

Lake Forest defeated the eleven from Lewis institute at Lake Forest yesterday by a score of 6 to 5. The first touchdown was made by Kedsie for Lake Forest after seven minutes of play.

Lake Forest kicked off to Lewis, who was forced to kick from the twenty yard line. The ball was fumbled but regained by a Chicago man. Another kick was tried, but this time Walsh stopped the ball even higher than before. Kedsie fell on it behind the line. The goal was kicked by Hoyne. In the first half occurred the only accident, Hoffman leaving the field with a broken arm. Lineup:

KNOX DEFEATS KANSAS TEAM.

Galesburg Eleven Wins from Jayhawkers in Close Game by a Score of 5 to 0.

Galesburg, Ill., Oct. 29.—[Special.]—Before the largest crowd assembled on Willard field this season Knox college defeated the Kansas university football eleven today by a score of 5 to 0. Neither side scored in the first half, which closed with the ball on Kansas' ten yard line. Kansas kicked off the second half, and Ackerson of Knox caught the ball, and, with fine interference, ran the full length of the grounds for a touchdown. After that neither side scored, but the ball was most of the time in Knox territory, owing to fumbles by the local men, and Kansas' frequent resort to punts. Lineup:

Lewis Scrubs, 10; Latin School, 0.

The Lewis institute second eleven defeated the Chicago Latin school team in a well played game at Lincoln park yesterday by a score of 10 to 0. The feature was the line bucking of Herts and Clifford and the good work of Lytton for Lewis. Lineup:

Chicago L. School. [0]		Lewis Inst. Scrubs [10].
R. E.	Sasinac	Oussett
R. T.	Steckis	Page

St. Ignatius, 6; Rush Medics, 0.

St. Ignatius college defeated the Rush Medical college eleven in a hard fought game at the Gaelic grounds yesterday afternoon by a score of 6 to 0. The teams were evenly matched, but the contest was marred by much fumbling. The playing of Johnson, Doyle, and R. Pendergast for St. Ignatius, and the work of Rennick for Rush featured the game. Lineup:

Rush Medics [0]		St. Ignatius [6].
R. E.	Cunningham	Ferguson

Cadets, 36; Lake View High, 5.

The Lake View high school eleven was defeated at Highland Park yesterday by the Northwestern Military academy. The score was 36 to 5. The high school boys were at one time dangerous, and had it not been for the quick eye and quicker legs of Holton, who made a thirty yard run, they would not have scored at all. For the cadets Evans made his usual good tackles, and all of the backs played a fine game. Herrick, the cadet right half, besides kicking six goals, made two touchdowns. The next game on the cadet schedule is with South Side academy next Wednesday. Lineup:

Harvard (24).		Oxford (0).
R. E.	Wright	Sturdeant

Williams, 16; Colgate, 5.

Williamstown, Mass., Oct. 29.—[Special.]—Williams won the first home victory of the season today, defeating Colgate by the score of 16 to 5 in a well played game. The Williams team showed great improvement in team work and interference.

ANNUAL TRYOUT FOR MAROONS.

Candidates for Track Team Will Have Chance to Show Paces to Director Stagg Today.

Director Stagg will hold his annual fall tryout for candidates for the track team this morning at 11 o'clock. The Midway school has a goodly number of track men this fall and many of them have good records behind them.

Of the old men Magee, Speik, Perkins, Henry, Warner, Kalamatiano, Quantrell, Greenberg, Ferris, F. G. Smith, Gale, Wellington, and Blair are on hand. Of the new men Hall, Parry, Buckwalter, Robert Maxwell, Catlin, Jones, and Dickerson will appear for the first time this morning under maroon colors.

Besides these men who have experience Stagg has thirty-six men, mostly novices, in his morning track class. There are but seven twenty-five and thirty in the cross country squad. Altogether the maroon coach will have a big bunch of material to pick a team from in the spring.

SILER'S GOSSIP OF FIGHTERS.

Harry Forbes Matched to Box Finnucane and Halliday on Same Night at American Club.

[BY GEORGE SILER.]

Bantamweight Champion Harry Forbes intends to try his hand at meeting two men in one night for six rounds each. The black haired boy yesterday matched himself to meet Billy Finnucane at 122 pounds and George Halliday, the former amateur bantamweight champion of New York, at 118 pounds, at the America Athletic club's show Monday night.

Halliday, according to his record, has never been defeated. He won ten amateur tournaments, and not only carried away the honors in the 118 pound class but also won two A. A. U. tourneys in the 122 pound division. After that he went among the professionals and up to date has been extremely successful. Finnucane has shown himself a tough little fellow, and should he get first whack at Forbes, with Halliday on a few minutes later, the easterner may have a good chance of upsetting the champion.

This will be Forbes' first attempt at the two man game, and what he will be able to do against two youngsters like Finnucane and Halliday will be an interesting question.

Reports from the training quarters of Buddy Ryan and "Kid" Broad, the contestants in the windup at the Transport club's show tomorrow night, have the boys in excellent condition. They put in their hardest licks yesterday, and when they had completed their day's work they were below the required weight, 128 pounds. Neither has anything hard in sight between now and the time he is called to weigh in.

Ryan, for the first time in his fistic career, is on feather edge, and there is no doubt he will enter the ring fit to go the distance at top speed. Broad has also trained well for the contest. He has used such husky fellows as Hugo Kelly and Tom Dunleavy in his sparring workouts, and the roughing he received from these middleweights has made him look good to the pinhead. Yesterday he was two pounds under weight, thus making sure of saving his manager's forfeit of $250.

The battle is causing an unusual amount of interest, as Broad has his hook baited to match with the winner of the McGovern-Corbett fight, and a defeat at the hands of Ryan will put him out of the running. McGovern, who fancies Buddy's chances, and ex-Champion James J. Corbett will be at the ringside.

The full card is as follows: Johnny Moran and Jim Taylor, 108 pounds; Harry White and Eddie Gardner, 118 pounds; Jack Northrop and "Young Kid McCoy," 138 pounds; "Young Scotty" and Billy Moore, 130 pounds; and four others.

McGovern-Jordan Match Off.

New York, Oct. 29.—[Special.]—The proposed contest between Terry McGovern and Ben Jordan has been abandoned for good. Dr. Ordway, the American representative of the National Sporting club of London, made this announcement today. Ordway reported this conclusion after a confab with McGovern's manager, who admits that McGovern cannot reduce to 122 pounds, the weight at which he suggested a fight.

Dwyer Wins Wrestling Match.

New Haven, Conn., Oct. 29.—" Prof." M. J. Dwyer defeated J. C. Comstock of Detroit in wrestling tonight. Comstock was to throw Dwyer four times in an hour without being thrown. After Comstock had won two falls Dwyer put Comstock's shoulders to the mat.

Sir Modred; bay colt, by Oakwood—Freia, by Hanover. The last named is a highly bred yearling, and is believed to be of stake class. All the youngsters have valuable engagements as 2 and 3 year olds.

Jumper McManus Killed at Latonia.

Cincinnati, O., Oct. 29.—The first steeplechase of the meeting was decided at Latonia today. Fourteen horses started and ten of them finished without an accident. The others fell at various jumps, and McManus, one of the betting choices, broke his back from a fall and had to be destroyed. Crest won in clever fashion. TWO NEW RECORDS MADE.

TRIALS AGAINST TIME ARE FEATURE OF MEMPHIS TROTTING.

Direct Hal and Prince Direct Pace Mile as a Team in 2:05 1-2, Beating Best Previous Performance Nearly Three Seconds—Onward Silver Ties His Own Mark for Two Miles Trotting—Nervola Beats Watch in Effort at Same Distance.

Memphis, Tenn., Oct. 29.—Two world's records were reduced and another tied at today's meeting of the Memphis Trotting association. The first special event was the attempt of Direct Hal and Prince Direct to pace a mile, as a team, against the record of 2:08¾. The pair was driven by the veteran Geers, and when the time, 2:05½, was hung out the crowd gave the stars a cheer. The first quarter was paced in :32½, the half in 1:04, and the three-quarter pole was passed in 1:34½.

Onward Silver next appeared to beat his previous two mile trotting record of 4:28½. Driven by Hudson, the horse made a gallant effort, but he could only tie his former mark. The bay stallion Nervola was sent against 4:25¼, the pacing record for stallions at two miles. Dean handled his horse well, and at the end a full second was chipped off the old figures. Prince Alert failed to beat the gelding's pacing record of 2:00¾, finishing the mile in 2:01¾.

Sir Albert S. was a hot favorite for the Emerald handicap for 2:09 pacers. He gave way to Coney Wilkes after the first heat, the latter winning handily. Chain Shot beat The Abbot in the free for all trot, while Hugh Wynne annexed the purse in the 2:30 trot. Summaries:

Ed Geers, who drove The Abbot for the first time this year, was called on to explain the defeat of the gelding. He said he was unaware of The Abbot's poor condition until after the first heat. All bets were declared off, although no charge of fraud was made.

Lord Derby, E. E. Smather's great trotter, will be asked for more tomorrow than any other trotter has ever been called on, for he will be sent against Cresceus' world's record for the mile, and an hour later he will be tried for Onward Silver's American two mile mark.

DWYER HITS NEWSPAPER MAN.

An assault by Starter Dick Dwyer on a newspaper man was a sensational feature at the close of yesterday's races at Worth. Dwyer met Harry Breyvogle in front of the grand stand as both were leaving for the train and struck him, knocking his hat off.

Starter Dwyer's work at the Worth meeting has been the most unsatisfactory the veterans have ever done at the local tracks. It is well known, however, that he is bitterly opposed to the no recall flag system, and this has been regarded as the explanation for his unsuccessful work at the Piper track, especially as he apparently has been impartial in his mistakes.

Dwyer, it is claimed, feels aggrieved at what he considers imputations against his honesty. Mr. Breyvogle said last night: "I think Dwyer is honest and have said nothing to the contrary, but I think his work is open to criticism."

Starter Dwyer said last night: "It was a plain accusation of dishonesty. He might as well have called me a pickpocket. For that matter, I thought he was making a movement to strike me when I hit him. I have been starting horses for seventeen years and this is the first trouble I have ever had."

Ballantree Wins the Cambridgeshire.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

LONDON, Oct. 29.—The race for the Cambridgeshire stakes was run at the Newmarket Houghton meeting today and was won by W. C. Whitney's Ballantree. Col. H. McCalmont's St. Maclou was second and Comte de Bousson's Nabot third. Ballantree had been a hot favorite since he beat his stable companion, Spectrum, in a trial on Sunday. Spectrum beat Capt. Loder's Game Chick easily the same day. The betting was 9 to 4 against Ballantree, 5 to 1 against St. Maclou, and 20 to 1 against Nabot. Twenty-four horses ran. Ballantree won by a head in the fast time of 1:54. The distance was one mile and a furlong.

Reiff Sues French Publisher.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

PARIS, Oct. 29.—Johnny Reiff, the American jockey, who was lately ruled off the French tracks, has issued a summons for the manager of Le Vie Au Grand Air for publishing an article with Reiff's portrait which led to the withdrawal of the jockey's license by the Jockey club.

Bowling Tournament Is Postponed.

Indianapolis, Ind., Oct. 29.—[Special.]—Mayor Bookwalter, as president of the American Bowling congress, has postponed the annual national tournament and convention of the bowlers from Feb. 2 to Feb. 16. The change was made to remove the conflict of dates for the use of Tomlinson hall with the annual convention of the United Mineworkers of America. The miners are to meet in Tomlinson hall on Jan. 19. Their convention, with the conference with the operators, will last three weeks. That would have carried the miners' convention into the time assigned for the bowlers.

Chicago Bowlers Defeated.

Dubuque, Ia., Oct. 29.—[Special.]—The big three bowling team of Chicago closed its western trip here today and met its first defeat, the local team winning four of the six games and scoring forty-two more total pins. The local team scored 1,756 pins in the afternoon series and thus won the trophy for highest score by any team which played against the big three on the trip. The local players were: Foster, Johannsen, and Schreiner. Johannsen averaged 196 5-6 and Thompson, Chicago, 196 2-6.

ARNOLD HORSES RUN POOR RACES.

ELSIE L. WINS A SPRINT.

She Carries 116 Pounds Over the Six Furlong Course in 1:12 3-5.

Worth's twenty-three days' fall meeting, now drawing to a close, has been marred by bad looking races the last two days. During the first three weeks of the meeting the sport was quite free from scandal, but in the races of Tuesday and yesterday there was an atmosphere of caucus results that tasted badly in the mouths of most spectators.

The victories of Charley Thompson, Elsie L., and The Conqueror II. looked bad yesterday not so much because these horses won as because of the way in which the betting went, and the races carried out the diversions in the ring. This was particularly true in the Elsie L. and Conqueror races, in which horses of class took part, and horses of class are supposed to be fairly consistent. The chief offender against form in each of these cases came from the St. Louis stable of E. J. Arnold & Co., and both were ridden by Battiste.

Elsie L. won a six furlong sprint and carried 116 pounds, far more than she ever carried before to victory. Opposed to her were E. J. Arnold & Co.'s 2 year old Mary McCafferty, Duellist, Andes, Fake, and the 2 year olds, Jackfull and Sarah Maxim. Mary McCafferty was carrying 102 pounds, and as she was known to be as fast a horse as there was on the local tracks for a half mile she was a strong favorite, but steadily receded in the betting. Nearly everything else in the race was pecked at to beat her, Fake being a moderate second choice.

Coburn Has a Gala Day.

Coburn, who had a gala day, got a running start, and Elsie L. led all the way and won as she pleased. Mary McCafferty, although off with the rear division and apparently pocketed more or less, never showed any speed nor passed any one of her rivals at any part of the race, and finished next to last in a somewhat strung out field.

The Conqueror II. was in at a mile and fifty yards against E. J. Arnold & Co.'s Ethylene, Waswift, Nitrate, and Pink Coat. Ethylene carried 104 pounds; Waswift, 112; Nitrate, 108; and The Conqueror II., 108, the last named taking up five pounds overweight in order to get Coburn for a rider. It looked like if Ethylene had dropped into a comparatively soft spot, but—the betting! The St. Louis filly opened at even money and gradually drifted to 8 to 5. All the others except Pink Coat were played. Owner Durnell bet on Nitrate. A tip such as often circulates about the ring went out that The Conqueror II. was the "right one." He was backed quickly from 9 to 2 to 3 to 1. Then he gradually drifted back to 4 to 1 at post time.

Ethylene's Brief Speed.

Then came the race. Ethylene, the supposed "best mare in training," went out in front and at a slow pace led for a short time and then dropped out of it. In the stretch The Conqueror II. moved to the front and, running strongly, led to the finish. In the last eighth everything in the race, including Ethylene, seemed to be driving to the limit, and it was a comparatively good finish. Ethylene finished fourth, beaten out even by sluggish old Pink Coat, which had a stable boy in the saddle.

E. J. Arnold's friends claim he bet $1,000 on Ethylene. But spectators could not help contrasting the showing made by Ethylene yesterday and that made by her on Tuesday. On that day she had merely galloped home in front of Elsie L. Yesterday Elsie L. carried eight pounds more than she had on Monday and ran six furlongs in 1:12⅘. Yesterday Ethylene "chucked" it at the end of a half mile, and the six furlongs were run in 1:14⅘, with a difference in weight of twelve pounds in her favor.

LABOR NEEDED IN PHILIPPINES.

War Department Commissioner Advises the Importation of Chinese.

SUGGESTS CONTRACT PLAN

Subject of Land Tenure in Islands Also Considered as One of First Importance.

WASHINGTON BUREAU CHICAGO TRIBUNE
Washington, D. C., Oct. 29.

Prof. Jeremiah W. Jenks, special commissioner of the war department, in a report to Secretary Root, has recommended that employers of labor be permitted to introduce Chinese laborers into the Philippines under contract for a period of not over three years in each individual instance. The employer should give bonds for the proper care of the Chinese, for their employment in the ways indicated in the contract, for their safe keeping during their stay in the islands, and for their return to China at the end of the period of contract unless the contract is specifically renewed with the permission and under the supervision of the government.

The need for more labor to carry out the work of the government itself in making roads, railroads, harbor improvements, as well as for private capitalists to develop sugar, hemp, and tobacco plantations and manufacturing enterprises of various kinds is emphatically pointed out.

On the other hand, with no less emphasis, is made clear the need of careful restrictions as immigration in order to prevent the exploitation of the natives by the Chinamen. Care should also be taken to prevent the Chinese from coming to the United States from the Philippines. This recommendation has been made by Prof. Jenks after visits to the Philippines and to the dependencies of England, Holland, and France in the orient, in all of which countries Prof. Jenks found a dearth of native labor.

Where Chinese were imported the countries have progressed. Chinese are barred from the Philippines under a military order.

On the question of land tenure Prof. Jenks says the government should take especial pains to conserve the interests of the native Filipinos and to prevent the absorption by speculators, American or others, of agricultural as well as of forest and mining lands. Following the almost universal custom of oriental countries, continues Prof. Jenks, it would be best for the government to retain the title and to lease the lands for long periods—thirty years or so—at a fixed rental, reserving the right to revise the terms of rent at the end of the period named.

Care Advised in Matter of Land Tenure.

The rental should be fixed according to the value of the average annual crop, without reference to private improvements, speaking generally, and persons not cultivating their lands should forfeit them. In connection with the land administration Prof. Jenks recommends that some provision be made for loans to small landholders, particularly for the purchase of cattle and agricultural tools. If it seems unwise for the government to undertake itself the making of agricultural loans it should, at any rate, exercise careful supervision over those made by private parties in order to protect the ill informed against usurers.

In order to encourage the investment of capital in the development of the agricultural resources of the islands Prof. Jenks recommends that especially favorable terms with low rentals should be made for a time to large investors. It is not wise to grant perpetual leases without reserving the right to revise the terms of rental, or to dispose of lands in fee simple, excepting in cases where claims have already been obtained under the Spanish government or where the circumstances are such that there is no possibility of the native Filipinos being ousted.

Secretary Root left Washington this afternoon for New York, where he will make a political speech at Cooper Union tomorrow night. Upon his return to Washington he will begin the preparation of his annual report.

In a recent paper published by the United States geological survey on wells and windmills in Nebraska, mention is made of the interesting phenomena of the breathing or blowing wells which are found distributed throughout a large portion of the state of Nebraska. These wells are of the driven type, mostly in use upon the plains, but are distinguished from those of ordinary character by a remarkable and unexplained egress and ingress of currents of air which produce distinctly audible sounds and give the names variously applied to them of breathing, sighing, blowing, or roaring wells, according to their characters, in different places.

Scientists Make Study of Breathing Wells.

The air currents are readily tested with the flames of candles or by dropping chaff or feathers into the well tubes. There are periods when these wells blow out for several days and equal periods when their air currents are reversed. It has been observed that the blowing occurs with changes of the barometer. Some wells are found to be most audible when the wind is from the northwest, with a rise in water level; but with a change of wind air is drawn in and the water is observed to sink.

During the progress of a low barometer area over one of these regions, wind is violently expelled from the wells, with a noise distinctly audible for several rods. Prof. Loveland and Swezey of the University of Nebraska have made observations on a well of this nature in Perkins county, and found its breathing periods were exactly coincident with the barometric changes. No satisfactory explanation of this strange phenomenon is advanced.

Attorney Hayden, on behalf of Mrs. Elizabeth B. Sampson, widow and administratrix of the estate of Admiral Sampson, and on behalf of Admirals Evans, Taylor, and other officers concerned, presented to the Supreme court today a petition asking that their names be substituted for that of William T. Sampson, deceased, as defendant in error in the suit to recover the prize money on the Spanish cruiser Maria Teresa. The petition undoubtedly will be granted.

Widow of the Late W. T. Sampson Asks Order.

Mr. Pierre de Margerie, chargé d'affaires of the French embassy, and Mme. de Margerie, arrived in Washington today from Manchester-by-the-Sea, where the embassy was located for the summer, and have opened their home. Mme. de Margerie did the social honors for the French embassy during the absence of Mme. Cambon, and has taken a prominent place socially since her arrival. M. Cambon is now at the French embassy, but will not attempt to entertain before his departure, as the work of packing his personal effects is now in progress.

French Charge Returns to the Capital.

President Roosevelt will leave on Monday for Oyster Bay, where he goes to cast his vote. The president will receive the election returns at Sagamore Hill that night, and on Wednesday will attend a Masonic celebration in Philadelphia, returning to Washington Wednesday night or the following morning. Mrs. Roosevelt probably will leave Oyster Bay with the president and come direct to Washington, probably taking up her abode in the remodeled White house. Several of the remodeled living rooms in the second story of the White house are now ready for occupancy.

President Going Home for Election Day.

Benjamin Ide Wheeler, formerly a member of the Philippine commission and president of the University of California, made some exceedingly complimentary remarks concerning President Roosevelt as the Californian was leaving the White house today. "I do not mind saying the country would go sweepingly democratic in the congressional elections," said Mr. Wheeler, "if it were not for the personality of President Roosevelt. He is a most remarkable man and is a platform in himself. I have stopped in Nebraska, and I was surprised at the general sentiment I encountered. But for personal admiration and regard for the president thousands of republicans everywhere would vote the democratic ticket. I do not hesitate to say that if the republicans carry the house they may attribute their success wholly to the personality of President Roosevelt."

Benj. I. Wheeler Says Roosevelt Is Vote Winner.

President Roosevelt will go for a bear hunt in the cane brakes of the Mississippi river next month if he has time. Col. Roosevelt today promised to visit California after the adjournment of congress.

BOTH SIDES ARE FIRM IN MICHIGAN COLLEGE BOYCOTT.

Students Declare They Will Not Return Until Suspensions Are Canceled and Faculty Refuses Demand.

Lansing, Mich., Oct. 29.—[Special.]—There has been no change today in the condition of affairs at the Agricultural college. All the students again refrained from attending classes and at a massmeeting held this morning it was unanimously decided to sustain the boycott until the suspended students are reinstated.

A conference of several hours' duration between a committee of students and members of the faculty was barren of results. President Snyder's ultimatum was as follows:

"If you have a grievance prepare a petition to the faculty and it will be carefully considered. If the decision of the faculty is not satisfactory appeal to the state board of agriculture. There is no use of further discussion, as the action taken in suspending the students cannot be rescinded."

Chairman Towar of the students' committee says: "The entire student body is anxious to return to studies, but we have pledged our faith to boycott the classes until those students unjustly suspended have been reinstated in college. It is for them we are fighting."

The trouble is not likely to be settled for several days. A number of students have returned home to await the outcome.

ILLINOIS LAND WELL ASSESSED.

Nearly Entire Taxable Area of State Has Been Valued by Equalizers.

Springfield, Ill., Oct. 29.—[Special.]—An examination of the returns made by the local assessors in the several counties of the state to the board of equalization discloses the fact that little taxable property in the realty line will escape its burden of taxation.

The total area of Illinois is 56,650 square miles, or a total of 36,256,000 acres of land. Of this amount the local assessors have made returns upon a total of 34,613,828 acres.

Of the 1,642,172 acres not assessed it is estimated that water courses, lakes, and other bodies of water made a total water surface of 650 square miles. Exempted property includes town and city lots, which are assessed separately; church and school properties, unsold lands of the Illinois Central railroad company, cemeteries, etc.

The capital stock committee of the board of equalization, up to tonight, had passed upon 2,300 Cook county corporations. Of this number over 800 have been assessed upon their capital stock by the committee. In addition to the 200 that were assessed by the local assessors.

The total capital stock assessment extended by the committee already reached $6,500,000, and this amount will be materially increased before the work of the committee is concluded. None of the Cook county franchise corporations has been passed upon yet.

Arguments were made before the railroad committee today by F. P. Crandon, tax commissioner of the Northwestern railway, and by W. J. Parsons, representing the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul system.

MAY ARRANGE CUBAN TREATY.

Minister Squiers Has Advised State Department That Reciprocity Has Not Been Rejected.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 29.—[Special.]—Minister Squiers at Havana has advised the department of state that it is now believed from the limited knowledge obtainable at Havana that the reciprocity arrangement proposed by this government has not been rejected by Cuba, but that it has been merely returned, and a counter proposition is submitted with reference to important items. Cuba holds that the United States government has proposed too many concessions for itself without corresponding reciprocity toward Cuba.

It is hoped by the authorities here that ratification of the treaty by the senate alone will do everything of a legislative character necessary to be performed in Washington.

The intention of the administration to bring to Cuba's attention the failure of the Havana government to show a disposition to carry out the pledges set forth in the Cuban constitution has not changed in any degree.

Secretary of State Hay had a conference on the subject today with Acting Secretary of the Navy Darling, the particular object of their exchange of views being to determine the character of the proposals to be made by the United States with reference to sites for naval coaling stations in Cuba.

SMOKING CHIMNEY OF M'VICKER'S THEATER.

[From a photograph taken for THE TRIBUNE.]

Get a Change of Venue from Gibbons After Several Experiences in His Court — Chimney of the Building Complained Of Bitterly Because of Its Proximity to the Shopping Districts—Penalties Imposed on Owners of Several Downtown Blocks.

Previous experience with Justice Gibbons' attitude toward the makers of "dense black smoke" led the representatives of McVicker's theater yesterday to take a change of venue when called before him to answer another charge of violating the smoke ordinance. They will try their fortunes with Justice Joseph Sheldon Nov. 5.

The particular offense charged in the case called was committed Oct. 2, and it is said the theater representatives were in a way to be assessed a large fine as old offenders if the case were proved against them. When it was called, however, George E. Warren made an affidavit of prejudice, and the case was sent to the nearest justice.

Inspectors Trying to Check It.

Smoke inspectors have been endeavoring for some time to put an end to "the emission of dense smoke," as they charge, from the chimneys of the theater building. The building is situated within a short distance of Madison and State streets, the busiest shopping center of the city, and the heavy black smoke that pours out of its chimneys has become a nuisance to pedestrians and to the tenants of the buildings in the vicinity. On occasions, it is claimed, the smoke, filling the street below, had given the pedestrians the impression of a fire in the neighborhood.

According to Justice Gibbons, the management of the building has been before him on several occasions on similar charges, but the imposition of fines has not abated the nuisance.

Numerous Fines Imposed.

Nine charges of smoke ordinance violations against Lydon & Drews and three each against the Cooke Brewing company, John P. Agnew, and Robert H. Law were continued by Justice Gibbons and fines were imposed in other cases as follows:

Great Northern hotel building, $25 and costs.
Briggs hotel, $15 and costs.
Chicago Edison company, 2 Washington street, $150 fines in three cases, also costs.
Masonic temple, $15 and costs.
Arthur J. O'Leary, 130 West Lake street, $1 and costs.
Kinsley restaurant, fined the costs.

MANSFIELD AFTER DR. HALL.

Actor Declares He Has Been Slandered by Chicago Preacher and Demands Public Apology.

Pittsburg, Pa., Oct. 29.—[Special.]—Richard Mansfield, the actor, is after the scalp of the Rev. W. F. Hall of Chicago, and unless the latter makes an abject and public apology there will be trouble. Last Sunday, in the Temple of Music at Chicago, the Rev. Mr. Hall devoted the greater part of his discourse to uncomplimentary remarks about Mr. Mansfield. The Rev. Mr. Hall, it is alleged, declared from the pulpit that Mr. Mansfield cursed and swore while in Chicago, because theaters were sometimes used for church services.

Mr. Mansfield declares, in the most positive terms, that this statement is utterly false. He says that he has the highest respect for churches and church people; he never plays on Sunday, although the provocation to do so is sometimes great; his friends also allege that he never uses profanity.

In view of all these things, Mr. Mansfield thinks that he has been maliciously slandered. His manager, Lyman B. Glover, today telegraphed Mr. Mansfield's Chicago attorney, E. E. Prussing, and instructed him to enter suit at once against the Rev. Mr. Hall for slander unless a complete and public apology is made.

ALLEGED BRIBERY IN INDIANA.

Scandal in South Bend City Council Over Purchase of Steam Roller Under Inquiry.

South Bend, Ind., Oct. 29.—[Special.]—An alleged attempt of the O. S. Kelly company of Springfield, O., to bribe a member of the council will be investigated. Judge Coolidge of the Berrien Circuit court has granted an injunction restraining the city from paying notes given to the company in settlement of a steam roller purchased for $3,350. The action of the court is the result of charges made by ex-Ald. Daniel Sheehan, who alleges that the council paid $1,000 too much for the roller, and some months ago Sheehan charged that he had been offered $700 to vote in favor of the purchase of the machine.

MINERS OBSERVE "MITCHELL DAY."

STOP ALL WORK TO CHEER

Arbitration Commission Reaches Scranton and Will Inspect Collieries Today.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., Oct. 29.—[Special.]—Anthracite miners, who were idle five months on strike, took another day off today to celebrate their victory. "Mitchell day" was observed in all the principal towns of the region and nearly all the mines were closed.

The principal demonstration was held in this city, and President Mitchell took part. There was snow and sunshine during the day, but the changeable weather did not keep an army of strangers out of town. Everybody wore a John Mitchell badge.

The procession started shortly before noon and was nearly one hour in passing a given point. It is estimated that there were 10,000 men in line. President Mitchell was wildly cheered all along the line of march, and whenever his carriage stopped the crowd from the sidewalk pressed around and insisted on shaking his hand.

After the parade a big massmeeting was held at Y. M. C. A. park. The first speaker was the Rev. J. F. Powers of Spring Valley, Ill. He said he had known John Mitchell since boyhood and he always found him noble and upright. He was delighted, he said, to see the great tribute paid him by the hard coal miners.

Thomas Haggerty of Reynoldsville, Pa., eulogized Mitchell for his great work in behalf of the miners. Several addresses in foreign languages then followed.

Mitchell Addresses the Miners.

President Mitchell was the last speaker. He said in part:

"Language is inadequate to express the gratitude I feel for this great reception at the hands of the anthracite miners, and I feel that the victory is not due to myself, but to the men, women, and children who made so many sacrifices. I hope that there will never again be a strike in the coal fields of Pennsylvania. I want the union miners to prove that they are better workmen than the nonunion men.

"I desire the men and the operators to meet. I do not want to make enemies of the operators. In closing I wish to impress upon you that membership in the union is the only safeguard. The operators are not going to pay the bill of the strike. They will make the workers pay it if they can, but if not they will make the public pay it. It behooves the mineworkers, therefore to see to it that they are not made the victims, and I hope you will be true to yourselves and to one another, and see to it that the cost of this greatest labor struggle that has ever been waged is not placed on your backs. Stick by your union and the union will stick by you."

Miners' Case Is Prepared.

President Mitchell was busy tonight completing his plans for the first meeting of the arbitration board at its meeting in Scranton tomorrow. Prof. Weil is assisting Mr. Mitchell in preparing his case for presentation; also Dr. Peter Roberts of Mahanoy City, an authority on the hard coal industry. Prof. Roberts has received a degree from Yale college for writing a book on the anthracite coal industry.

Strike Commission at Scranton.

Scranton, Pa., Oct. 29.—The anthracite coal strike commissioners, who will make an inspection of the mines and the homes of the mineworkers, arrived here tonight. Commissioner T. H. Watkins, whose home is in this city, came here early in the day and arranged some of the details for the first day's tour of the upper region. The commission headquarters are at the Hotel Jermyn, where the party occupies fourteen rooms.

Tomorrow will be spent in the region north of this city. At 9:15 a. m. the party will leave for Forest City. This mining town is in Susquehanna county, and is the upper edge of the hard coal fields. The train will travel slowly so that the commissioners can get a good idea of the country. At Forest City the party will be lowered into one of the Erie company's mines and it is expected that the entire morning will be spent underground.

Lunch will be had in Carbondale, four miles south of Forest City. A coal breaker will be visited at Carbondale, and then the return journey to Scranton will be made. The commissioners will stop at Olyphant for the purpose of visiting other collieries and to look at the homes and surroundings of the mineworkers.

On Friday the commission will spend the day visiting collieries in and about the city of Scranton and viewing the mining suburbs. On Saturday the commission will go to Wilkesbarre.

Watkins Tells Arbitrators' Plans.

Mr. Watkins today said that the commission probably will not sit to take testimony until after a tour of the region has been completed. It is possible, though, that a session will take place on Monday in Wilkesbarre to receive the statement to be presented by President Mitchell of the mineworkers, to which the operators have agreed to make answer within three days. No testimony will be taken in this city this week.

"The purpose of the commission," Mr. Watkins said, "is to get a general view of the physical conditions of anthracite mining with the idea of giving the members of the commission unacquainted with coal mining an opportunity of seeing what a mine is like, how the miners work and live, and how the product is handled."

POLICE AND DOGS SEEK CRACKSMEN

DIVIDE LOOT, FLEE HERE.

Amount Secured by the Five Robbers Is Estimated at from $4,000 to $15,000.

Chicago was the scene of a man hunt yesterday in which five bank robbers, two bloodhounds, and a score of city detectives figured. The chase followed a bold raid on the Exchange National bank of Gardner, Ill., committed at 3 in the morning, and the flight of the robbers to Chicago on the Alton passenger train, which reached the city at 7:10 a. m. The amount of money secured by the robbers is variously estimated at from $4,000 to $15,000.

While the man hunt had not been successful up to a late hour last night, the police have good descriptions of the robbers, and say they are confident they will capture them.

The delay of the Gardner authorities in not notifying the Chicago police sooner greatly hampered Chief O'Neill's men in their work. When the first notice of the bank robbery was received the train bearing the offenders already was in the suburbs, and before policemen could be sent to intercept it the robbers had swung off near the Brighton Park station and disappeared.

Dogs Put on the Trail.

It was then that the dogs, which are the property of "Jack" Nichols, who lives in Gardner, the scene of the robbery, were called to take up the chase. The dogs were taken to the bank, allowed to smell a number of articles left behind by the robbers, and then brought to Chicago on a noon train.

The dogs were led to the point where the men were supposed to have left the train and the scent was taken readily. From this point, which was on the Alton tracks, about 200 yards west of California avenue, the hounds rushed westward, dodging around some freight cars and under others. They continued in a zigzag course till the intersection of Archer and Albany avenues was reached, but here the dogs stopped, ran backward and forward for a minute, then bayed violently and refused to go farther.

The police are satisfied that the robbers boarded a cable car at this point and last night they were trying to locate the conductor of the car in hope that he might be able to tell at what street the robbers left his vehicle.

Description of the Robbers.

The descriptions in the possession of the police were furnished by H. E. Humphrey, conductor of the train on which the robbers rode from Gardner to Chicago. Four of the men were remembered by Mr. Humphrey, but he could not give details as to the other. His descriptions of the four men follow:

Forty years old; five feet six and one-half inches tall; weight 140 pounds; thin face, smooth shaved; brown hair, and blue eyes; black overcoat and derby hat; might be called "good looking."

Thirty years old; five feet, eight and one-half inches tall; weight, 160 pounds; oval face; black overcoat and soft hat; "pleasant looking."

Forty-five years old; five feet, six inches tall; weight, 180 pounds; week's growth of beard; black hair and blue eyes; new black canvas coat; surly expression.

"I took good notice of the men after they boarded the train at Gardner," Conductor Humphrey said, "as it is unusual for five cash fares to be paid from one station, and these men paid cash. They scattered through the train, one riding in one of the vestibules."

How Robbery Was Accomplished.

Gardner, the scene of the robbery, has 1,200 population and is sixty-five miles southwest of Chicago. The police force of the place consists only of Marshal Nels Edmundson. Shortly after midnight the marshal was smoking in the engine house, when he heard a team drive through the village streets. He went to the door and was confronted by five men, who presented revolvers and commanded him to go with them to the bank.

Once in the bank the marshal was tied hand and foot, and the cracksmen went directly to their task. They had previously secured a crow bar from a blacksmith shop, and were well equipped with drills and explosives. A hole was drilled in the large safe, and the robbers asked Edmundson to take note of the skill with which their work was being done. A muffled explosion shook the iron door loose and the vault was quickly rifled of its cash, which was divided among the robbers on the spot.

Then the robbers deliberately devoted themselves to disposing of Edmundson. They unlocked a door and passed to the second floor, where a chair was brought to the edge of the stairway and the marshal tightly roped to it, a cord about his neck and tied to a support above, so if he struggled to free himself he would be hanged.

This done the robbers went to the Alton depot, where they boarded the train leaving at 4:40 o'clock for Chicago.

A message from Gardner last night said that the loss probably was greatly in excess of $4,000, as first reported. W. Scott Allison, president of the bank, refused to give out any figures.

BLOODHOUNDS AND THEIR OWNER, WHO LED A CHICAGO MAN HUNT.

[From a photograph taken for THE TRIBUNE.]

"Jack" Nichols and his two bloodhounds were the star performers in a Chicago man hunt yesterday. They came from Gardner, Ill., to aid in the pursuit of the robbers who cracked the safe of the Exchange National bank in Gardner, and then boarded an Alton passenger train for Chicago. While the dogs did their work well the robbers had not been captured up to a late hour last night. The hounds took the scent near the Brighton Park station, where the robbers left the train, and followed it to Albany and Archer avenues, where they stopped and bayed violently. It is supposed that the robbers boarded a trolley car at this point. The raid on the Gardner bank was carried out after City Marshal Nels Edmundson had been captured, taken to the bank, and bound. He was forced to watch the robbers do their work and asked to observe how expert they were.

EXIT THE DRINKING CUP.

SCHOOL BOARD DECIDES TO FIND SANITARY SUBSTITUTE.

Trustee Kuflewski Says the Time Honored Tin Mug Is a Menace to Health and Urges the Adoption of Fountains from Which Pupils Can Imbibe Direct Whenever the Flow of Water Is Turned On in the Buildings.

Drinking cups were tabooed by the board of education last evening and the committee on buildings and grounds was instructed to submit to the board a plan for establishing drinking fountains in the schools where the children may drink without "placing their lips to any vessel" at such time as the water supply is turned on again. The resolution which is expected to sound the knell of the rusty and possibly infected tin cups which are chained to the spigots in every public school in the city was introduced by Trustee Kuflewski. The resolution read as follows:

Whereas, The use of drinking cups at fountains and public drinking places, where persons suffering from infectious diseases, such as tuberculosis, diphtheria, follicular tonsilitis, and other dangerous diseases, drink in common with the general public, by placing the lips to the vessels, is recognized as a means of disseminating disease and a menace to the general public health; therefore, be it

Resolved, That the committee on buildings and grounds be, and is hereby, instructed to prepare and submit to this board a plan for a drinking fountain to be used at all the public schools that will provide a method of taking water without placing the lips to any vessel. Such plan to include a constant stream of water in such quantities as will assure a sufficient amount for drinking and cleansing purposes.

Mr. Kuflewski recommended that the children be required to resort to the crude methods of drinking in use by the day laborers by placing the mouth to the running stream.

"It is imperative that something be done," he urged, "as it is certain that much disease is spread through the agency of the drinking cup."

Water Report Is Adopted.

The report of the subcommittee of the buildings and grounds committee, which was appointed to investigate the water question, was adopted. The report included the report of the commission of bacteriologists that made the extended examination of the water supply and reported it to contain typhoid fever germs. The board concurred in the opinion of the subcommittee that nothing can be done to supply water to the schools, and it will remain shut off until its condition improves sufficient to warrant its safe use.

The action of Supt. Cooley in suspending Miss Jane J. McKeon, a teacher in the Andrew Jackson school, for insubordination, was supported by the board, and Miss McKeon will be required to stand trial before the school management committee. Supt. Cooley suspended Miss McKeon on Oct. 27 for "repeated acts of insubordination" during the principalship of both Mrs. Ellen Carpenter and William Hedges, the present principal of the school.

"The suspension of Miss McKeon is an outrage," declared a friend of the teacher who attended the meeting. "She is a splendid teacher, and her suspension is the result of systematic persecution. Mrs. Carpenter, who formerly reported her for insubordination, was herself dropped last year."

Want More Library Books.

The board granted permission to teachers and principals to circulate a petition through the schools directed to the trustees of the Chicago Public library and demanding more efficient service at that institution. The originators of the petition ask that a teacher's card be issued to all teachers and principals in the public schools entitling them to take as many as six books from the library at one time and also demand that a catalogue be prepared which shall be particularly adapted to the use of teachers and school children.

The board adopted the report of Supt. Cooley withdrawing teachers' certificates from all teachers now employed in the evening schools. This will take effect at the close of the present year.

Angus Roy Shannon was elected assistant attorney to the board to succeed Albert B. Force, who recently resigned.

WOMAN SUES FOR LIBEL.

ACCEPTS WARNING TO SEX AS PERSONAL CRITICISM.

Takes Offense at an Article on Scandal Mongers Published in Danish Paper and Makes Editor Defendant in Civil and Criminal Actions—Applies Censure to Herself Because "She Lives in Western Avenue and Has a Respectable Husband."

Editor Christian Botken essayed through the columns of the Hevyan, which is Danish for Review, to administer a warning to the gossips among the women of his clientèle and has brought upon himself a damage suit in the civil courts for a large sum and prosecution on a charge of criminal libel, instituted by Mrs. Charles Duck, 754 Western avenue.

Although the editor avers that the warning was intended for no one in particular and a number of women in general, Mrs. Duck insists that it was an attack upon her and was instigated by a neighbor.

From the witness stand in Justice Joseph Sheidon's court yesterday, in the course of the hearing of the criminal libel charge, Mrs. Duck was forced to select from the article the paragraph which particularly described her, and narrowed the application down to the fact that it referred to a woman living in Western avenue, whose husband was a good man. A number of other Western avenue women in the courtroom protested that the description in that regard fitted them as well.

It remains for Mrs. Duck to disprove this general application of the description before she can make a case against the editor.

Editor Botken's Warning.

It is certainly nice where a woman has nothing else to do but sit in the window all day long, spying on the doings and ways of her neighbors, but it becomes a nuisance when that same good wife thereafter runs about and blackmails respectable families by telling every possible scandalous falsehood about them.

Such behavior has been shown, during the last half year, by a woman in Western avenue, and it is only for the sake of her respectable husband that the same is omitted in this little insertion, as he, in all probability, is unaware of the exploits of his "better half." But should this woman not be able to induce herself to stop her slanders, then it shall be a pleasure to us to publish her name, and, at the same time, call the attention of the police to the matter.

Instead of a general uplifting of the social amenities of the neighborhood, which Editor Botken says he expected would follow the publication of this article, he was chagrined to find that he had, in fact, stirred up further trouble and precipitated litigation on himself.

Mrs. Duck Takes Offense.

Mrs. Duck at once associated the article with a quarrel she had had a few days before with her neighbor, Mrs. Anna Sippel, and at once concluded that the warning was directed at her. Hence her complaint before the justice and suit for damages.

"All that is not so," said Mrs. Duck on the witness stand. "I don't do such things, but he meant me. I knew it at once, for I had quarreled with Mrs. Sippel."

"What part of the article points to you?" asked the attorney.

"Well, I live in Western avenue," ventured the woman, warily.

"And have a respectable husband, I suppose?" suggested the attorney.

"You better not say he isn't," warned the woman.

"Aren't there any other women living in Western avenue who have respectable husbands?" asked the attorney, but the woman declined to answer.

Warned All Women.

Editor Botken posed as the righter of wrongs.

"There is such a lot of quarreling among the women that I put this in as a warning to them all," he explained. "I thought that if the shoe fitted them they might each wear it."

"You didn't know that it was going to pinch one of them too hard, I suppose," remarked the court, as he continued the case.

HAS BOGUS TAX RECEIPTS

WEST SIDE WOMAN SHOWS TWO FORGED INSTRUMENTS.

Shows Them and Asks Why Property Was Sold—Blame Said to Rest on Former Fiance of Her Daughter — Young Man Given $248 to Pay the County Treasurer and Delivered the Spurious Paper—Luke Wheeler May Confess.

Two more bogus tax receipts came to the notice of Chief Clerk Becker in the county treasurer's office when a young woman called to ascertain why her mother's property on the west side had been sold for delinquent taxes. Incidentally the young woman revealed the perfidy of a young man who formerly was engaged to marry her sister, and who enjoyed the confidence of her mother to such an extent that he was intrusted with $248 to settle the taxes.

The young woman insisted that the taxes had been paid, and produced a tax book for Mr. Becker's examination. As soon as he saw the receipts he detected a forgery, bunglingly executed. The signature of the county treasurer had been cut from an old receipt in the book and pasted upon another receipt describing the property. The young woman reluctantly admitted that it looked like a forgery, and went away intimating that the young man would be prosecuted.

Mr. Becker refused to disclose the young woman's name, but said that her mother was the owner of considerable property in West Lake street.

Deneen Makes a Discovery.

State's Attorney Deneen made a discovery which may add to the burden of trouble which has come upon Capt. Edward Williams, late manager of the Masonic Fraternity Temple association. Through E. G. Mallon, cashier for the association, Mr. Deneen learned that the affidavits which Williams and Mallon filed in support of the petition for an injunction restraining the sale of the Masonic temple for taxes were made before a notary public who did not administer the oath to either of the men.

The state's attorney would not say that legal steps would be taken against Williams, but he at once began an investigation of the files containing the written motions for continuances presented by Attorneys Forrest and Thornton during the prosecution of Williams.

Wheeler Likely to Confess.

Negotiations are said to be still in progress between Mr. Deneen and representatives of Luke Wheeler with a view to the latter making a confession of all that he knows relating to the conspiracy to defraud the county of the Masonic temple taxes. Since the conviction of Williams and Wheeler on this charge good reasons are given for the belief that Wheeler wants to talk. It was even reported yesterday that Williams was of the same state of mind, and would like to reach an understanding with Mr. Deneen by which he would be relieved of further prosecution.

Attorney Forrest said that if Williams contemplated making a statement in explanation of the loss of the Masonic temple takes he was not aware of the fact. The directors of the association would welcome such a statement from Williams, as it would clear up the question: "What became of the $20,000 given to Williams and where did he get the forged tax receipt for $26,770.17?"

Surprise for Temple Directors.

Farnham & Willoughby, the new managers of the temple, expect to furnish the directors with a report tomorrow which may give them another big surprise. Mr. Farnham intimated that some extraordinary conditions would be disclosed in the report.

Literary Prescriptions.

It is a curious fact that not one among the many philanthropists bent upon providing reading matter for the public has ever thought of establishing a hospital library or of giving attention to the selection of stimulating books for convalescents. Of course, books are written for well people, and everybody knows that it takes a healthy organism to digest some of them, but there are many tonic tales that might aid recovery and which ought to find their way to hospital book shelves. At present the volumes that are found upon these shelves form but a nondescript collection made up of the castaways from family libraries, the incurably dull, or hopelessly insane stories that have outlived popular favor. Of course, in hospitals with each book must go a reader, and it is not every patient who can command enough of a nurse's leisure to permit of literary pursuits. And again, it may be said that patients provide their own books or have friends who bring in literary tidbits just as they supply more material delicacies. But these sources are not always to be depended upon, and some one ought to arise who can put up literary prescriptions and who can discover the novels that may be calculated to aid in bringing back the flush of health.

The Return of the High Heel.

Just as the rejoicing over the going out of the long skirt is at its height comes the melancholy intelligence that the high heel is coming in. Of course this means that women will go about with their bodies tilted forward and their minds, in the opinion of many, tilted backward. There are fashions that excite smiles and some that provoke derision, but it is more in sorrow than in smiles that one criticises the high heel. For if report be true this instrument of fashion's torture brings many physical woes in its wake and makes weak eyes and sprained ankles commonplaces in woman's existence. It has always been associated with the wasp waist, and everybody knows that it is in the category of the incompetent that the wasp waisted, high heeled woman must be placed. Of course there are many women who will always cling to common sense heels and ideals in spite of fashion's unwholesome advice, and it is much to be hoped that the high heels will be adopted only by women who tread the primrose paths which do not require pedestrians to be sensibly shod.

EXTRAORDINARY RAILROAD PROGRESS

The advance sheets of "Poor's Manual" for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1902, present a statement of the growth of railroads in this country which is almost incredible. The mileage of roads increased by 4,453 miles, the total now being 198,000, of which about 195,000 miles are in operation. The gross earnings were $1,612,448,826 and operating expenses $1,092,154,099. The net earnings, including miscellaneous receipts, were over $588,000,000. The roads have 39,729 engines, 27,144 passenger cars, 8,677 mail and express cars, and 1,409,472 freight cars, as compared with 21,880 engines, 14,934 passenger cars, and 730,435 freight cars in 1892, and yet the locomotive works are behind on orders and car works cannot turn out freight cars fast enough to take care of business. The total amount of stock, bonds, and unfunded debt is $12,226,491,526. The average interest for the year was 4.21 and the average dividend 2.62.

There is no surer proof of the national prosperity than that contained in these remarkable figures. There has been a great increase in rolling stock during the year, but the railroads have not enough to transport promptly the freight offered to them.

"IT MIGHT HAVE BEEN WORSE."

The republican legislature of Ohio has enacted a municipal code which enables the governor to play an important part in the management of the affairs of the cities of the state. He can remove mayors. In the event of a contingency, often likely to happen, he will designate the boards of public safety which are to manage the business affairs of police and fire departments. The republicans in the legislature when they gave the governor powers which conflict so seriously with the principle of local self-government acted on the assumption that he always will be a republican. This is an unsafe assumption. Ohio has had democratic governors. It may have them again. If a democrat were to be governor and supervise the affairs of republican cities the Ohio republicans would not think so highly of their new municipal code as they do now.

No governor, whether republican or democrat, should be allowed to meddle in the affairs of a self-governing municipality. The only argument in defense of the grant of such power to a governor is that if permitted he will manage municipal affairs better than the local officers.

Chicago people will appreciate the weakness of the argument. The administration of city affairs has of late been imperfect, but it compares most favorably with the management of state affairs during the last ten years. The people of Chicago have been witnesses to municipal maladministration. They have been witnesses to maladministration on a grander scale during the successive terms of Altgeld, Tanner, and Yates. The spectacle has been one which has caused them to be thankful that a governor of Illinois has no control over the municipal government of Chicago.

Mayor Harrison may not have many friends in the republican party, but his bitterest enemy will admit that he has been as capable, efficient, and honest as any governor of Illinois since the days of Fifer would have been in Mr. Harrison's place.

A NEW CONSTITUTION MUCH NEEDED.

Only a new constitution will give Chicago the relief it needs. Public opinion is rapidly crystallizing in favor of a constitutional convention. There is no decided opposition to it except on the part of the representatives of a few corporations. They are fearful that a new organic law, if adopted, will be less favorable to the interests they represent than is the present constitution. The occasion for their fear is not clearly apparent. They may apprehend, with some reason, that a new constitution may contain novel provisions for the taxation of franchises, and that it may separate the sources of state revenue from the sources of municipal revenue, with the result of imposing heavier burdens on public utility corporations.

Such a provision would be of service to the state and its municipalities, and would be fair to the corporations. While it might involve heavier taxation for some corporations it would enable them to know definitely what taxes they are to pay. They could then cease to be the objects of uncertain and occasionally remorseless taxation. Uncertainty of taxation is as much to be dreaded as severity.

Some of the advocates of the amendment method are men who have before now spoken in favor of constitutional revision. If we are not mistaken Mr. Henry S. Mecartney is one of them. He is precisely the kind of man who should be a member of a constitutional convention if one is called. His services would be invaluable, because there are few lawyers in the city who have devoted as much attention to the imperfections of the present organic law as he has. He joins to a special study of the subject some aptitude for the consideration of constitutional questions and a profound knowledge of the difficulties from which the city at present suffers. The Chicago delegation in such a convention would not be complete without the presence in it of Mr. John P. Wilson if he could be induced to make the sacrifice of time and money that service in the convention would mean to him. There are a number of other lawyers of eminence who should also be members. There should be representatives of all important business interests—real estate, commercial, and manufacturing. The labor unions should not be forgotten. It would be almost possible to pick out a delegation from Chicago to a constitutional convention from the members of the conference that assembled on Tuesday. If the selection were made at random among them and proper representation was given to labor and the small taxpayers we should hardly go amiss.

The conference of Tuesday is the most encouraging sign that has appeared in the political sky for a long time. The absence of acrimony and dogmatism was particularly noticeable and most agreeable. Nobody assumes to be absolutely sure that he has discovered the only cure for existing evils. Each man is willing to defer to some extent to the judgment of his neighbor. Apparently all are anxious to find the best method of curing defects in the present constitution.

The serious objection to the amendment method is the doubt whether amendments, if proposed, could secure adoption by the people. They have the casting votes, and often, through carelessness or remissness, they fail to adopt good amendments submitted to them. In the last ten years several amendments to the constitution unobjectionable in themselves have been submitted and none has been ratified. If, after infinite trouble, the legislature should be persuaded to submit an amendment permitting other amendments, there would be only a faint chance of its ratification at the polls.

If an amendment to permit the submission of several amendments to the people at the same election were to run the gantlet of all possible clubs that might be raised against it, it could not be operative before the close of 1904, and its ratification would only open the way to several other amendments that might or might not be proposed by the legislature and ratified by the people. This cumbersome procedure will consume more time than it will take to frame and submit an entire new constitution. If the needful amendments were adopted they would answer their purpose clumsily and imperfectly. They would be limping, halting makeshifts, mere temporary bridges, which would have to be replaced by permanent structures before long.

There is nothing sacred about the present constitution. It is the work of human hands. It has outlived its usefulness. Manifestly the great city of Chicago has outgrown its steel armor and iron fetters. It needs no ball and chain. Provisions suitable for a community of 300,000 souls hamper and confine a city of 2,000,000 people.

The people can be trusted. If a constitutional convention is called it will be composed of some of the best men in the state, men of the highest character and the purest motives. The work of the convention will be submitted to the people for approval, and the convention itself will be on trial. It will not dare, nor will it wish, to submit an instrument that will not commend itself to fair minded and intelligent men. An organic law, conceived in the spirit of patriotism, matured by able men actuated by a high sense of duty, will not fail to meet the approval of the people.

HOW TO MANAGE COUNTY AFFAIRS.

Henry G. Foreman, the republican candidate for president of the county board, outlined in his remarks at the Auditorium last night his views as to the way in which county affairs should be managed. His views are business like and will commend themselves to business men, who never have been able to understand why the affairs of a great public corporation should not be run with some approach to the economy and efficiency which characterize the management of most private corporations.

If elected Mr. Foreman will ask the county board to authorize him to appoint advisory boards to cooperate with the various county board committees. Such boards, made up of public spirited citizens who have proved themselves men of affairs and have won the respect and confidence of the community, will be of the greatest assistance to the commissioners. With the aid of the boards the county institutions can be made models of their kind, more useful while no more expensive. The public will have unshaken confidence in the administration of commissioners whose management is approved of by the members of such boards as Mr. Foreman wishes to see established.

Mr. Foreman has faith in the merit system. He favors the extension of the county civil service law to other departments of the county service. He will tolerate no neglect of duty by county employés. He thinks they should all be competent men, no more than are needed, and neither better nor worse paid than persons doing similar work in private establishments. He favors a full audit of the accounts of all the officers and institutions. Supplies should be bought with due regard to economy and business principles, and contractors made to live up to their contracts. It is Mr. Foreman's intention that they shall do so if he is elected. As regards the dieting of jail prisoners he promises to veto any appropriation intended to furnish a profit beyond the actual cost of supplies.

The program laid down by Mr. Foreman is a satisfactory one. It will secure an efficient and irreproachable management of county affairs. Mr. Foreman is known in the community as a man of his word. If elected he will do what he says he intends to do, and reforms will be instituted which will be of the greatest value to the wards of the county and to the taxpayers.

A NECESSARY BOND ISSUE.

The county board wants the voters of Cook county to authorize a $500,000 bond issue for the improvement of the county hospital and insane asylum. There can be no doubt that improvement is what the hospital and insane asylum need. At the hospital there is a growing demand for accommodations for patients suffering from alcoholism, epilepsy, and tuberculosis. At the insane asylum there is an equally great demand for relief from overcrowding. Neither of these demands should be neglected.

The revelations of the last few days have given the public a new view of the tuberculosis question. It has become clear that Cook county must do something for its tubercular population. Therefore vote in favor of the county bond issue. It is also clear that both Chicago in particular and Illinois at large have been brutally negligent in their treatment of epileptics. An epileptic ward is necessary. Therefore vote in favor of the bond issue. Like epilepsy, alcoholism needs a larger share of public attention. Therefore vote in favor of the bond issue. As for the insane asylum at Dunning, the situation is too familiar to deserve another rehearsal. An asylum where patients have to sleep on the floor is not a jewel in Chicago's crown. Vote in favor of the bond issue. Let us have a county hospital and a county asylum that we shall not want to leave at one side when we are showing visitors the city.

If the voters of Cook county are cautious and economical and think that the bond issue needs other recommendations than that which to every observant person it carries on its face, they will find the encouragement they need in the fact that the official arguments for the new bonds are signed by Frank Billings, Hugh T. Patrick, Flora G. Moulton, Julia C. Lathrop, and Ernest P. Bicknell.

THE Harrisonian idea is that Chicago no longer needs a Burkomaster.

IT is simply wasting a man like Mr. Wu to take him back to China and hold him there.

CAN anybody give a good reason why it is necessary to keep a man like Kiolbassa in office all the time?

IN A MINOR KEY.

The Other Side.

"Knowing my husband's tendency to gossip," said Mrs. Strongmynd, "I never tell him anything I am not willing everybody should know."

Rough on Him.

The man whom the court had ordered to pay his divorced wife an allowance of $25 a week protested against the severity of the decree.

"Your honor," he said, with deep feeling, "it will take nearly every cent of my present wife's salary to pay it!"

Something Different.

"Swardle is rather flighty in his notions, isn't he? Can't stick to any one thing long enough to make a success of it?"

"Well, that's what we used to say about him when he was a poor devil, but he's rich now, and everybody speaks of him as a man of extraordinary versatility."

Curiosity Gratified.

"How did you come to lose so many of your toes while you were up there?" asked the man with the long, pointed nose.

"I'll tell you," said the arctic explorer, "if you will not let it go any further. Our dogs were starving and there was absolutely nothing to feed them, so, in the interests of science, I—I——"

"Good heavens! I see!"

Community of Interests.

"Yes," said the pilgrim in the elderly overcoat with the bulging pockets, "him an' me is in partnership, but we don't do business together."

"How's that?"

"Why, he goes around sellin' a stove blackin' that leaves a stain on the fingers. I go around next day to the same houses with the only soap that'll take it off."

Composite.

Guest (in Chinese restaurant)—"This is what you call chop suey, is it, John? What is it made of?"

Proprietor—"Ev'lyting."

Unheard Of Indignity.

"What is the trouble between you and Mr. Spoonamore?" they asked her.

"He addressed me the other day," she replied, choking with wrath at the recollection, "as a 'fair daughter of Eve!' Daughter of Eve! And I'm not as old as he is himself by five full years!"

LETTER OF MARQUISE DE FONTENOY

Copyright, 1902, by the Marquise de Fontenoy.

PRINCESS CHARLES of Denmark is the most popular, clever, and good looking of the daughters of King Edward. Herabsence therefore from the royal progress through the streets of London last Saturday excited a good deal of comment on the part of the public, and much speculation was indulged in as to the reason for her failure to put in an appearance.

The fact of the matter is that the princess has been suffering from an attack of nervous prostration, and under the direction of the king's physician, Sir Frederick Laking, is undergoing a complete rest cure at Buckingham palace, and at her place on the Sandringham estate, seeing no one excepting the members of her immediate family and living in the quietest fashion possible. Both the king and the queen have been quite anxious about her, as she has grown quite thin, and at the time when Sir Frederick Laking took her in hand had lost all those high spirits and disposition to see the sunny and humorous feature in everything that had rendered her the favorite of the king's daughters.

The latter are all three considerably more delicate than their parents. The duchess of Fife is a martyr to rheumatism, while the same may be said of Princess Victoria with regard to those terrible migraines to which she is so subject. Nor has the prince of Wales ever been quite strong since the attack of typhoid fever which carried off his elder brother, the late duke of Clarence, while it spared him.

The princess of Wales, however, is a strong and healthy woman, like her mother, the late duchess of Teck, and her children seem to have inherited her constitution.

Prince Charles of Denmark, I may add, the son-in-law of the king, was among the royal personages and dignitaries who rode on horseback immediately in the rear of the carriage of his father-in-law, the king.

Grand Duke Michael, the heir apparent of the throne of Russia, shares the pronounced musical tastes of his mother, in which he differs from his elder brother, the czar, and has become a great adept on the flute—an instrument which I cannot recall as having been played by any other royal or imperial personage with skill since the days of King Frederick the Great of Prussia, who, it may be remembered, was singularly shy and timid about his playing, and most grateful for anything that appeared to him as bona fide applause. The Grand Duke Michael is the man staying with his mother at Copenhagen, and while there was wont frequently to accompany the widowed czarina and her sister, the queen of England, in their duets at the piano.

Prince Henry of Prussia, it may be remembered, plays the violin, while the blind landgrave of Hesse is probably the most talented nonprofessional pianist in all Europe.

The Grand Duke Michael has returned to Russia, but his mother, the dowager czarina, has decided to prolong her stay in Denmark until the Christmas holidays in spite of the threats that have been made by anarchists to assassinate her while there, in consequence of the prominent part which she takes in Russia in directing the forces of the reaction in the Muscovite empire.

That Lord Kitchener has a sympathy for this country is shown by the fact that no less than three Americans, among whom is Mrs. Adair, who was a Miss Wadsworth of Genesee, N. Y., figure in the party which he has invited to be his guests in India on the occasion of the coronation durbar at Delhi. Among the other members of the party are Col. Frank Rhodes, brother and chief heir of the late Cecil Rhodes; Lord and Lady Powis, and Lady Alice Stanley. The reigning grand duke of Hesse, nephew of King Edward, and a grandson through his mother of the late Queen Victoria, will likewise attend the durbar, having been invited as a special guest of the viceroy, Lord Curzon, and of his American wife, who was Miss Leiter of Chicago.

Sir Edward Bradford has been for so long at the head of England's metropolitan police that the news of his impending retirement gives rise to a sense of the disappearance of a familiar landmark. For the one armed, gray haired veteran in his picturesque uniform of blue and silver has been one of the most familiar figures in Metropolitan life for twelve years past. He has controlled some of the biggest crowds that London, the biggest city in the world, has ever seen, and has engineered several most impressive public pageants, such as the two jubilees and the funeral of Queen Victoria and the coronation and state visit to London of King Edward.

He had a distinguished career in the army before he became chief commissioner of the London police. So far back as 1853, when "John Company" still swayed the destinies of the India peninsula, he joined the Madras army, took part in the Persian campaign and in the mutiny, and afterwards, as the general superintendent of the Thuggee and Dacoity department at Calcutta, virtually suppressed those roving bands of professional murderers who at that time infested the entire Indian empire, spreading terror in all directions by the extraordinary mystery with which they accomplished their crimes. Subsequently he became chief of the political secret department of the India office, and it was while thus employed that he lost his arm during a tiger shooting expedition.

One day while out after this fierce game, which he stalked on foot instead of hunting it from the relatively safe eminence of an elephant howdah, he shot at a tiger, which, only wounded, charged upon him and bore him to the ground. Never losing his presence of mind for a moment, Bradford, with a view of preventing the infuriated animal from attacking his head or throat, thrust within its jaws his left arm. The tiger simply gnawed it off. But the life of the cool Nimrod was saved by his companions, who arrived in time to shoot the creature before it could inflict any still more serious injury upon Sir Edward.

The thugs, between whom and the anarchists of the present day a striking analogy exists, were a religious sect in India who were taught to believe that the only way to propitiate their sanguinary goddess, Vishnu, was by killing people in her honor irrespective of their age, rank, race, or sex. Every new victim was regarded in the light of a pleasing sacrifice to the goddess, and thousands—nay, it is alleged, even millions—of people were thus destroyed by the thugs.

The English in India found it impossible to suppress thuggery by ordinary means. Accordingly Sir Edward Bradford, who, as stated above, was charged with the task, adopted the principle which should be recommended to all civilized governments in dealing with anarchists—namely: that the mere fact of belonging to the cult of thuggery, as to the cult of anarchy today, constituted a felony, each being an association formed for the specific purpose of murder and crime.

Acting on this theory, and taking the ground that it was the duty of the British government to shield the people subject to its rule from assassination, Sir Edward started by arresting and either hanging or imprisoning for life every native that could be judicially proved to be a thug, irrespective of the question whether he had committed any definite murder or not. The mere fact that he was a thug was sufficient to brand him as a criminal, as a foe to society, and one whom, in any case, it was the duty of the state to render harmless.

By this means Sir Edward Bradford succeeded in entirely stamping out thuggery in India, an empire which it had devastated for hundreds upon hundreds of years, its crimes extending not merely to Europe, but even to this country, more than one murder in the times a quarter of a century ago having been committed on the Atlantic seaboard of America by Hindoo thugs.

Seated in her leafless bower, autumn sadly waits for the winter's snow. One by one the year's loving children have been laid away. Tempestuous March, like a boisterous schoolboy, April with her bright eyes and weeping skies, May with her breezy locks, and fragrant June have gone. July and August, twin sisters, in whose veins the hot blood of passion ran riot, have fallen a prey to life's fitful fever. September closes her blue veined eyelids and with folded hands lies serene in death. October, Niobe of the months, now sits weeping for the dead children. Upon and around her are the visionary tints that remind her of the loved and lost. Soon she, too, must sleep, and winter will come and spread his pall and sing his requiem over the graves of the dead months.—Wheatfield (Ind.) Telephone.

CAMPAIGNING IN WISCONSIN.

On Board the Rose Campaign Train, Green Bay, Wis., Oct. 28.—[Delayed in Transmission.]—To a large crowd at Green Bay this afternoon Mr. Rose spoke in part as follows:

"I am, indeed, glad that the committee requested me to speak in your city before the campaign closed. You, my friends, should feel proud of your city, for it is a city with a history. As my eyes turn to the north they rest upon the swamp where John Jacob Astor caught the first musk rat that helped to lay the foundation of the Astor house. As they turn to the west they rest upon the waters of the noble Fox river, upon whose rippling surface the dauphin of France, known to you as Eleazer Williams, paddled his bark canoe from the rapids above De Pere to these shores, for the purpose of exchanging his velvet court suit for a pair of blue overalls. But, my friends, I am not here to talk to you of history. I wish to speak of taxes. Here in Wisconsin we have several kinds of tax, the direct tax, the double tax, the railroad tax, and carpet tacks, but I trust my remarks will be so pointed that I'll not have to allude to the latter. [Loud threats of lynching.]

"Gov. La Follette is now rushing around the state advocating an increase in the railroad tax. My friends, the railroads of the state are our servants, they are your servant, they are my servant. Do you think it just and right to impose a heavy tax on your servant? Just suppose you went home tonight and told your hired girl that for the privilege of working for you, you would have to tax her 50 cents a week. How long would it be before you would be up at 6:30 chopping your kindling wood and filling the tea kettle? O, my friends, we cannot overestimate the great good we receive from the railroads. Just see how they increase the value of your property. You have an old broken down horse about ready to die. Some night, while walking in your sleep, you lead him on the railroad track, a train comes along, and your horse is no more. You get a hundred and twenty dollars for a seven dollar horse, and if you kick hard you will get the hide, if there is anything left of it. So, my friends, let us do all in our power to help the struggling railroads make an honest living. I thank you for your kind attention."

Their color soon envied and seen,
Tear breaks them from their summer hold.

I hear a bell ringing so clear,
Yes, once this bell was my theme,
But now I have another ear.
But yet, past dreams each stroke awake
The happiest stage of life is there,

And leaves a sense so very rare.

Your night was spent in winding twine,
Your lesson you did overlook,
But what of that? "This ball of mine"
You little girl, your doll is dressed,
And lies safely sleeping at home,
"But no, dear dollie cannot rest
For her head I forgot to comb."

I see thee fair maid as you snail
Toward the school with book unread,
Dreaming dreams, of fancy, flight sail
So fast, no faster ever sped;
True 'tis a pity you must go,
True, 'tis a pity I must stay,
I would trade gentle maid, but no,
I dare not rob your happy way.

A DAY ON THE ROAD

THE special car of "The Storks" was at the end of the train, which was just about to pull out of the station at Waterloo, Ia. All about the car were town people who had come down to see the "show" off. The engineer gave a farewell toot of his whistle. Just then "Gil" Gregory, one of the comedians of the company, stuck his head out of an open window and, waved an unsealed letter in his hand, beckoning to the waiting crowd. A young chap who was anxious to show close acquaintance with the "play actors" ran forward to the window.

"Here," said Gregory, "mail this for me. Wait a minute"—as he gave a last glance at the envelope—"I've forgotten to put on the county."

By this time the train was under way and the volunteer messenger was forced to strike a swift dog trot to keep up with it. Gregory kept talking to him out of the window.

The Waterloo youth increased his pace and kept his eyes fastened on the open window. Presently the train ran by the end of the platform and the swiftly moving young man plunged off its end into a pile of cinders—which was the climax for which Gregory had been working.

This is one of the standard jokes which is tried by almost every musical comedy company as it leaves a one night stand. As a rule the people who play in a modern musical comedy are more or less reckless and irresponsible. At any rate they are young and full of animal spirits. It being their every day work to amuse the populace they seem to think it their right to get as much fun as possible out of the aforesaid populace outside of working hours. In the argot of the stage it is "josbing the rubes."

A day on the road with a musical comedy company would almost certainly throw the average serious minded citizen into nervous prostration. Your musical comedian plays his part off the stage as well as on it. It is next to impossible to get him in a serious mood. He never misses an opportunity on a railroad train or in a country hotel to play a joke on everybody who presents himself. Walter McCart, who plays the Queen in "The Sleeping Beauty and the Beast," is famous for his practical jokes. He has a peculiarly solemn and cadaverous face, and some of his best jests are played in the dining rooms of country hotels. On entering the dining room he will suck in his lips and wrinkle up his face until he looks like a man in his second childhood. Then he will summon the head waiter, and, in words that can hardly be understood, he will order that impressive functionary to cut up his meat for him into microscopic pieces, because he is unable either to chew it or cut it up himself. While this performance is going on his colleagues at the same and adjoining tables are doing their best to keep from laughing. If he can force one or more of them to give way to his mirth McCart is perfectly satisfied.

The special car in which most of the members of musicial comedy companies travel together is the seat of an almost pure democracy. Once inside the car doors the chief comedians and the leading ladies are simply on a par with the members of the chorus. For everybody on the car there is a nickname, and, so far as the stars are concerned, these nicknames are never heard outside of the car. Thus Richard Carle, who plays the chief part in "The Storks," is "Scissors" to everybody on board the car. But outside of its sacred portals he is Mr. Carle to everybody below the rank of a principal.

When a theatrical company boards its special car it is almost always necessary to eject two or three "fresh drummers" who have planned to travel with the "troupers." Then the actors commence to "have fun" with the conductor. The manager of the company usually has a "party ticket" which calls for the transportation of a certain number of people on the special car. Immediately the train starts the conductor begins to count up the people to see that no more than the right number are aboard. And the actors usually make it as hard as possible for him. They hide in the baggage car or in the smoker, with no other object than to confuse the man with brass buttons and force him to make a second and a third count. The wise theatrical manager figures when he starts out that he is dealing with a lot of grown up children and acts accordingly.

By the time the conductor has finished his count the men of the company have usually started the principal business of the day, which, sad to relate, is almost always a game of poker. In large companies four or five games may be under way at the same time, the limit varying from 10 cents to a dollar, to accommodate pocketbooks of different sizes. As a rule the woman of a company do not play, though there are exceptions to the rule, as many a man can testify to his exceeding sorrow, for a woman poker player is usually a good one. But most of the women after the train starts busy themselves with reading or with needlework.

along or stops at some way station. And at almost every stop a number of people are sure to jump out and see what can be found to eat at the station eating house. Some really astonishing appetites are developed in the ranks of a musical comedy company on the road.

Sooner or later one or more of the poker games breaks up and then a little knot is certain to gather and start singing. It has often been said that theatrical people never sing so well as they do for their own amusement. These impromptu and volunteer "sings" are the despair of musical directors, who are never able to get such good results on the stage.

Occasionally something which happens at some way station or aboard the train will suggest a new line or a new "gag" to one of the comedians and a conference will follow to get the new business worked in at the proper place. Occasionally some more studious or talented member of the company will devote much of his time on the train to work on musical comedy of his own, as, for instance, Richard Carle in this season writing lines and lyrics for "The Maid and the Mummy."

Actors are traditionally jealous people, quick to take offense at their colleagues and likely to carry their anger to absurd extremes. But on a special car on the road they are thrown so closely together that

Before arriving at a new town one question of vital importance has been settled—that of a hotel. The names and rates of each of the hotels in the next town have been posted up on the "call," which occupied a prominent place at the back of the stage the night before, and the members of the company have many amusing conferences on the train as to which one they shall patronize. The members who have visited the coming town before have their experience to draw on and often they have kept diaries in which are recorded their impressions of the various hotels for future use. If, for instance, Sioux City is the next stop the diary will be consulted with a result something like this:

"Sioux City. —— house; near theater, but on the bum; $1.50 double. —— hotel; father away, but good; same rate."

So unless there is stronger evidence to the contrary all the members of the company are likely to "pass up" the first named hotel and go in a body to the other.

When the train pulls into the station the members of the company always mingle as much as possible with the other alighting passengers. This is done to confuse and outwit the village wiseacres who gather at the station to count the members of the company as they alight from their car. In a small town, it should be understood, the merit of a traveling company is usually judged by the number of people who travel with it, and if opportunity was given to get an accurate count of the company as it alighted at the station the information would travel all over town in an hour or two.

So, singly and in couples, the scattered members of the company make their way to the hotel which has been selected. Then—particularly if the company is a small one or is in hard luck financially—the manager gets in his "fine work." He goes to the hotel register and writes down a whole page of "dummy" names; below them he writes the names of the actual members of his company. When the hotel clerk asks the whereabouts of the long list of imaginary people he is told that they will be in later. Meanwhile he assigns those who are present to rooms.

If rumors affecting the financial soundness have been circulated—and in a small town they are certain to be circulated if any foundation exists for them—the manager does not stop with registering a lot of bogus names. He will borrow for the purpose every cent of money he can scrape up among the members of the company and get it changed into $1 bills. With a bundle of paper in the center and his $1 bills wrapped about it he can usually manage to get up an extremely impressive "roll." With this enormous bundle of money in ready reach he proceeds to visit the various important business places in the town, making small purchases and everywhere "making a great flash" with his "roll." In this way he conveys the impression that his company is sound financially and often saves the day—for no bankrupt company ever plays to decent "business."

SERVES HER BARON'S DOG.

WIFE WHO TIRES OF THE TASK ASKING A DIVORCE.

Baroness von Schaezler, Whose Troubles Are Told in Court, Says She Is Made to Wait on Her Titled Husband's Newfoundland and See Them Eat Together, While She Goes Hungry — Many Eccentricities Ascribed to the Defendant.

A table set for two. In one seat a baron of proud ancestry; in the other a pedigreed Newfoundland dog.

In the background is the baroness, whose plebeian American appetite craves the meat that the haughty baron is about to serve with a liberal hand to his guest from Newfoundland. She also is "waiting" on table, which she says is a more thankful task in the dog's case than in the man's.

Such was the scene that was described in Judge Chytraus' court yesterday when the suit for divorce against Baron Oto von Schaezler was called. The story told by the baroness didn't seem to annoy her titled spouse in the slightest. When she told of money advanced to her husband, of cruel treatment, and of being obliged to take second place to the dog the baron only smiled.

The hearing yesterday was a sequel to the recent arrest of the baron on a writ of ne exeat at the time the baroness' suit was filed. At that time he spent two days in the county jail before he could find a bondsman.

Whims of the Baron.

"The baron had his own room, with a $45 bed in it, a nice, soft mattress, and two pillows," the baroness began. "I slept on a little hard bed, without a pillow, because the baron said he needed two, so when he got tired of lying on one he could turn over to the other."

The baroness told how she married the titled one in Davenport, Ia., about a year ago. On representations that he had a large income from estates in Germany, she said, she loaned him $300 with which to make "the last payment" on a house he had bought in West Grossdale. Altogether the baron had cost her more than $700, she said.

"The morning after we arrived in West Grossdale," said the baroness, "my husband said he wanted to take a bath. He made me bring him some water and then swore at me because it was too hot. I got some cold water to cool it, and then he swore again because it was too cold."

Baron's Love for Music.

But the baron had other whims. When the spirit struck him, the baroness testified, he would spend the night running up and down the house, playing a music box, and constantly talking to himself.

Still another whim of the baron's was irritating to his American wife. Every night, she said, he would kiss affectionately a picture of his first wife, which hung in the living room of the West Grossdale house.

"He told me," she declared, "that he had lost his soul by marrying me, and spent long hours on his knees asking the Lord for forgiveness. All this was because he had 'married an illiterate and vulgar American woman,' as he called me."

Then came the story of the baron and the dog.

"We only had a small kitchen table, just big enough for two to sit at," said the baroness. "The baron sat his Newfoundland dog on one chair and sat at the other himself, and they had their meals together. First the baron would take a bite and then he would give a bite to the dog, while I and my niece had to wait on them. When I suggested that the woodshed was the place for the dog, he said that the house was the place for the dog, but the woodshed might be good enough for some one else he knew."

Dog the Star Boarder.

"I almost forgot what meat tasted like. When any meat reached the house the baron and the dog got it."

The baron, according to his wife, was a lover of 5 and 10 cent literature of the wild west variety. "Nick Carter" was one of his heroes, she said.

During the hearing a letter was introduced in which the baron said he would renounce his title and his claim to the estates of his father, provided his younger brother, Paul, would settle a substantial annuity on him. The estate, in Bavaria, near Passow, is said to be worth $500,000.

Policeman "Beaten" by Wife.

While the baroness was telling her troubles an entirely different sort of a woman came to notice. Policeman William Stuart is authority for her accomplishments, and he is in a position to know, for she is his wife. According to Mr. Stuart, whose dimensions are something like 6 feet 6 inches, his wife not only runs the family to suit herself, but beats him and the children when they demur.

The tailor who makes Mr. Stuart's clothes charges him a round sum for extra cloth, so Mrs. Stuart's prowess can be imagined.

The sorrowing Mr. Stuart says he can endure the present state of affairs no longer. Besides the physical discomforts, there is his dignity to protect, and what man 6.6 could maintain his dignity and take a spanking at the same time?

For all these reasons Policeman Stuart asks a divorce.

The troubles in the Stuart family reached an acute stage last Tuesday, when Mrs. Stuart applied to the Superior court for a writ of habeas corpus to secure possession of her daughter, Frances, now in custody of the father. The answer to this suit is the bill for divorce.

THANKSGIVING DAY NOV. 27.

President Roosevelt's Proclamation Calls Attention to the Nation's Year of Peace and Prosperity.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 29.—President Roosevelt today issued his proclamation designating Thursday, Nov. 27, as a day of thanksgiving. The proclamation is as follows:

"According to the yearly custom of our people it falls upon the president at this season to appoint a day of festival and thanksgiving to God.

"Over a century and a quarter has passed since this country took its place among the nations of the earth, and during that time we have had, on the whole, more to be thankful for than has fallen to the lot of any other people. Generation after generation has grown to manhood and passed away. Each has had to bear its peculiar burdens, each to face its special crises, and each has known years of grim trial when the country was menaced by malice domestic or foreign levy, when the hand of the Lord was heavy upon it in drought, or flood, or pestilence, when in bodily distress and anguish of soul it paid the penalty of folly and a froward heart. Nevertheless, decade by decade, we have struggled onward and upward. We now abundantly enjoy material well being, and under the favor of the Most High we are striving earnestly to achieve moral and spiritual uplifting.

"The year that has just closed has been one of peace and of overflowing plenty. Rarely has any people enjoyed greater prosperity than we are now enjoying. For this we render heartfelt and solemn thanks to the Giver of good; and we seek to praise him not by words only but by deeds, by the way in which we do our duty to ourselves and to our fellow men.

"Now, therefore, I, Theodore Roosevelt, president of the United States, do hereby designate as a day of general thanksgiving Thursday, the 27th of the coming November, and do recommend that throughout the land the people cease from their ordinary occupations and in their several homes and places of worship render thanks unto Almighty God for the manifold blessings of the last year.

"In witness whereof I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed.

"Done at the city of Washington this 29th day of October, in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and two, and of the independence of the United States the one hundred and twenty-seventh.

"THEODORE ROOSEVELT.

"By the President: JOHN HAY,
"Secretary of State."

BRIDE AND GROOM AT A WEDDING ON THE SOUTH SIDE LAST EVENING.

MRS. STEPHEN M. KOCHERSPERGER

Miss Nora Baker, daughter of Judge and Mrs. Frank Baker, and Capt. Stephen Morris Kochersperger, second U. S. cavalry, were married last evening at the residence of the bride's parents, 3543 Lake avenue. Miss Alice Henderson was the maid of honor, and Miss Ethel Hobart bridemaid. Lieut. Frederick C. Johnson was the groom's only attendant.

In the decoration the cavalry color, yellow, was carried out in chrysanthemums and flags were also used. The bride's gown was of gray crêpe de chine, trimmed with appliqué lace, and the bouquet was of violets and orchids. Her attendants wore gowns of white organdie and carried bridemaid roses. Following the ceremony a supper was served.

The groom and his brother officers wore the new full dress uniforms, the first time they have been seen in Chicago.

Miss Mary Dana's wedding to Mr. John Sheppard Stone at St. James' church last evening was one of the most interesting of the fall events. The bride, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles D. Dana of 44 Astor street, is popular in north side social circles, which the great throng which filled the church attested. The full choral marriage service was used, and the bride's godfather, the Rev. Luther Pardee, dean of the cathedral of St. Peter and St. Paul, performed the ceremony, assisted by the Rev. James S. Stone. A small reception was held after the ceremony at the Dana residence.

At both the church and the residence the decorations were white flowers with green foliage and palms. The bridal party was a large one. Miss Antoinette Pierson of Hartford, Conn., was the maid of honor, and the bridemaids were Miss Julia McConnell, Miss Isabel Adams, Miss Louise Foltz, Miss Julia Moss of Lake Forest, Miss Alice Pope of St. Paul, Miss Blanche Budd, and Miss Kathleen Scudder.

Mr. George C. Christian of Minneapolis was the best man. The ushers were Richard P. Dana, brother of the bride, Henry G. Miller, Albert W. Lindeke, St. Paul; William Harrison Jones, Dudley P. Wilkinson, Richard P. Warner, St. Paul; Dr. Philip Schuyler Doane, and Lieut. Clarence G. Bunker of Fort Getty, S. C.

The bride's gown was of white duchesse satin, with a bertha of point lace, which had been worn by her mother. She carried a bouquet of swansonia and lilies of the valley. Miss Pierson, the maid of honor, wore an evening gown of white liberty silk, trimmed with lace and white roses. The bridemaids wore low cut gowns of tucked white point d'esprit trimmed with lace and tulle. They wore short tulle veils and carried bouquets of La France roses.

Among the out of town guests present at the ceremony were Dr. and Mrs. Stone of St. Paul, the groom's parents, and Mr. George Hills of Boston.

Miss Lillian Carter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Washington Carter, and Mr. Frederick Colby Lucas were married last evening at the residence of the bride's parents, 6012 Indiana avenue, the Rev. E. A. White performing the ceremony. Miss Ruth Dorothy Carter was her sister's maid of honor, and Mr. Ernest C. Reed was the best man. The bridemaids were Miss Jessie and Miss Florence Kent, Miss Rena Hooper, Miss Cora Loomis, Miss Helen Nind, and Miss Katherine Hickox. Leo C. Smith and Ashley F. Foss were ushers.

Mrs. H. G. Selfridge of 117 Lake Shore drive will give a dinner next Monday evening for Miss Helen Stewart and Dr. P. S. Doane, followed by a theater party. Mrs. Thomas Doane and the Misses Doane of Oak Park will give a reception on Friday afternoon for Miss Stewart.

Miss Alexander of 221 Forty-sixth street, gave a tea yesterday afternoon for Miss Ruth Swift. The young women assisting were Miss Marie Fitzgerald, Miss Bessie Swift, Miss Florence Bradley, Miss Hickox, Miss Lucile Casey, Miss Thomas, Miss Miller, Miss Vivien Weaver, and Miss Elizabeth Ecton.

Dr. and Mrs. J. H. Byrne of 690 West Monroe street announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Edith Byrne, to Mr. Roger Allen Simonson. The wedding will take place on Nov. 18.

Mrs. Frederic Ullmann of 282 Forty-eighth street gave a musical and reading yesterday, Mr. Arthur Burton singing, and Mrs. Charles Drain reading. It was among the first large affairs of the season, 123 guests being present.

Mrs. L. Samson of 4811 Evans avenue, announces the engagement of her daughter, Miss Mabel C. Samson, to J. Loewenthal.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Blair have taken Mr. Henry Willing's residence at 110 Rush street for the winter. Mr. Willing and his family are in the east, and may go abroad again.

Mrs. James L. High and Miss High of 2021 Prairie avenue have returned from Europe.

Mrs. T. D. Hastings and Miss Hastings have returned from Europe.

Baltimore, Md., Oct. 29.—[Special.]—The marriage of John Paul Scharff of Chicago and Miss Edith Snowden, daughter of Milton Snowden of Baltimore, took place at Grace Episcopal church this evening. The bride wore a gown of white point d'esprit and carried a shower bouquet of lilies of the valley. The maid of honor, Miss Alice Vail Snowden, wore white point d'esprit and carried white chrysanthemums. The bridemaids were Miss Emily May Libbey of Washington and Miss Maria L. Snowden, sister of the bride. William C. Moulton of Chicago was the best man. The ushers were Wilton Snowden Jr., Archibald Vail, Kensett Brown, Morgan Schermerhorn, Adolph Hall Ahrens, and D. N. Quincy, Ill., Oct. 29.—[Special.]—Egbert H. Castle of Chicago and Miss Florence Newcomb of this city were married here this evening. The ceremony was performed in the cathedral of St. John in the presence of a large company. It was one of the gayest weddings of the social season. The bride is the youngest daughter of R. F. Newcomb. The groom is the manager of the Chicago branch of a Quincy manufacturing company. Robert Ritchie of Chicago was one of the ushers. The couple departed for Chicago on the midnight train, and will live at La Grange, Ill.

Missourian Comes to Chicago to Meet Bride-Elect and Discovers He Was Victimized.

Expecting to meet a rich and lovely woman who wanted a kind husband," John Valentine Kaiser came from Festus, Mo., to Chicago yesterday. He had been corresponding with the "rich and lovely," whose name was supposed to be Mary Martin, and says he had paid $6 to secure an introduction. When he went to the address given by Mary, 299 Wells street, instead of finding the residence of his bride to be he discovered a saloon.

Kaiser was so disappointed by the unexpected denouement of his quest for a wife that he immediately sought solace by consulting Chief O'Neill. The chief referred the man from Missouri to Detective Wooldridge, and these two visited the Wells street address. In the basement of the saloon Jacob Strosser was found, writing letters, which the police say were similar to those received by Kaiser, and signed Mary Martin. A number of these letters were secured as evidence.

Strosser was arrested and taken to the Central station. He will have a hearing this morning on a charge of obtaining money by means of a confidence game. Kaiser said that as long as he had been deprived of a wedding tour he would remain over and appear as prosecuting witness.

Free Medical Advice to Women.

All Letters Are Strictly Confidential

Every sick and ailing woman,
Every woman who is approaching maternity,
Every woman who feels that life is a burden,
Every woman who has tried all other means to regain health without success,
Every woman who is going through that critical time is invited to write to Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass., in regard to her trouble, and the most expert advice telling exactly how to obtain a CURE will be sent absolutely free of cost.

The one thing that qualifies a person to give advice on any subject is experience—experience creates knowledge.

No other person has so wide an experience with female ills nor such a record of success as Mrs. Pinkham has had.

Over a hundred thousand cases come before her each year. Some personally, others by mail. And this has been going on for twenty years, day after day, and day after day.

Twenty years of constant success—think of the knowledge thus gained! Surely women are wise in seeking advice from a woman with such an experience, especially when it is free.

Mrs. Hayes, of Boston, wrote to Mrs. Pinkham when she was in great trouble. Her letter shows the result. There are actually thousands of such letters in Mrs. Pinkham's possession.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I have been under doctors' treatment for female troubles for some time, but without any relief. They now tell me I have a fibroid tumor. I cannot sit down without great pain, and the soreness extends up my spine. I have pains both back and front. My abdomen is swollen, I cannot wear my clothes with any comfort. My appetite is not good. I cannot walk or be on my feet for any length of time.

"The symptoms of Fibroid Tumor, given in your little book, accurately describe my case, so I write to you for advice."—MRS. E. F. HAYES, 252 Dudley St. (Boston), Roxbury, Mass.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I wrote to you describing my symptoms, and asked your advice. You replied, and I followed all your directions carefully for several months, and to-day I am a well woman.

"The use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, together with your advice, carefully followed, entirely expelled the tumor, and strengthened the whole system. I can walk miles now.

"Your Vegetable Compound is worth five dollars a drop. I advise all women who are afflicted with tumors, or any female trouble, to write you for advice, and give it a faithful trial."—MRS. E. F. HAYES, 252 Dudley St. (Boston), Roxbury, Mass.

Mrs. Hayes will gladly answer any and all letters that may be addressed to her asking about her illness, and how Mrs. Pinkham helped her.

$5000 FORFEIT if we cannot forthwith produce the original letter and signature of above testimonial, which will prove its absolute genuineness.

I went to sleep that night and awoke next day much relieved and I have gotten entirely over the Asthma. It is now nine years since I was cured."

WHEAT HAS A SETBACK.

SELLING PRESSURE TOO STRONG TO WITHSTAND.

Large Quantities of May Unloaded at 75 Cents and Over, Forcing Decline —English Markets Indifferent and Minneapolis, While Strong Early, Has Severe Break—Corn Weak on Continued Fine Weather and Liquidation—Oats Are Easy.

Some bullish factors in the wheat situation and a good deal of bullish enthusiasm were sufficient for a time yesterday to hold the market steady and give it an advance of ¼c. But they were swamped under the weight of a heavy selling movement, and the market yielded, stubbornly at first, but at last as though the ways had been greased. May reached 75¼c and was at 75c or above for nearly half the session, but profit taking and short selling by those who consider the price a high one were on a great scale. It forced May down to 74¼c, a break of 1c, and the close at 74¼-74½c was at a loss of ¾-¾c for the day. December lost ¾-⅞c. A 1c advance at St. Louis and strength in the northwest helped for a time, but the weakness became general.

Receipts at the two northwest points were 604 cars, compared with 632 a year ago, but Minneapolis had 100 fewer cars than a year ago and barely 10 per cent of them graded No. 1 northern. This put cash wheat there to a 2c premium, and that market was strong early, but had a bad slump toward the close, off ¾c to 1c, and affecting this market. There was the claim from Minneapolis that the small receipts there were due to a wreck on one of the contributing railroads, and that the movement would be swelled temporarily when the cause was removed. There were some claims of a French export demand to account for the strength at St. Louis, which closed ¼c lower to ¼c higher.

Southwest Receipts Keep Up.

Receipts in the southwest showed no signs of letting up, about 400,000 bu at St. Louis and Kansas City, with 1,425,198 bu at all primary points, compared with 1,142,800 bu last year. Clearances were small enough to operate as a bear factor, 303,830 bu. Duluth reports were of a good shipping business, sales of 400,000 bu. Seaboard sales were 200,000 bu. San Francisco furnished some bull assistance by recovering the sharp loss of the day before. Cables furnished little encouragement, thought Liverpool was ¼-⅝d higher, and spot prices in Paris up ¼c for wheat and 2½c for flour. The corn weakness was a factor.

There was buying at the start for both northwest and southwest account, and some local bulls added to their lines. But there was heavy selling for New York account, and the pit conclusion finally was that Armour was a large seller of May through commission houses. Milmine-Bodman, Bartlett-Frazier, Gifford, McReynolds, Irwin-Green were large sellers, and on the decline Brosseau sold 1,000,000 bu or more. On the break there was a scattered commission demand with some Patten buying.

Corn in Poor Demand.

Continued fine weather in the corn belt with no immediate prospect of a change still exerted a depressing influence on prices. Reports are of a fair movement and of considerable improvement in corn which had been damaged by the long wet spell. There was liquidation in active futures and cash prices were weak on a poor shipping demand, off 1c to 2c. October was marked down 1¼c to 55¾c. December sold as low as 50¼c, closing at 50¾-¼c, a loss of ⅞c, and May dropped to 43c and closed there, a loss of ⅝c. There was some heavy liquidation of December through Logan, Bryan, Weare, Milmine-Bodman, and McReynolds, with some buying by Lester-Kneeland and Wrenn. Towards the close there was heavy selling of May by Bartlett-Frazier, Carrington-Patten, and Patten. Comstock covered some of his May sales. Otherwise trade was chiefly local and local sentiment was bearish. Receipts were moderate, but the country is offering new corn more freely, and at such a discount under the old buying of the latter is decidedly backward. There were 135 cars here and 150 estimated for today. Primary points had 447,720 bu to 362,965 bu last year. There were shipping sales here of 55,000 bu and the seaboard reported sales of 120,000 bu for export. Clearances were 2,200 bu.

Small Interest in Oats.

There was not much life in the oats market, and little interest manifested by either side of the trade. The downward trend in other grain helped carry the May ¼c lower, this delivery reaching 31¾c and closing at the bottom. Commission houses generally did little business, the light transactions being mainly in the hands of local scalpers. Updike picked up a little May on the decline. Receipts were 159 cars, of which three were contract. This made 603,000 bu, against shipments of 823,000 bu. Seaboard clearances were 11,000 bu.

Pork, excepting October, sold off, while other values were not much changed. The current delivery was 20c higher, closing at $16.60. The January and May was 7½c lower. October lard lost 20c, while January and May closed unchanged. January lard was at one time 7½c higher on a good demand by Steever and commission people. Hog receipts were 26,000, about 10,000 under the estimate. Estimated today, 25,000. Shipments were 1,700,000 lbs, against 1,552,000 lbs a year ago. Lard shipments were 1,102,000 lbs, compared with 940,000 lbs last year.

Rye ruled steady to a shade firmer, receipts being only eight cars. Trade was in light volume. December sold 50¾@51c; for May 52¾c was bid and 52¾c asked.

Barley remains steady and firm, especially for the higher grades, the poorer qualities, which consist of the bulk of the receipts, being easy to 1c lower. Receipts were sixty cars. Little was done in screenings, quotable at 34@40c. Barley, poor, unsound, dirty feed, at 30@37c. Common, stained, not all sound, dirty, low grade malting, 40@41c; dirty nominally lower; sound, depending on weight, color, and cleanliness, at 42@52c; good malting sold mainly at 44@47c. Choice sold at 54@56c.

An easier tone prevailed in timothy seed. Demand was backward. An influence was lower markets elsewhere. Contract grade was about 5c easier and country lots about 10c lower. October delivery sold at $4.12½. January was nominally $4.20@4.22½; March, $4.30@4.32½. Cash sales made at $3.00@3.00 for poor to good seed, some of the higher grade sold above, choice being nominally $3.75@3.80. Fair to good ranged at $3.40@3.50, and some good yet rough seed sold at $3.25@3.35.

There was a downward tendency in flaxseed, in sympathy with the northwest. Receipts were ten cars here, fifty at Minneapolis, and 228 at Duluth. No. 1 northwestern was quoted $1.21 and southwestern $1.19. Rejected sold at $1.15¾@1.19. October was nominally $1.21. December was offered at $1.16¼, while May sold at $1.21¼, closing $1.21.

Trade Gossip on 'Change.

Estimate receipts for today are: Wheat, 65 cars; corn, 150 cars; oats, 150 cars; hogs, 24,000.

A Minneapolis message announced: "A wreck on a division of the St. Paul road is the cause of the smaller receipts here. After the road is cleared up receipts will look large for a day or two."

It is the idea in the provision pit that hogs are not coming in fast enough to make the position of the January shorts, especially in lard, any too comfortable. Stocks of lard are so low and the discounts of the deferred futures so great that shippers have been buying December and January futures in order to be sure of a supply. Cudahy is supposed to be long considerably in January lard, and there was buying yesterday which looked to be for his account.

The strength in wheat in St. Louis the last few days is said to be due in part to an export demand from France, which made its appearance on Monday. Transactions were not of great volume, one sale of 80,000 bu for direct export having been made, but there is a theory in the French are always heavy buyers of cash wheat when they get started, and there was a rush to get some before it was all sold on the part of the local trade. The St. Louisans thought there was occasion for bullish fervor also in the fact that in spite of their large receipts stocks there increased only 17,000 bu yesterday.

Glucose interests are buying new corn freely in Ohio and Indiana for ten day shipment on the basis of 43c at Indianapolis and 43½c at Cincinnati, equivalent to about 41c and 40c respectively at Chicago.

The export sales of corn reported from the seaboard this week have been of fair volume, but the business, it is claimed, is all new corn for November shipment. It has been worked by way of gulf ports.

December Wheat Position.

There is a vast difference, according to a commission man, between the September and the December wheat situation. "It is a significant fact," he says, "that all the wheat we had coming to us at the end of September was from pit traders and other commission houses, whereas the December wheat, as our books now stand, will be put out almost exclusively by the elevator firms. From what I hear other books are in the same condition. With the lakes closed and a big rate to New York, what will be done with the wheat? Obviously it cannot be shipped. It will go back into the elevator and be sold over again for May delivery."

The heavy selling in May corn yesterday was by the Bartlett party, who have been the principal bulls. The sentiment of the May holders has changed on reports of what the long period of fine weather has done in the way of improving the grade of corn supposed to have been badly damaged by the wet season.

There was a long and interesting meeting of the violation of the rules committee yesterday. The brokerage question was the principal subject discussed. The sense of the committee was strongly in favor of the recent interpretation made by the directors to the effect that a salaried employé executing brokerage orders must turn the money thus earned over to his employer. Mr. Milne, a member of the committee, does not indorse the position taken by a majority of the committee. After the majority opinion had been announced Mr. Milne arose and said: "Well, gentlemen, if this is the position you take you have no further use for me on this committee." He then left the president's room, long before the committee finished its labors. Mr. Milne, it is said, considers his action in the light of a resignation.

St. Paul, Minn., Oct. 29.—The hearing of evidence before Special Examiner F. G. Ingersoll in the case of the state of Minnesota against the Northern Securities, the Great Northern, and Northern Pacific railway companies, and others, set for today, has been postponed until Nov. 13.

Attorney General Douglas and the attorneys for the Northern Securities company have agreed that evidence taken in the federal case and in the Power case may be admitted to the record of the state's case, and the hearing set for Nov. 13 in New York City.

It is expected that the taking of evidence in the east will be completed before any witnesses are heard in the west.

CUTTING DOWN ITS DEBTS

CAPITOL FREEHOLD DEBENTURES BEING GRADUALLY RETIRED.

Annual Report of the Company Indicates a Fairly Satisfactory State of Affairs — Lake Street Elevated Is Spending Considerable Money in Improvements—Local Stock Market Moderately Active, but the Movement of Prices Is Irregular.

The sixteenth annual meeting of the Capitol Freehold Land and Investment company, the corporation organized by C. B. and J. V. Farwell in 1885 for the purpose of acquiring and developing about 3,000,000 acres of land in Texas, and in which considerable Chicago capital is still invested, was held in London recently.

The chairman stated that the position of the company was much as it had been since the directors arranged with the syndicate to take the property on lease. This lease was executed in 1895, Farwell & Co. taking the property under such an arrangement and agreeing to provide all funds necessary to meet interest requirements and general expenses. The accounts rendered to the stockholders each year are merely for the purpose of showing that the conditions of the lease are being fully carried out.

The chairman of the meeting just held said that the developments of the last year were more encouraging than had been those of some previous years. Up to a short time ago, he continued, a sale of land in the state of Texas was almost an impossibility, but, as disclosed in the report for the last fiscal year, sales have taken place of a large amount of land, and the company has been enabled to have drawings of debentures for £70,000 and £40,000. In addition to this, sufficient remittances have been received in the last few weeks to make possible further drawings for £110,000.

Takes Cheerful View.

"We see that our property is becoming a realizable asset," said the chairman, "and that we are within reasonable distance of being able to realize the amount of money necessary to pay off the debentures. That, of course, will be satisfactory to those who are interested in the debenture issue, and it will also be satisfactory, I think, to the shareholders, as showing that, at all events, there is an ultimate prospect of the debentures being paid off and leaving some balance for the shareholders, who have been for so many years put off with hopes that have not been realizable. We now seem to have arrived at a better state of affairs, and the property which has for so long been lying dead is now being to a large extent converted into money. That, I think, is encouraging, and we have every reason to be satisfied.

"There is nothing new to disclose to the shareholders. The terms of the agreement between ourselves and the syndicate are being strictly adhered to. The syndicate has put us in funds, always in proper time, to pay the interest, and also supplied the means for defraying the expenses of the company."

Edward M. Denny and Abner Taylor, the retiring directors, were reelected.

Lake Street Borrows Money.

President Clarence Buckingham of the Northwestern Elevated denied yesterday that his company had made a loan of between $500,000 and $600,000 to the Lake Street Elevated for the purpose of assisting the latter company to make some extensive improvements. He said that some time ago the Northwestern had loaned the Lake Street road some money with which to put in the third rail improvement, but the amount was comparatively small. The larger part of the expenditures now being made by the Lake Street road is for new cars, the cost of these being about $350,000. The structure is also being painted and other improvements made. It is understood that while possibly this money may not have come direct from the Northwestern Elevated, it was furnished by interests connected with that corporation and that consequently the grip of the Northwestern Elevated on the Lake Street has been made tighter.

Atchison Makes Better Showing.

Officials of the Atchison say that the October earnings of the road will make a decidedly better showing than did those for September. For the first two weeks of the current month there has been a gain of nearly $200,000 as compared with the corresponding period last year, and the feeling is that for the remainder of the year the system will be able at least to maintain the record made in 1901. The road is suffering considerably from a shortage of cars. It is said that recently it has been fully 1,500 cars a day behind in its orders. Traffic has increased materially of late and corn is expected to move in much greater volume from now on.

Big Four Election.

At the annual meeting of the Big Four stockholders yesterday the following directors were elected for a term of three years: W. P. Bliss, J. D. Layng, H. McK. Twombley, and F. W. Vanderbilt, all of New York. The holdover directors are: W. K. Vanderbilt, Chauncey M. Depew, W. H. Newman, J. Pierpont Morgan, and Alexander McDonald of New York. James Barnett of Cleveland, and M. E. Ingalls of Cincinnati.

Great Northern Paper Earnings.

It is reported that the Great Northern Paper company, the principal competitor of the International Paper company, is showing net earnings of about $600,000 a year, which is equal to 9 per cent on the $5,000,000 of stock outstanding after the payment of fixed charges of $150,000 upon $3,000,000 of 5 per cent bonds. The paper mills of the company have a daily output of 300 tons of news print, 300 tons of ground wood pulp, and 100 tons of sulphite fiber. A sinking fund of $2.50 per 1,000 feet of timber cut is provided for the retirement of the bonds. The company is not paying dividends, placing all net earnings into working capital.

General Financial News.

The temporary appointment of C. G. Parker as receiver of the New Jersey Chemical company has been made permanent.

Action has been begun in the Supreme court of Brooklyn by A. A. Hutchinson against John A. Young as treasurer of the National Salt company to recover $19,937.3.

Local Stock Market.

The action of the market for Union Traction stock yesterday did not indicate a feeling of much concern on the part of holders of that security over the report that the company was likely to be put into the hands of a receiver. Total sales amounted to only 200 shares of the common and ten shares of the preferred, the common selling at 16½ and the preferred at 48. These quotations are practically the same as those made on the preceding day.

Boxboard was traded in on quite an extensive scale, and in the early dealings the stock showed considerable strength. During the afternoon, however, there was some reaction, due partly to a profit taking movement, and partly to the sharp decline of the Wall street market.

Swift & Co. lost about a point to 154. Biscuit also showed further weakness, the common going off to 45¼, and closing at that. The other industrial stocks traded in showed little change.

Metropolitan Elevated was active, and the market for both the common and preferred was firmly held. Lake Street Elevated was steady at 9⅞.

IN FOREIGN MONEY MARKETS.

General Tendency of Cash, Bonds, and Other Securities at London, Paris, and Berlin.

LONDON, Oct. 29.—The demand for money was brisk today on prospects of increasing indebtedness to the Bank of England and the strength of discounts, which did not affect continental exchanges.

Business on the stock exchange was inactive and the tone was undecided. Gilt edged securities were dull and there was some liquidation. Home rails improved, stimulated by good traffic returns. Americans opened irregular and improved slightly to above parity, but the dealings were light. Prices closed steady.

BEAR RAID IN MARKET.

WALL STREET PRICES SLUMP ON HEAVY OFFERINGS.

Huge Blocks of Stocks Thrown Into Pit at Same Instant Start Big Break That Forces Much Selling—Gates' Interests Said to Have Been Forced to Liquidate — Attack Directed Against Western Speculators—Steel Stocks Among the Strongest.

[BY A SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 29.—[Special.]—Great weakness developed in the market today between 1 and 2 o'clock, when selling orders of 5,000 share blocks each were put into the market at the same instant. These were in Norfolk and Western, Reading, Baltimore and Ohio, Southern Pacific, and Union Pacific, and United States Steel.

These heavy orders started a break in prices, which was accelerated by stop loss orders and other selling for the long and short account. Gates' brokers appeared also as sellers. One story is that the raid was designed for the purpose of forcing liquidation from this quarter.

Favorable news or developments were either ignored or overlooked, London's purchases of stocks to a total of fully 25,000 shares, the payment by the subtreasury on San Francisco account of $2,200,000 for gold deposited at Pacific coast points, and several favorable statements of railway earnings receiving little or no attention.

Among the bear arguments were the probability of gold exports, the growing chances of democratic success in the coming elections, the apparent discontent of labor throughout the country, and the consequent fears of further serious labor troubles, especially among the western railroad men.

In respect to the political situation the more liberal offerings of democratic money at reduced odds were made much of by the bears, who affected to see in this a decided change in sentiment. The money offered on the democratic candidates came from the bears who were so loudly talking about it.

Best opinion in the street today was that the Gates interests had been forced to liquidate a considerable line of stock, and that some of their erstwhile associates had offered stocks down to as low a level as they possibly could.

Whatever there may be in this story, the evidences are that much of today's selling—though whether forced or voluntary cannot be said—was by the Gates people. Stocks in which Mr. Gates has latterly been most interested were the weakest on the list, these including Norfolk and Western, Baltimore and Ohio, Louisville and Nashville, and Illinois Central.

Some of the selling of the St. Paul and Union Pacific was also credited to these same interests, and it is believed they may have had a hand in the selling of Colorado Fuel.

The steel trust shares were among the strongest stocks on the list, declinig only fractionally. This strength was due to syndicate support.

The break of over 3 points in St. Paul came in the face of the September statement of earnings showing an increase in gross of $262,700 and in net of $174,300. The selling was said to be largely by the Gates interests and caused by the generally admitted fact that no action will be taken at tomorrow's meeting looking to any new stock issue.

Though the coal stocks were weak there was no pressure to sell, except in the case of Reading, whose unfavorable statement of earnings had a depressing effect. The decline of 6 points in Delaware and Hudson was on the offering of 600 shares, while Lackawanna fell 3 points on the transfer of 200 shares.

Boston interests were said to be the heaviest sellers of sugar.

Texas Pacific was one of the strongest stocks on the list, selling up at one time 1¾ points and closing the day for a loss of only ¼. The buying was by a stock exchange house which often does business for the Gould interests, and was designed to facilitate sales of Missouri Pacific, which was weak.

The street was at a loss to determine the source of the selling in Colorado Fuel, which at one time broke 3¾ points from the high figure, and closed at a net decline of 2¼. It was said that the people there endeavoring to force a decline in order to buy stock cheaply, while in other quarters it was declared that they had been obliged to part with some of their remaining stock in order to protect themselves elsewhere.

IN THE BOSTON MONEY MARKET.

BOSTON, Mass., Oct. 29.—[Special.]—The bull movement in the copper shares came to a halt today, but not until Copper Range touched 65, thus keeping pace with the price of Amalgamated. The movement in Centennial was again quite large, but the price did not advance above 20. The selling movement in Wall street brought about a sympathetic reaction in the afternoon.

The movement in Copper Range is a Lawson movement. The theory is that the property will go to the Amalgamated company.

CHICAGO LIVE STOCK MARKETS.

Movement of Cattle, Hogs, Sheep, and Lambs, with the Range of Prices and Comparisons.

Included in the receipts of 21,000 cattle here yesterday was a fairly liberal showing of fair to good fat cattle. The market was steady early, but closed weak to a dime lower. There was a heavy run of light steers not fit for feeders or dressed beef trade. Range cattle numbered about 4,000, and the market was steady for all good kinds. The early activity in the butcher stock trade was followed by a weak close. There was a fair inquiry for good stock cattle, but common kinds were a drug.

Hog receipts decreased from 20,000 to 23,000. The market opened 5c to 10c higher, and bulk sold at the advance, but the close was weak. The top was $6.80.

Sheep receipts were estimated at 35,000. The lamb trade was strong to 10c higher, but sheep were only steady. Two lots of lambs sold at $5.60, the top for the week.

Cattle.

Delayed trains were a disturbing factor on the cattle market yesterday. Receipts were estimated at 21,000, with 50,000 at the five river markets. The supply included about 4,000 westerns and in the native division there was a liberal showing of fat steers. Sales of choice grades of steers included a smooth lot of Iowa fed blacks averaging around 1,400 lbs that sold at $4.25, the top price for the day, and another lot from the same bunch at $8.00. The market was not lively at any time in the forenoon, but early sales were at prices fully steady with Monday and a shade better than late last week.

There was no lack of medium and common stuff and these classes were not better than steady and sold slow at that. Early trade in the butcher stock line was active and prices steady to firm, but later, when the delayed trains had all reported, there was a lower turn to the trade. Canning and cutting stock is meeting a slightly better demand. Quotations:

Hogs.

While there is a liberal movement of hogs, there is a tendency toward an improvement in quality, and though not many finished weighty loads are coming there is a larger proportion of nice young stock weighing around 200 to 230 lbs than were arriving a few weeks ago. Trade opened 5@10c higher yesterday, but was largely of a speculative character and would not hold up. Late arrival of trains helped sustain the market early, but a large proportion of the supplies got in after 8:30, and from that time the market grew weaker. Heavy packers were slow sellers early, the big packers holding aloof from the advance. Early orders for bacon weights were also of a limited character. Prime strong weight, medium, and heavy butchers sold at $6.75@6.80, the latter being the top price. Quotations:

Good to prime, 190@245 lbs	6.50@6.75
Assorted light, 180@180 lbs	6.15@6.60
Common to good, 150@190 lbs	6.45@6.60
Light mixed, 160@200 lbs	6.35@6.55
Pigs	4.75@6.10

Sheep.

A small run of native lambs resulted in recoveries from last week's slump. The bulk of trade was strong to 10c higher, and in some cases 15c higher, the general advance being 15@25c over Monday's prices. A strictly fancy sorted bunch brought $5.60, but a straight load of 141 head of Wisconsins at $5.50 was even stronger, the same kind having sold at $5.25 on Monday. Medium lambs were strong to a little higher. There was a sharp contraction in the supply compared with last week. Native sheep were steady, and it was a good, active market. In the western division values were irregular, some sales being a shade easier, others steady, while there were instances of 10c higher being paid. A load of fed westerns sold at $5.60, and others direct sold at $4.80@5.00. Best feeding lambs brought $4.25@4.35.

FROM THE INSURANCE FIELD.

Fire Patrol Completes Figures on Premium Receipts for First Six Months of Year.

The fire insurance patrol has completed its figures on the premium receipts in the city for the first six months of 1902. They are $4,176,688, against $3,449,212 in the corresponding six months of 1901. The stockyards premiums are figured separately, and are $168,467.

The recent increases in schedules are having their effect, and the premiums for 1902 are now estimated at $8,500,000.

An official of the Chicago Underwriters' association said yesterday that the losses for the first six months were $2,700,000 and up to date were $4,000,000. As the heaviest losses usually come in November and December, this indicates losses of over $5,000,000 for the year and a loss ratio of over 60 per cent, which would preclude all chance of profit, as high commissions push the expense ratio up to 40 per cent.

Work has begun on the additional story on the Royal Insurance building for the use of the western departments of the Royal and the Queen insurance companies.

The quarterly report of the electrical bureau of the national board of fire underwriters' records reports of 124 electrical fires, with a loss of $132,600, and of 124 fires, with an aggregate loss of $1,633,206, which are supposed to have been due to electricity, but in which the conclusive evidence of their sources were destroyed.

Miss J. R. Cross of the Title and Trust branch of the New York Life in this city stood third among the agents of the company in the number of applications in September, being the only woman among the ten leaders. W. E. Poulson of the Fisher building branch was third in volume of business.

The dearth of insurance facilities has stimulated the organization of new companies in addition to the Lloyds and the wildcats. Three stock companies, with capitals of $100,000 and over, are in process of organization in Chicago, and the Merchants' of St. Louis has been chartered.

NEWS OF THE RAILWAYS.

ROADS ABANDON THE EFFORT TO ABOLISH FREE PASSES.

After a Year's Struggle with the Problem the Executive Officers of the Western Lines Decide That No Solution Is in Sight at Present—Rumor of Hill's Attack on the Rock Island Is Upset—Other Affairs of the Track.

The movement to abolish the issue of all free passes, inaugurated a year ago, has been abandoned. It develops that the meeting of the executive officers of the western roads, held in St. Louis the day before yesterday, after considering the question of issuing passes for 1903, decided to reaffirm the old anti-pass agreement, which permits the issue of free passes, with certain unimportant restrictions, to almost everybody.

Vice President Harahan of the Illinois Central was one of the few executive officials who urged that no free passes be issued during 1903, except in a few stipulated cases, but he was met with the assertion that such action would do no good, as past experience has proven that a number of roads would issue passes regardless of any agreement that might be adopted, and it was argued that better results could be obtained by having free passes issued only by the chief executive officials of the various roads.

The failure of the trunk lines strictly to enforce the agreement, made at the beginning of this year, not to issue any exchange passes, was used as an argument against the entire abolition of free passes.

There was some doubt as to whether the trunk lines would renew the agreement not to issue exchange passes, and it was deemed advisable to ascertain what the trunk lines proposed to do in the matter, so as to make similar restrictions in the issue of passes to traveling agents and line officers by the western roads in eastern territory as were made by the eastern trunk lines in western territory. A committee was appointed to confer with the trunk lines on this matter.

St. Paul Story Upset.

Official notice was issued yesterday by the passenger department of the Burlington that, owing to the completion of the Cedar Rapids and Northern division of the Rock Island between Albert Lea and the Twin Cities, the joint passenger service of the Burlington route and the Rock Island system between St. Louis and St. Paul and Minneapolis will be conducted north of Albert Lea on and after Nov. 2 over this new extension, or, in other words, over the Rock Island system north of Burlington. This disposes of the story sent out from St. Paul that, owing to jealousies between the two companies, their joint service between St. Louis and St. Paul would be terminated.

Effort to Placate Minority.

It is said that the majority owners of the Atlantic coast line are willing to make any fair proposition to the minority stockholders in Louisville and Nashville for the purchase of the latter's stock. The Atlantic coast line people do not desire any suit and steps are being taken to bring about a proposition satisfactory to the Louisville and Nashville minority holders, although the proposition itself must come from the Louisville and Nashville people.

It is said that the Seaboard Air Line made an offer of 7 per cent for the Louisville and Nashville and the Seaboard insiders, knowing of such a proposition, were heavy buyers of Louisville and Nashville.

They will not dispose of that stock unless they get a big price for it.

Good Showing by St. Paul.

The Milwaukee and St. Paul railroad made a splendid record for the month of September. The statement issued yesterday shows a large increase both in gross and net earnings. The figures for September and for the three months ended Sept. 30 were as follows:

Mo. of Sept.	1902.	1901.	Increase.
Oper. expenses	2,889,306	2,770,930	118,376
Net	1,553,909	1,275,563	174,346
Three months ended Sept. 30:
Gross	12,069,681	11,696,589	372,092
Oper. expenses	7,621,074	7,505,124	115,950
Net	4,447,607	4,191,465	256,142

EARNINGS OF READING SMALL.

Net Loss for September Is $1,009,387 and About $10,000,000 for Half Year.

New York, Oct. 29.—[Special.]—The September statement of earnings of the Reading railway company and of the Reading Coal and Iron company combined shows a gross decrease of $2,645,006, compared with 1901. The coal and iron company receipts for the month were only $115,316, against $2,304,213 a year ago. The net loss was $1,009,387.

This is the most striking illustration of the loss of profits by the coal carrying roads since the strike began. In the months of July, August, and September, the Reading companies lost in gross $7,328,903. Of this amount the coal company was responsible for a reduction of about $6,000,000. The net decrease for the same period was $2,427,195.

It is estimated that with the May and June losses and those of this month the Reading earnings have contracted in the half year approximately $10,000,000.

The northwest corner of Davis street and Oak avenue, 100x150 feet, has been sold by Mrs. Lucy M. Ayars to Frank R. Kirkham for $15,000. The old style frame dwelling on the site is to be demolished to make room for a modern apartment house costing $30,000.

CANAL BOND ISSUE VOTED

BOARD DECIDES TO BORROW $1,500,000 FOR RIVER WORK.

Money Will Be Used to Build Bridges and to Widen the South Branch—Norton Mill and Site at Madison Street Bought for $235,000—Lieutenants of Fire Department Apply for Increase of Pay—Violators of Plumbing Ordinance Fined.

An issue of $1,500,000 worth of bonds was voted by the drainage board yesterday, the money to be used in the construction of bascule bridges and the widening of the river. The bonds will be dated Dec. 1, 1902, will bear 4 per cent interest, and one-twentieth of the issue will be payable annually. The board will open bids for the sale of the bonds on Wednesday, Nov. 19.

The board purchased the plant and property of the Norton Milling company at Madison street bridge for $235,000. The building will be torn down and the land used in widening the river at that point. When negotiations were first begun the price asked for the property and damages was $400,000. The sanitary district threatened to acquire the property by condemnation, and the owners finally accepted the offer of $235,000. The tract contains 5,100 square feet, fronting on the river. The sum paid for land and damages was $178,762, leaving $51,238 on the building and machinery. The board also purchased 9,000 square feet of land, near Main street bridge, from the trustees of the Benjamin S. Rotch estate for river improvement purposes. The price paid was $5,825.

Fire Lieutenants Ask a Raise.

Lieutenants of the fire department, who rank next lower than captains and are superior in rank to engineers, will petition the council to raise their salaries. The engineers, who are under their orders, draw more pay. The officers went first to Fire Marshal Musham, and with his permission called on the mayor.

Fined for Bad Plumbing.

A number of cases were called in Justice Gibbons' court in which violators of the ordinances regarding plumbing were made defendants. The fines imposed are as follows:

E. J. Herbolt, 823 West Forty-seventh street; $20 and costs.

MILLING DIFFERENCE

The machine leaves nothing to chance.

Quaker OATS

Best of the Best

Costs you no more than oats which are not as wholesome, and which have not been milled as carefully. Quaker Oats is just as easy to get. You have only to say "Quaker" distinctly.

FLAVOR DIFFERENCE

GRAIN DIFFERENCE

To supply the needs of the Quaker mills we must search the country far and wide.

We watch where the good oats grow. For even as it grown the difference begins.

Sun may shrivel—or too much rain spoil the crop. But where the crop is best, we are there to choose the best of the best.

Quaker OATS

Best grain.
